Money for South America.
Balm in Gilead.
Bribery on Solid Basis.
Mussolini Speaks.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

(Copyright, 1928.)

HERBERT HOOVER, talking to our friends in Chile, urges the use of United States loans to develop South American countries. That is wise advice, useful to the United States.

If some of the billions lent to Europe since the war ended, some of them used for war preparations over there, had been lent to South America it might be better for us, for South America and for Europe.

IT IS not pleasant to read of an attack on Mr. Hoover planned by anarchists in the Argentine. It is not possible to understand such an insanely criminal attempt.

However, Mr. Hoover will proceed on his way, attending to the business in hand. His work as a young engineer in China and elsewhere long ago proves that fear plays a small part in his makeup.

STEEL, Motors, and "the Coppers" were the little children that led the Wall Street market up yesterday. Radio bounced back to 312, going as high as 330. Lambs still left clinging to the ticker decided that there might be balm in Gilead, after all.

NEW YORK thinks 10 out of 12 on a jury should be allowed to convict, no matter what the other two might do. A criminal on trial, if prosperous, may "influence" two. If ten could convict it would make it less easy to "fix" a jury. That's the theory.

Jury-fixing is a prosperous industry in New York, AND elsewhere.

WALL STREET believes that Packard and Chrysler, both big and successful, will combine and establish another gigantic fighting automobile unit.

The individual manufacturer will soon feel like Gulliver among the Brobdinagians, whose smallest child can hold the traveling Englishman on the end of one finger.

However, brains and energy count, even among giants. The right kind of "independent" will find and maintain his place.

PROHIBITION and bootlegging have pretty well established bribe giving and taking as a regular institution.

COUNT that day lost in Italy, whose low descending sun finds Mussolini without a new idea. But there are few such days. At present he rebukes "imbecile optimism" as Italy's greatest peril.

What would he say about this country, where imbecile optimism piles up gold in billions, like a Strassburg goose laying on fat, but provides no protection against an enemy that might decide to eat the goose?

MUSSOLINI, offering a prize for big families, says the rich disgrace themselves by having so few children and calls the poor "Italy's hope."

Why worry about the childless rich as long as the poor have children? The rich that amount to anything originally came from poor people ever since the days of Romulus and Remus, and farther back to Adam and Eve.

It is better for those that do not want children not to have them, better for them, better for the world. What you do unwillingly is not done well.

THE King's "surgeon-apothecary," who still retains the old-fashioned title, performed an operation on his majesty yesterday, encouraged perhaps by the Prince of Wales upon his return. A poisonous fluid was drawn from the base of the right lung and doctors announce that "further drainings will be necessary."

That "purulent fluid" has been poisoning and weakening the King's heart for days. The public clings to "signs of slight improvement" but with faint hope.

A NEGRO boy, 16 years old, barricading himself in a Chicago flat, wounded eight policemen. Finally a police squad, protected by bullet-proof shields, invading the flat, tore the young fighter to death with lead. He was probably insane.

THE individual's instinct of self-preservation protects human society as a whole. Each one wants to live, and fears to do anything that will end his life. When insanity, ambition, rage or jealousy wipes out the instinct of self-preservation, a man becomes dangerous.

BOLIVIA calls her young men to arms, orders them into training to fight.

It is hard to keep men and nations from fighting when their minds are made up.

FRENCH newspapers rejoice that the League of Nations will intervene in the dispute between Paraguay and Bolivia.

The league, snubbed by Mussolini and others near home, might gain prestige if it could do something in America.

THIS country will approve anything that means peace instead of war.

But let us be thankful that the League of Nations can't come to North America to tell us what we must or must not do. And let's hope there won't be any world court or other kind to change that situation.

KING HOLDING HIS OWN AFTER 2 OPERATIONS

RAIN MAY END 2-DAY FOG PALL

Rain early tomorrow will liberate the city from the fog in which it has groped for two days, Weather Forecaster W. S. Brotzman predicted late today.

The murk, to which two fatal traffic accidents had been attributed, should be dissipated by noon tomorrow, Brotzman believed.

RAIN ON WAY

This would be accomplished, he said, by rain which was moving over Missouri. Its course should bring it over Pittsburgh some time during the morning, and with it will come wind.

The blanket over Western Pennsylvania today was as dense as Wednesday, if not more so, Brotzman said. It was his opinion that until the wind came the fog would continue.

Charles Kay, of 353 Atwood street, Oakland, driver of the car which struck and killed Charles Whitcomb, 10, of Forest Hills, in Ardmore boulevard, said the fog had obscured his vision. The boy died last night in Columbia Hospital.

KILLED ON RAMP

Charles Lucot, 48, of 135 Wabash avenue, a city employe, was found unconscious on the Duquesne way ramp and died last night in Allegheny General Hospital. The police believe he was struck by an auto whose driver, hampered by fog, failed to realize what had happened and did not stop.

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—(INS.)—Mrs. Annabel Kennedy, who says she married Attorney George E. Kennedy in Grand Rapids in 1918, today stands temporarily balked in her effort to enjoin Agnes E. Doyle from living with her husband as his wife, as she charges, in the exclusive West Islip colony. Miss Doyle failed to appear in Supreme Court for examination in the injunction action and is being sought today.

CHICAGO, Dec. 13.—(AP.)—The Chicago bank holdings of James A. Patten, late Board of Trade figure, are worth more than $7,500,000 at current market prices, it was reported today. This was reported a small part of the "wheat king's" estate, estmated as high as $30,000,000. The contents of Mr. Patten's will remained undisclosed.

GROVER WHALEN

WARREN QUITS AS NEW YORK POLICE HEAD

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—Police Commissioner Joseph A. Warren sent his resignation to Mayor Walker, who has returned it as unsatisfactory. It was to take effect not later than December 31.

Warren sent his resignation to City Hall yesterday, shortly after denying he would take such a step, because of criticism directed at him in connection with the Rothstein case.

WHALEN TOUTED

Grover A. Whalen, chairman of the Mayor's reception committee, is favored to succeed Warren if he can be induced to give up his $100,000-a-year position as general manager of the John Wanamaker store in New York for the $10,000 police commissioner's job.

Questioning of Bridget Fahey, chambermaid at the Park Central Hotel, where Arnold Rothstein was shot November 4, today featured the investigation of the gambler's slaying.

CLAIMS TO KNOW KILLER

District Attorney Joab Banton was to grill the maid concerning her utterance in court yesterday that she knew who killed Rothstein and "was going to squeal on him."

Federal authorities today continued their efforts to uncover Rothstein's connection with an international drug ring. Three wealthy men and two chorus girls are being sought for questioning.

Federal Judge Simon L. Adler, at Buffalo, today adjourned the hearing of Joseph Unger, indicted by the New York grand jury for violations of the Harrison Narcotic law until 2 p. m., tomorrow.

R. R. Head, Ill, Quits; Wife Succeeds Him

DURHAM, N. C., Dec. 13.—(AP.)—Mrs. Benjamin N. Duke is to succeed her husband as director of the Durham and Southern Railway. He has resigned as president and director because of ill health.

TAX RATES HERE NOT RAISED

City and county taxes for 1929 will be the same as the current year.

Council today fixed the city rate at $2.50 per $100 valuation on land and $1.25 per $100 valuation on buildings, or 25 and 12½ mills, the present rate.

The Commissioners set the county levy at 73¾ cents per $100 valuation in Pittsburgh and 88¾ cents per $100 valuation in the county outside of the city, the difference being due to the poor tax that is not collected within the city limits. Expressed in mills, the county rate is 7⅜ in Pittsburgh and 8⅞ in the rest of the county.

The city's estimated expenditures, as revised by Council, total about $25,333,000 or $555,000 in excess of the estimated revenue based on the tax levy.

Members of Council declared they realized the tax rate would not be adequate to meet estimated expenses as they now appear and that it would be necessary to continue budget sessions until the $555,000 excess was eliminated or additional sources of revenue discovered.

ECONOMY WARNING

A warning was sounded that the situation called for a careful administration of finances by department heads and a close scrutiny by Council of all appropriation authorizations throughout the year.

Thomas C. McMahon, chief property assessor, on motion of John S. Herron, was authorized to incur expense for extra clerks and other items in order to get the assessors' books in shape to turn over to the city treasurer in time to begin the collection of taxes the first week in January.

The county levy is divided as follows: General county purposes, 2¼

MRS. KEN STRONG

STRAIN ON HEART ABATES

International News Service.

LONDON, Dec. 13.—King George was more than holding his own in his grim fight for life late this afternoon.

But, while the attending doctors and the royal family were encouraged, it was admitted in authoritative quarters that the King is passing through the worst crisis since he took sick more than three weeks ago.

After two of the royal physicians, Sir Stanley Hewitt and Lord Dawson of Penn, visited Buckingham Palace at 2:30, it was officially stated by a palace attendant that the King was making progress.

FEVER REMAINS

The patient's temperature was still above normal.

The doctors were hopeful that the draining of pus from the base of the right lung would alleviate the weakened condition of the heart.

WALES AT PALACE

Queen Mary left the palace shortly before the 2:30 o'clock statement for a motor drive. She had luncheon with the Prince of Wales, who drove to Buckingham Palace about noon. Princess Mary also drove from the palace some time after the Prince of Wales had left.

Emphasis was laid in palace circles today on the fact that the struggle which the King faces was likely to be a hard and difficult one.

That weakness was certain to re-

2 PLEAD GUILTY IN RUM CASE

A defendant and a government witness in the North Side rum conspiracy case pleaded guilty in Federal Court today.

Joseph Kirzmanich, the witness, was fined $10 and his citizenship was revoked by Judge R. M. Gibson. He was charged with having obtained his citizenship papers by fraud. It was testified that nine days before he filed his petition for citizenship on January 29, 1925, he had been fined $300 in Federal Court for violating the prohibition act. In filing his papers he stated he had never been arrested or charged with violating the country's laws. Records show he served a term in the federal prison at Atlanta, having been sentenced in Cleveland.

Bennie Shor, a North Side defendant, with his wife, Minnie, pleaded guilty to violating the prohibition laws. Shor was fined $250 and his wife $50.

U. M. W. LEADERS AT COAL MEET

Philip Murray, international vice president, and Patrick T. Fagan, president of District No. 5, of the United Mine Workers of America, will leave for Washington tonight to attend hearings of the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee on a bill to regulate the coal industry.

The bill, introduced by Senator James E. Watson, of Indiana, chairman of the committee, is the outcome of the Senate investigation of the coal strike last spring. The measure calls for governmental supervision of the industry with a view to the elimination of harmful competition and recurrent labor troubles.

Fagan said today the United Mine Workers' officials hoped to present a case strong enough to win favorable action on the bill—if not at this session of Congress, then at the next session.

It is understood that coal operators for the most part are hostile to the measure.

SUSPEND CLASSES TO CURB ILLNESS

Doctors Report Flu Here as Mild Type

The present form of influenza is mild and need hold no terrors for those willing to observe the simplest precautions, local health and medical authorities declare.

Dr. G. Walter Zulauf, superintendent of the Allegheny General Hospital, warns victims not to leave their beds until there is no question of their having recovered. Otherwise, he said, they ran the risk of relapse.

"The disease, as noted at the Allegheny General Hospital," said Dr. Zulauf, "is mild. Marked improvement is noted in two days, and recovery is rapid—unless the patients get up too soon."

Dr. Daniel E. Sable, police surgeon, termed the present type of "flu" as nothing more than a variety of severe cold.

The University of Pittsburgh discontinued classes and dismissed the students today as a precautionary measure to prevent the spread of influenza.

Suspension of work was ordered by the board of trustees after the deans of 10 undergraduate schools had reported from 17 to 25 per cent of the students were absent on account of illness.

The order affects all departments, including the downtown night and day classes and the professional schools.

TUESDAY CLOSING DATE

The university would ordinarily have closed Tuesday for the Christmas holidays. The vacation period ends January 2.

The deans met with Dr. J. S. Gow, assistant to Chancellor John G. Bowman, at the University Club this morning and made their reports. They recommended that classes be dismissed, and the proposal was approved by the board of trustees almost immediately. Most classes were dismissed shortly before noon.

Charles E. Dickey, superintendent of Allegheny County schools, reported that no schools have been closed because of sickness. Many pupils are absent because of colds, he said, and several are suspected of having influenza.

VERONA TEACHERS ILL

The prevalence of colds was most marked, Dickey said, in Verona. In several of the lower grades there between 25 and 40 per cent of the children were absent Tuesday. Three of the 10 teachers in the Verona High School were absent on that day.

They announced their engagement a week ago, but said at that time they would be married in June, after Ken had been graduated. Their marriage yesterday was a surprise even to members of their immediate families.

Miss Hunneman, whose stage name is Rella Harrison, and Strong met at the junior prom last year. She has appeared in several Broadway productions.

In applying for the license Strong gave his age as 22 and occupation as a salesman. His bride is the same age.

schools, estimated that about 10 per cent of the pupils were absent. Children who showed signs of illness were advised, he said, to stay at home. The Catholic High School reported 15 per cent of the students absent, as against a normal ratio of only about two per cent.

FUMIGATE POLICE STATIONS

None of the police or firemen has influenza, Dr. Daniel E. Sable, public safety department physician said, and few have colds.

Superintendent of Police Peter P. Walsh today issued an order to police inspectors to fumigate station houses twice a day, as a precautionary measure against the spread of influenza. The order directs janitors to especially clean quarters in station houses where men are given overnight lodgings. As many as 25 to 75 men are lodged in some of the station houses some nights.

All of Pittsburgh's 36 public school physicians, with the 20 school nurses and 20 assistant nurses, were directed today to devote themselves exclusively to combating the diseases. Doctors said there is no reason for alarm, but every precaution should be exercised.

Hospitals today are taking steps to curtail visiting hours as a precaution against a general infection of patients and nurses.

25 PER CENT ILL AT TECH

Carnegie Institute of Technology is closed until after the Christmas vacation, a course decided upon after a survey revealed that 25 per cent of its students were absent due to colds and influenza.

The City Home and Hospital at Mayview will be placed under quarantine at the close of Sunday's visiting hour.

The Board of Education's steps toward checking the threatened epidemic were decided upon at a conference of Dr. W. M. Davidson, superintendent of schools, with Dr. A. M. Kerr, superivsor of medical service; Dr. Harry B. Burns, director of hygiene; Dr. H. J. Benz, superintendent of the Bureau of Child Welfare, and Dr. Philip E. CITY, COUNTY TAXES NOT RAISED mills; road, 1½ mills; parks, ⅜ mills; bond and interest, 3¼ mills, and poor, 1½ mills.

COMPLETE BUDGET

After setting the tax rate today, the County Commissioners completed work on the general county budget, leaving only the appropriations of the Department of Public Works and salary increases to be considered. The budget sessions may be resumed tomorrow morning.

More than $68,000 was clipped from departmental and bureau requests in the general budget which affects about 40 separate branches of the government in addition to a score of miscellaneous appropriations. The requests as far as this section of the budget was concerned were $212,990 under the total asked for the same purposes a year ago, making the actual reduction $271,697 even if all requests for salary boosts are granted, which is doubtful.

BIG INCREASE ASKED

The requests for the Department of Public Works, still to be considered, are $180,574 under the amount set aside for the same purpose last year. The big increase asked this year is in the bond and interest appropriation. Last year $5,989,542 was appropriated for that purpose, while $7,089,589 is asked this year.

Today the Commissioners gave the mothers' assistance fund $224,713.20. The state will send a like amount to this county. They were informed that 834 families are being taken care of, the fund's salary roll being about 10 per cent of the total appropriation.

Thorn Hill School was given $5,000 for the purpose of drilling a new oil well. The wells on the property bring an income of from $5,000 to $15,000 a year, the gas being used by the school and the oil sold.

COLDS DECLARED EASY TO PREVENT AND CURE

Advice for the prevention and cure of colds, prepared by Dr. W. M. Holtz, medical director of the Philadelphia Company, for the employes, is pointed out today as deserving of widespread attention.

"Simple treatment for a cold is not hard to follow and may stop its development. Drink plenty of water, a glass every hour, in which a level half teaspoonful of bicarbonate of soda has been dissolved. Before going to bed take a hot drink, such as lemonade or milk, and bathe the feet in hot water to bring the blood back to the surface. A cathartic, such as caster oil or epsom salts, should be taken to induce elimination of body poisons.

"If no marked improvement in 24 hours is noted, your safest plan is to consult a doctor, because many serious illnesses start with what is considered 'only a cold.'

Dr. Holtz says:

"The most common sickness is the common cold.

"In Pittsburgh, where pneumonia is a reportable disease, the Department of Health finds that in 80 per cent of all pneumonia cases there was a preceding cold.

"Colds can be prevented. It requires only ordinary precautions.

"Fatigue, due to insufficient rest, plus exposure—chilling of the body, poor ventilation, wet feet or wet clothing—plus infection by the cold germs—

"This combination is the common cause of the cold.

TREATING COLDS

"Avoid contact with persons coughing or sneezing and with objects handled by such persons.

"Shaking hands is a splendid way to spread a cold.

COLD PREVENTION

"1. Cold sponge bath three minutes each morning.

"2. Avoid persons with colds.

"3. Drink eight glasses of water each day.

"4. Regulate system.

"5. Avoid over-eating.

"6. Get plenty of sleep.

"7. Keep feet dry."

KING IMPROVED FOLLOWING OPERATION

sult from his two operations was one of the grave considerations the doctors had to weigh before performing the operations.

The morning medical bulletin today stated that the King had had some sleep during the night, that his pulse was steady, and that he "was not losing ground."

The bulletin read:

"The King had some sleep during the night. Despite weakness and considerable toxemia, His Majesty's pulse remains steady and he is not losing ground."

The bulletin was signed by Sir Stanley Hewett, Sir Hugh Rigby and Lord Dawson, of Penn. It was timed 10:45 a. m.

1,500 POLICE TO GUARD HOOVER

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Dec. 13.—(AP.)—While police today were holding Alejandro Scarson and Jaime Gomez Oliver, accused of plotting against the life of President-elect Hoover, the government's clockwork like organization for the protection of the Hoover party began functioning this morning in anticipation of its arrival.

Police Chief Col. Graneros mobilized 1,500 Buenos Aires police, including the entire strength of the detective force, and in addition had under his command strong detachments of military and naval forces from nearby arsenals and navy yard.

DUE IN EVENING

Mr. Hoover's arrival, expected some time between 6:30 p. m. and 7, will be the signal for clearing the Central Argentine Railway Station of all persons without official status and a cordon of the police and military forces will keep the crowds from approaching the station gates until after the departure of the official party.

President Hipolito Irigoyen and members of the cabinet will meet the Hoover party at the station and will accompany the President-elect to the home of Robert W. Bliss, American ambassador in Buenos Aires. The party will be protected along the half-mile route by mounted and unmounted police and military detachments.

The extraordinary precautions decided after the discovery of an alleged bomb plot, involving persons suspected of previous anarchistic activities, will continue effective until Mr. Hoover departs for Montevideo on Saturday.

Ideal weather prevailed this afternoon as the city prepared to welcome the American President-elect. The cold, drizzling rain yesterday had presaged a gloomy day for the reception, but the clouds had cleared this morning and the entire city, gaily decorated, took on a carnival appearance.

MRS. MAMIE E. KAMONS

PRICE OF HUG $12,500, JURY VERDICT

The hug which Isaac Weinstein is alleged to have given Mrs. Mamie E. Kamons, 5537 Bartlett street, in the drawing room of a Pullman car going to Dayton, O., is worth $12,500, a jury decided.

Mrs. Kamons was awarded $12,000 and her husband, Louis J. Kamons, was awarded $500 in a verdict opened in Judge R. W. Martin's court today.

They had sued for $100,000.

The jury got the case yesterday afternoon and after two hours' deliberation sealed its findings.

Weinstein, a former police magistrate, is now a resident of Webster Hall.

Weinstein was enroute with Mrs. Kamons to Dayton, O., in 1926, to meet Kamons and Mrs. Weinstein, when, it was testified, he pressed his attentions on Mrs. Kamons. Kamons, at that time, was in business with Weinstein.

In court yesterday Weinstein vehemently denied that he had boasted of his ability to fix any judge or jury when the Kamonses threatened to sue him.

PITTSBURGHERS TO STUDY MUSIC, BIRDS OF AFRICA

Two Pittsburghers will leave next month for a year's tour of the inner recesses of Africa to bring back specimens of rare birds and to record, on talking machines, the music of African savages.

Rudyerd Boulton, ornithologist, and Mrs. Boulton, who specializes in music, will go, with Mrs. Oscar Straus, widow of the former American ambassador to Turkey, from Alexandria through Cairo, down the Nile, across the Nubian desert and then into the jungles. Mr. and Mrs. Boulton are attached to the scientific staff of Carnegie Museum.

Mr. Boulton will attempt to discover new specimens of birds, as well as to make a written and photographic history of tropical bird life. Mrs. Boulton will attempt to record the music of tom-toms and other weird musical instruments of the natives.

The expedition will be carried on under the auspices of the American Museum of Natural History, New York, until the explorers leave Northern Africa for the lower jungles. This area is assigned to the Carnegie Museum.

The party will arrive in Cairo about February 15. From there on, part of the journey will be by rail, but principally it will be by boat, automobile and "safari"—wherein the natives carry provisions and packs, and cut the way through dense foliage.

Mr. Boulton hopes that they will be able to take motion pictures of pigmy tribes, whose tallest members are barely four feet in height.

The expedition will be Mrs. Boulton's first for scientific data, though she is now in the Carnegie Institute technical library. Her husband has made several previous trips to equatorial Africa.

FEAR BATTLE NEAR ON BORDER

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—(AP.)—The Paraguayan charge d'affaires delivered identical notes today to the State Department and to Dr. Victor Maurtua, of Peru, chairman of the Pan-American conference committee looking into the Paraguayan-Bolivian boundary dispute, in which he described the situation as giving rise to the danger of "imminent war."

The note transmitted information received from Paraguay to the effect that Bolivia was massing troops and war materials in the neighborhood of the border clash of last week, which gave rise to the present difficulties.

In explanation of the situation the note added that in view of the proximity of permanent Paraguayan garrisons in that region, the danger of an armed clash was very great.

The Paraguayan charge d'affaires, Juan Ramirez, said later that he understood the Paraguayan garrison nearest the disturbed center comprises about 1,000 men, the regular number of troops maintained there.

BOTH REPLY TO LEAGUE

LUGANO, Dec. 13.—(AP.)—Paraguay and Bolivia have replied to the appeal from the Council of the League of Nations for a pacific settlement of the dispute between them.

League officials said today that the Paraguayan reply recognized that country's international obligation to settle the conflict by pacific methods.

The Bolivian foreign minister cabled that the council's appeal had been submitted to the president of Bolivia.

The reply of Paraguay sent to Foreign Minister Briand, of France, presiding at the league session, was stated to have said the dispute was not the fault of Paraguay, but of Bolivia.

WORK QUIZZED ON SINCLAIR CONTRACT

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—(AP.)—Hubert Work told the Senate Land Committee today that he had renewed the Sinclair contract for Salt Creek royalty oil while he was Secretary of Interior upon the advice of four officials appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate and nine other legal and technical experts of the government.

Work, now chairman of the Republican National Committee, was summoned as a principal witness to discuss the Salt Creek contract, recently nullified on advice of the Department of Justice, in connection with the committee's consideration of the nomination of Roy O. West, of Chicago, to be Secretary of the Interior.

WEST TESTIFIES

West was before the committee at two sessions yesterday and testified that his connection with the contract was routine and that he had submitted it to the Department of Justice upon advice of his assistants.

Mr. Work, who resigned to manage the campaign of Herbert Hoover, appeared before the committee with a seven-page printed statement about the Sinclair contract.

At the suggestion of Senator Walsh (Dem.), Montana, Mr. Work read his long statement, which gave a chronological history of all facts in the case.

BIDDERS HAMPERED

Senator Walsh declared that none of the other original bidders for the Salt Creek royalty oil knew of the optional clause for a renewal and were placed at a disadvantage to the Sinclair interests. The contract was let originally under the administration of Albert B. Fall as Secretary of Interior.

Mr. Work was excused after little cross-examination and James P. Kem, counsel for the White Eagle Oil Company, who presented the protest of his company against the Salt Creek renewal to Sinclair, was called.

He said his company was one of the original bidders for the Salt Creek royalty oil in 1922 and did not know of the optional clause for a renewal.

The witness said his company's bid for the Salt Creek royalty oil would have netted about $1,000 more a day than was received under the Sinclair contract.

FOREIGN TRADE HELD VITAL TO U. S.

Employment and prosperity in the United States are dependent on its foreign markets.

To prevent consistently soup lines and 10 cents an hour wages, this nation must keep its foreign trade and needs American ships to accomplish it.

O. K. Davis, secretary of the National Foreign Trade Council and former newspaperman, declared this to members of the Pittsburgh Traffic Club last night at their mid-year dinner in the William Penn Hotel. He emphasized their importance in asking, not that they subsidize the Shipping Board, but that they simply support American bottoms by giving them a fair amount of American shipping business.

Mr. Davis was introduced by Louis C. Bihler, assistant to the president of the Carnegie Steel Company. A motion picture showing the rescue of the crew of the "Antinoe" in mid-ocean by the "Roosevelt's" crew was shown.

The banquet hall was outfitted like a ship, with the "bridge" the stage, the running lights, port-holes, baggage room, radio room and other details remembered. Banners, life savers and other insignia of steamship equipment were used. The programs were special "logs," with as many different kinds as there were steamship lines represented.

J. C. Gross, president, presided, while George W. White was chairman.

TALK LIMITED, BOULDER DAM VOTE NEAR

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—(AP.)—The blasting of Boulder Dam out of the way of Senate progress seemed near today with an agreement in force limiting debate on the bill to 15 minutes for each senator.

Boulder Dam began crumbling as a legislative obstacle early in the week and after agreements and compromises yesterday it seemed on the point of giving way entirely.

While the bill to erect a barrier across the Colorado River moved forward, little was done yesterday with the billion dollar treasury-postoffice appropriation measure. An argument over whether Under Secretary of the Treasury Mills should have his salary raised from $10,000 to $12,000 yearly took up the time alloted to it. The House has already passed the measure.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Dec. 13.—(INS.)—Some time in the next seven days the tragic submarine S-4, is to be towed down the harbor here, and, controlled by men working from a tender, dropped into the depths of Long Island Sound.

The S-4 has been equipped with a tower on the after deck that is intended to be a means of quick exit in time of disaster. In experiments the S-4 will be sunk with a crew on board. A diving bell will be lowered so as to fit about the tower. The experimenters believe the crew will be able to step into the diving bell, and rise to the surface.

The S-4 sunk off Cape Cod by collision a year ago with heavy loss of life.

SUMMER WHITE HOUSE PLAN DISCUSSED WITH COOLIDGE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—(AP.)—President Coolidge's suggestion that a week-end residence for presidents be built within motoring distance of Washington brought Chairman Elliott, of the House Public Buildings Committee, to the White House today in quest of further information as to the President's views.

He was accompanied by Representative Woodrum (Dem.), Virginia, who has introduced a joint resolution directing the public buildings commission to collect data and make recommendations to Congress with regard to the proposition.

Mr. Coolidge regards a tract of land already owned by the government at Bluemont, Va., as a favorable location, because of its altitude, scenery and accessibility. He believes that the total cost of making the property suitable would not be more than $25,000.

The President feels, however, that inasmuch as he is to leave office shortly he should go no further than to make the suggestion.

PARIS PICTURED BY HOLMES

Paris by night and by day, Paris, the gay and beautiful, were depicted in motion and still pictures and described by Burton Holmes last night in Carnegie Music Hall. Mr. Holmes showed places familiar to the tourist and scenes not so well known. Several pictures which caused the audience no little amusement were flashbacks to the "Gay Nineties." These pictures furnished quite a contrast to others he showed taken at the same localities last year. A very interesting trip up the Seine by boat gave one an unusual view of the capital of the pleasure universe. This lecture concluded Mr. Holmes' travel talks here until next year.

TALKING BUGS DISCOVERED IN TESTS

Language—or means of communication—has so far been attributed to man alone. But no longer.

Dr. Alfred E. Emerson, associate professor of zoology at the University of Pittsburgh, has discovered in a series of tests that termites, very distant relatives of the cockroach, communicate with each other.

The noted scientist does not mean by that the normal call of all animals and birds and insects to their mates. He goes farther. He says that the Pittsburgh termite knocks his head on the ground to signal to his companions that danger is near. The termites that live elsewhere, say in South America, snap their jaws and thus communicate with their fellow insects. Of course, in the fullest sense of intelligent conversation, the insects do not talk as man. But like man, they transmit symbols to each other, and these symbols have definite meaning. The termites who have so far been found to communicate are the soldiers of the species, guarding the workers and queens and "domestic animals" from danger.

GROUND CARRIES WORDS

But strangely, the sound waves that carry their symbols are not of the air, as man's are. Termite "words" are transmitted through the ground. Dr. Emerson points out that sound is more easily transferred underground, as shown by the acute hearing of men under water, or below the surface of the earth.

Dr. Emerson conducted his test by means of an improvised radio amplifier and microscope. His special interest has been in the social systems and habits of the white ants and the termites—both destructive insects that eat North and South American forests. After studying the termites, he learned that the soldiers, when agitated, shook their heads, thumped the ground and warned the communities they guarded.

The Pitt scientist will continue his experiments.

Termites, while not generally known, are plentiful in Pennsylvania forests.

GRAFT REPORT NEARLY READY

By tonight District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner and his assistants expect to have completed the rough draft of the presentment to be made in Criminal Court tomorrow as a result of the last two months' labors of the special graft-probing grand jury.

About 1,000 pages of testimony is to be digested by Mr. Gardner and Assistant District Attorneys George F. P. Langfitt and Veers D. Edwards, 2,700 pages of the 3,700 pages taken by the stenographers during the probe having been gone over earlier in the week.

It is anticipated that between 50 and 100 indictments will be recommended, in addition to the 256 made on the first presentment of the jury, two months ago. Whether any "big fellows" will be included in the list of racketeers, bootleggers, lottery operators and gamblers is a fact shrouded in mystery. No hint has come from District Attorney Gardner or elsewhere about the secret work of the grand jury.

When the jury reconvenes Friday morning it will go over the draft of the presentment which Mr. Gardner is dictating to the stenographers and will make any changes the jurors think necessary before presenting it to the court.

Weather Conditions.

The eastern high pressure area remained nearly stationary over the Atlantic Coast states which apparently blocked the eastward development of the Southwest low. The low is now centered over Northern Arkansas and Southern Missouri and covers the entire Plains states and Mississippi valley south of Iowa. It produced rain throughout its area and as far east as Ohio and from Wisconsin to the gulf. The rains were heavy in Oklahoma, Arkansas, Western Tennessee, Eastern Texas, Louisiana and Mississippi. Thunderstorms occurred in Eastern Texas and Louisiana.

A rather weak high pressure area developed over the Northern Plains states and is causing somewhat colder weather over that section. From the Plains states eastward the temperatures are generally higher than yesterday.

River Conditions.

PASTOR'S VOICE PREACHES SERMON AT OWN FUNERAL

International News Service.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Dec. 13.—The Rev. G. L. (Golightly) Morrill, his career full of surprises, preached his own funeral sermon and thus put an extra climax on his existence when his friends had already believed that existence closed.

The voice of the noted author and evangelist issued from a phonograph at the services. He had made the record some months ago. It began: "I have guarded my soul through life—I, alone, feel qualified to give my soul its departing message."

On another record the Rev. Morrill's voice had recorded the hymn, "Shall We Gather at the River." The Rev. Morrill's life was full of shocks to more conservative ministers. When he died Monday his family announced that no clergyman would officiate. It was thought—until today—that "Golightly" Morrill had sprung his last surprise.

PARLIAMENTARY RUG-MENDER 44 YEARS

LONDON.—For 44 years Annie has been carpet-mender in the housese of Parliament. Soon she will retire to a well-earned rest.

For almost half a century Annie every morning has taken a penny street car ride from her home in Kennington to Westminster. Then she has settled down to her work on the floor of one chamber or another, with needle and thread, to repair the holes in the carpets made by the restless feet of members of Parliament.

Annie started work in the house when she was 18. Now she is 62.

When Lady Astor first came to the House of Commons Annie was the first woman she met there. Lady Astor smiled at her and said: "You see, my dear, they can't get along without us."

Annie replied: "Of course not."

"Members of Parliament," Annie says, "are very untidy. They always have been ever since I came here, and I suppose they always will be. They are really just like a lot of school boys.

"And do you know, I believe most of the members in both houses use snuff, because all the carpets smell of it."

Annie's last name is Thornton—Mrs. Thornton—but the houses of Parliament know her only as "Annie."

ASKS SOLDIERS' CEMETERY

County Controller Robert G. Woodside yesterday asked the County Commissioners to purchase and improve 25 acres of land for an Allegheny county soldiers' memorial cemetery. This is to be used instead of the small burial plots purchased in the various cemeteries.

The commissioners have already approved an appropriation of $2,000 to replace obscure, broken and unfitting markers on soldiers' graves in the South Side cemetery.

Driving With Single Headlight Fought

A crusade against motorists who drive with one headlight out has been started by the Automobile Club of Pittsburgh, according to Paul S. Wolff, secretary. Mr. Wolff declared it was the intention of the club to place the matter before the transit committee of the organization today.

PITTSBURGH-CAPITAL AIR SERVICE TO BEGIN

Pittsburgh will have aerial passenger service to Washington, D. C., within 10 days. The service will be extended to New York by January 1.

Aircraft and Airways, Inc., will start the service with four five-passenger Ryan broughams, powered with Wright Whirlwind motors, F. LeMoyne Page, president of Aircraft and Airways of America, announced today.

The new transport concern is a subsidiary of the parent organization formed here six months ago to market Ryan and other airplanes in Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New York and Ohio. Charter has been applied for in Harrisburg, and the capitalization will be $100,000.

The company will offer a two-hour service to Washington, and a three and a half hour service to New York. Present plans of the company do not call for stops at Harrisburg and Philadelphia, but a direct air-line trip from Pittsburgh to New York. Additional details of the organization, including the local field to be used, will be announced next week, according to Mr. Page.

Minister Directs Rescue from Auto Ruins

TOWANDA, Pa., Dec. 13.—(AP.)—Pinned in the wreckage of his small coupe under the wheels of a gas-electric railroad coach, the Rev. Busey Singer, of Durell, yesterday directed rescue efforts in his behalf and after two hours was liberated. His ankle is either sprained or broken and it is believed he has internal injuries.

Censured, Finland Government Quits

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Dec. 13.—(AP.)—The government resigned today as a result of a vote of censure passed in the Diet last night.

RAILWAYS TAKE VALLEY LINES

The Pittsburgh Railways Company and its subsidiary, the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company, will extend service to Monongahela Valley towns.

Plans for the operation of the West Side Electric and the Webster, Monessen, Bellevernon and Fayette City Railways companies by the Pittsburgh company and the control of the West Side Motor Transport Company by the local motor coach company, were revealed in the application filed with the Public Service Commission in Harrisburg. Four buses and several cars operating on 32 miles of track are affected.

The agreement for which approval is sought would set aside funds for operating costs and the balance of receipts would be divided among the various companies. Better service could be provided by coordinating schedules, railways men say.

FLU SPREADING, U. S. PROBES SYMPTOMS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—(AP.)—The board of strategy on influenza which was called into conference by Surgeon General Cumming has telegraphed physicians on the west coast asking for information regarding the critical aspects of the disease. Information must be obtained, it was explained, before the board can make a formal statement of the influenza situation. The board is composed of G. W. McCoy, director of the Hygienic Laboratory; Dr. W. H. Frost and Dr. J. P. Leake, all veteran public health officers. They are expected to submit recommendations for control of the epidemic to the surgeon general this afternoon.

CASES INCREASE

Yesterday's total of 40,820 reported cases was increased today to 41,063 when the state health officer of Tennessee reported 43 new cases in that state. Public health officials still believed that not more than one-fifth of the existing cases are being reported. The situation in New York, while still not determined, was thought not to be serious, since Dr. M. Nicholl, state health officer, telegraphed to Surgeon General Cumming that while influenza cases are not reportable in his state, health officers are required to report unusual prevalences and they have made no such reports.

In repeating today that the outbreak has reached epidemic proportions, public health officials said this term was used loosely, but is construed by them to be proper when a disease appears with increasing extensiveness over a period of days.

Bills to Aid Fight On Drugs Centered

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—Two bills designed to put more punch into the enforcement of the federal anti-narcotics law were introduced in the House yesterday by Representative Hamilton Fish, (R.), of New York.

Jones has admitted burning his wife's body in a shack six miles from Butler, but claims she had accidentally shot herself during a quarrel in their home in First avenue, Butler.

LINDY AWARDED INTERNATIONAL AIR TROPHY

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—(AP.)—Charles A. Lindbergh today was presented with the Harmon Trophy, awarded annually by the International League of Aviators to the man voted to have done the most for aeronautics in that year.

The presentation was made by Pierre Etienne Flandin, vice president of the French Chamber of Deputies, at the conclusion of a session of the International Civil Aeronautic Conference. Orville Wright escorted Lindbergh to the platform for the presentation.

The trophy is a gift of Clifford Harmon, an American living in Paris and founder of the Aviators' League. It was given last year to Shirley Short, pioneer flier of the United States air mail service.

Meanwhile the House today sent to the Senate a bill bestowing the Distinguished Flying Cross upon Orville and Wilbur Wright.

COUNCIL ACTS TO HALT TOY HAWKERS

Council today took steps to free sidewalks around Diamond Market House of familiar holiday hawkers, who in years past, have sold mechanical toys and provisions to pedestrians.

Action was taken on motion of Charles Anderson, who presented a letter from the Pittsburgh Market Association, protesting against the practice.

The letter stated that each holiday season a certain class of dealers occupied the sidewalks with the intention of making a year's wages in a few weeks by selling "inferior goods" and by indulging in "sharp practices."

Anderson's motion called upon City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt to instruct the Department of Safety and the Department of Public Works to refuse permits for sidewalk selling and to enforce the ordinance forbidding the practice.

County Tenders $15,000 for Museum

The County Commissioners established a precedent today by appropriating $15,000 to the Carnegie Museum, contingent upon the city giving the same amount and upon whether such an appropriation is legal.

The decision was made after Commissioner E. V. Babcock had read a letter from Taylor Allderdice and Marcus Aaron stating that the Board of Education is giving the museum $15,000 and that an effort will be made to secure a state appropriation at the coming session of the Legislature.

EX DODGES BID TO LEAD ARMY, HE ASSERTS

NEW YORK, Dec. 13—(AP.)—Tex Rickard made known today that in 1913 he lost a chance to promote the biggest fight of his career—a war between Bolivia and Paraguay.

Rickard spent eight years in Paraguay, going there in 1912 with 20 Texan cowboys sent by the Farquahar syndicate engaged in the cattle industry and development of the country's resources.

"In 1913," said Rickard, "I came up through the Argentine with 20 cowboys, 50,000 head of cattle and a train of about 50 wagons.

"Well, as soon as we got into Paraguay we came across a lot of forts, all filled with Bolivians. All these Bolivians — soldiers they were—said that if we didn't turn back they'd shoot us.

OFFERED AN ARMY

"When we got back we told them of a lot of Bolivians sitting in forts in the middle of Paraguay.

"The president and cabinet told me " I'd go out and fight the Bolivians they'd give me all the soldiers I wanted and more.

"Mr. Farquahar didn't want a war, and so I missed my chance to lead an army."

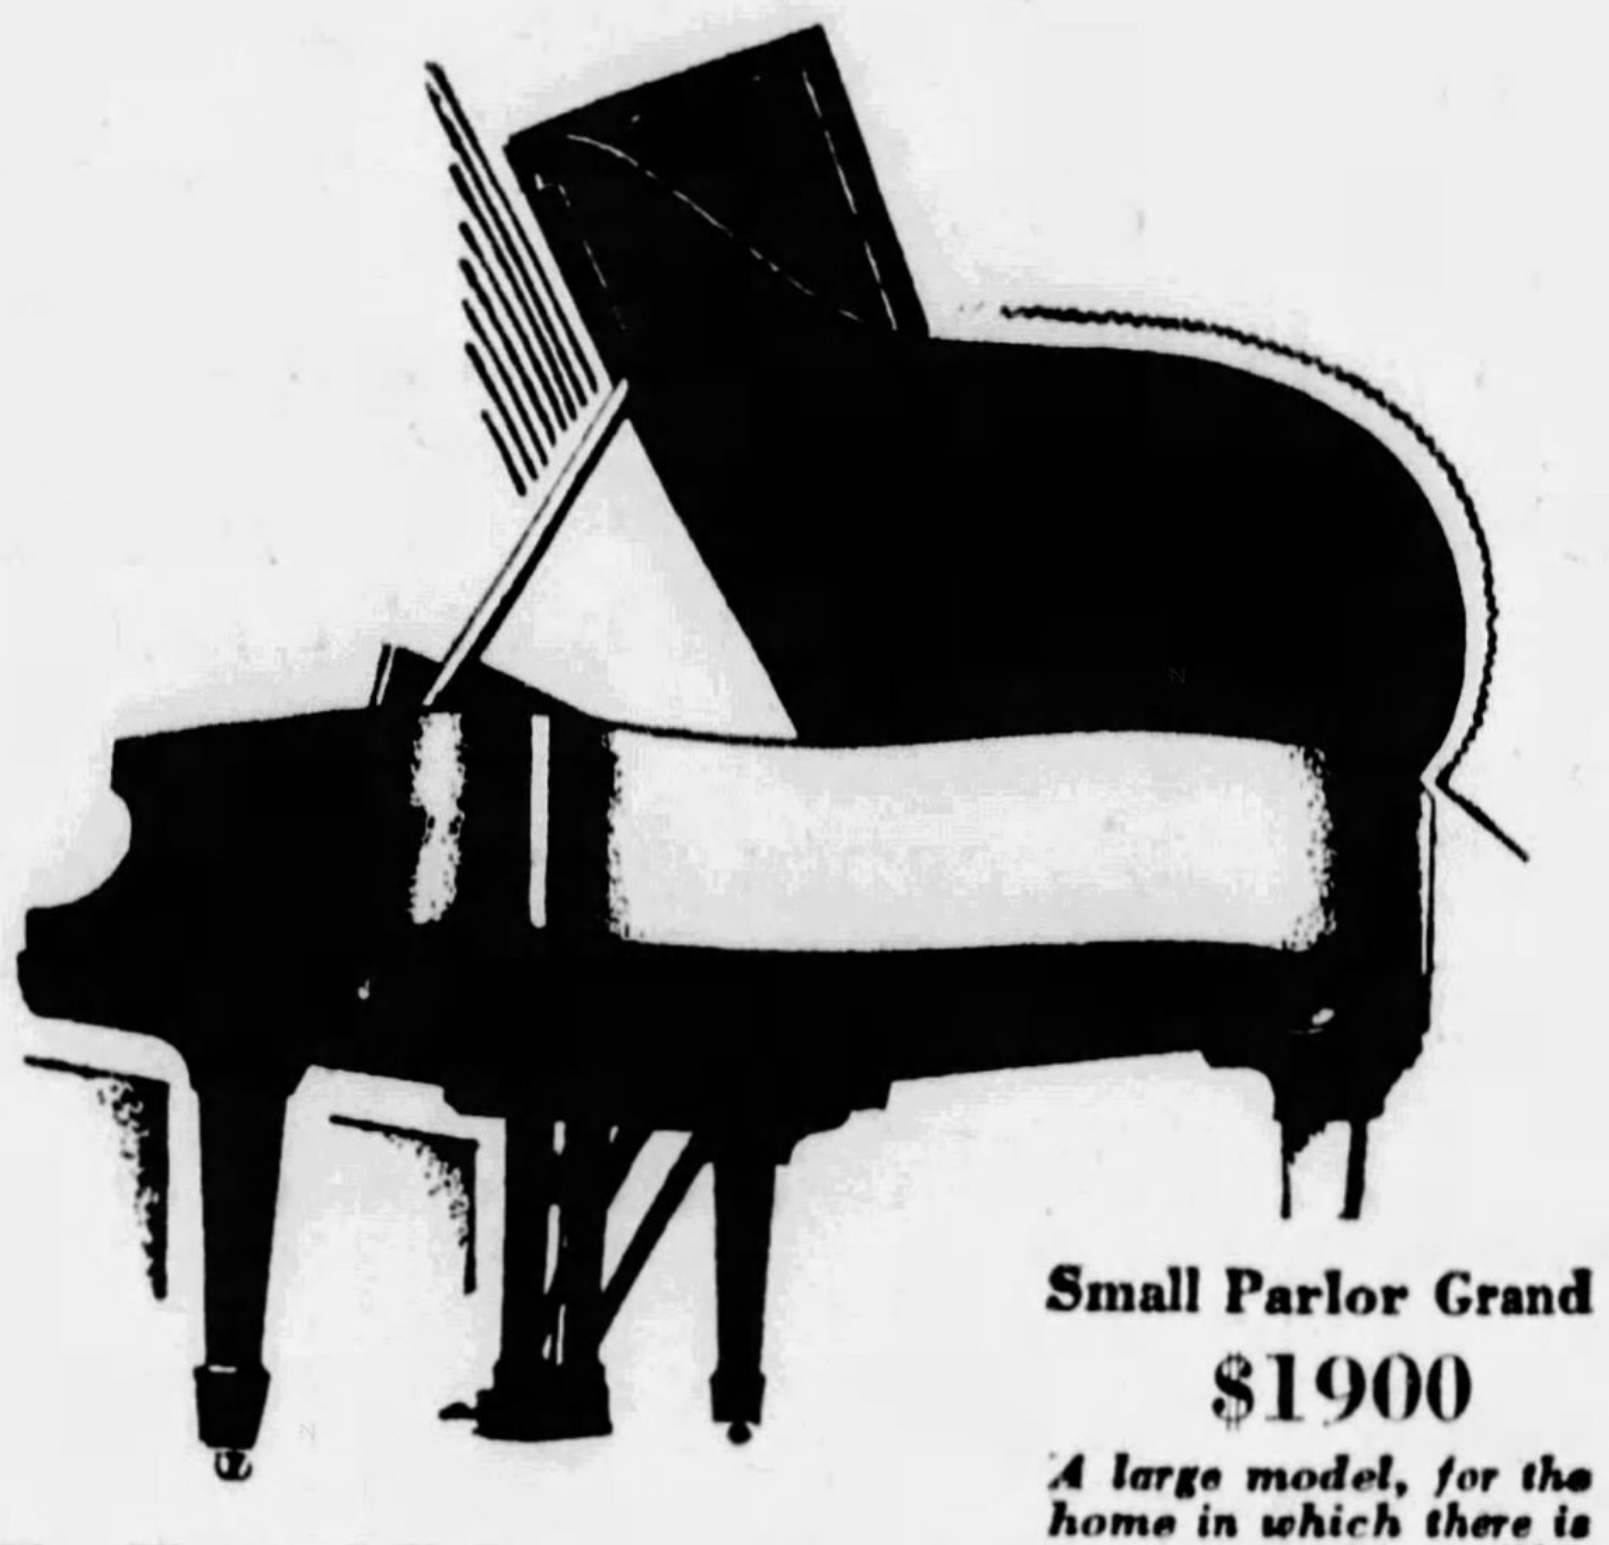
IT COSTS NO MORE TO OWN A STEINWAY. WHY NOT HAVE THE BEST?



Small Parlor Grand

$1900

A large model, for the home in which there is no space problem. This is the standard home size, and an instrument of amazing power and depth of tone.

The Ebonized Baby Grand

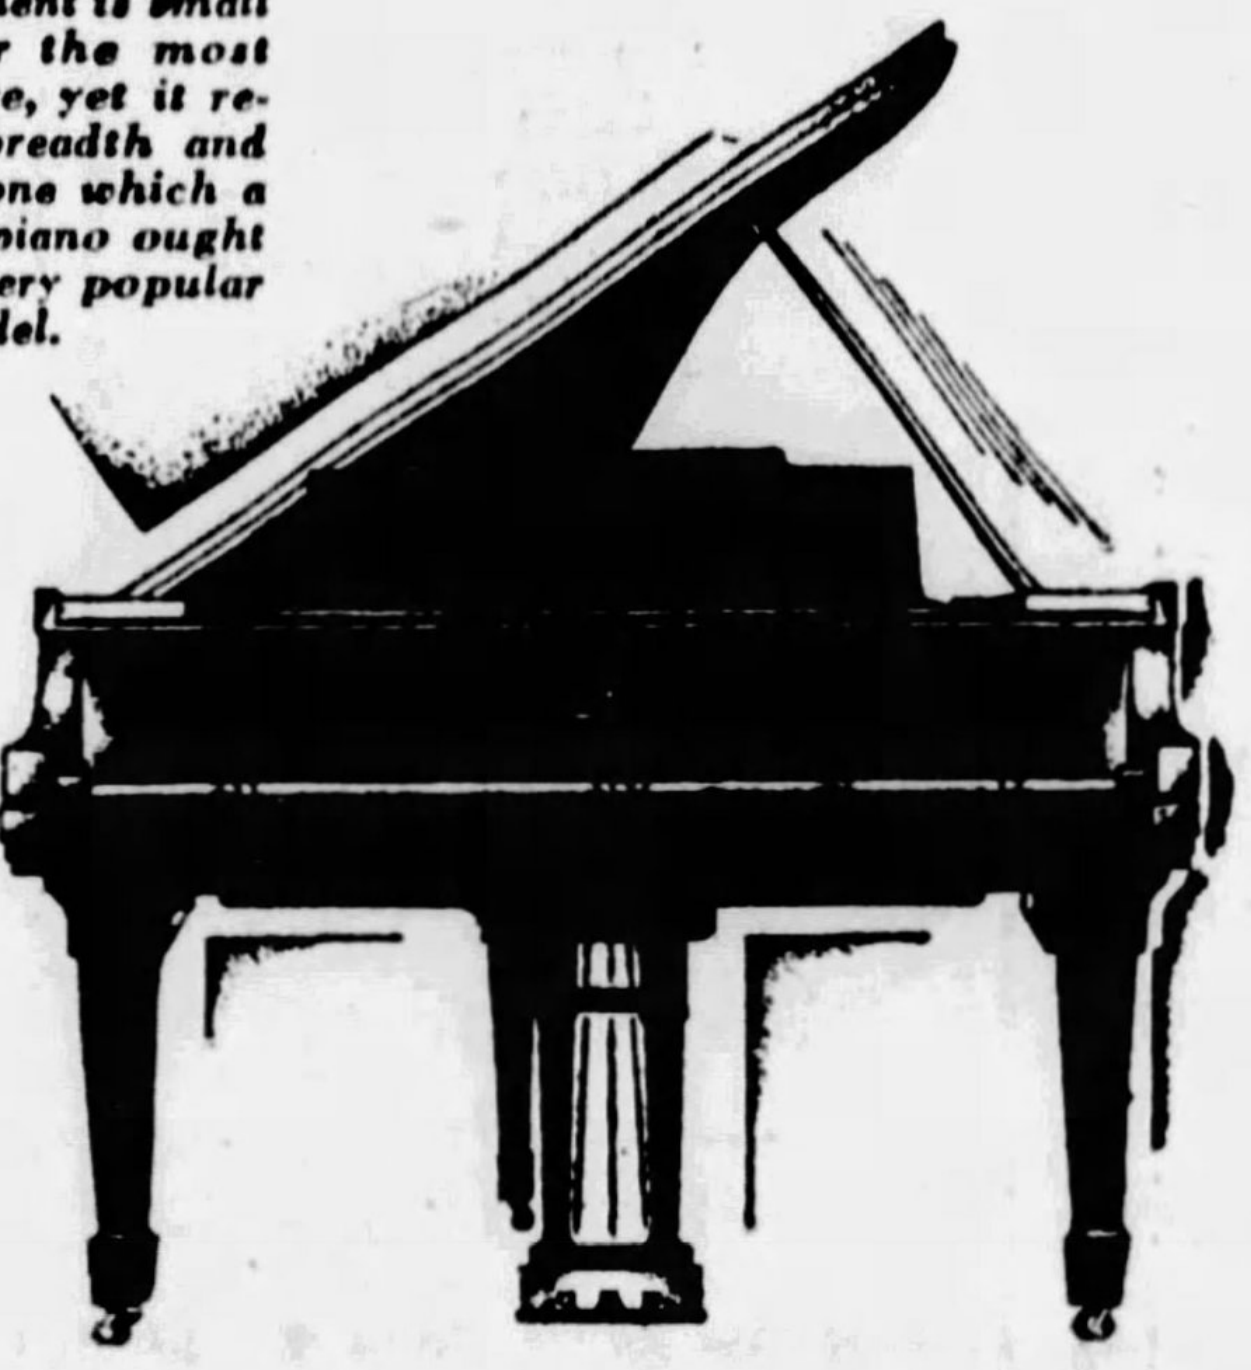
This instrument is small enough for the most limited space, yet it retains that breadth and beauty of tone which a true grand piano ought to have. A very popular model.



▲▲▲ DON'T confuse price with cost. The piano that sells for $1425 and lasts for fifty years, costs far less than the one that is priced at $500 and wears out in three.

The low-price instrument costs you more than $160 a year. The Steinway cost is $30.00! Figured on the basis of cost-per-year, the Steinway is the most inexpensive piano in the world.

And not only does it last longer and cost less, but it commands a depth and resonance of tone which no other piano can even approach. That is why for 75 years the Steinway has been the chosen instrument of virtually every great musician before the public.

The Steinway can be had immediately with a 10% first payment, and the balance will be extended over two years. . . . Come in and select your instrument today!

A new Steinway piano can be bought from

FAMILY SAVED IN FIRE

Special Patrolman Jacob Speer led three persons to safety last night when fire broke out in the confectionery store of E. Glick, 1733 Penn avenue. Speer discovered the fire and after sounding the alarm, aroused Roy Detwiler, his wife and mother, who occupied a second floor apartment.

The flames spread to an adjoining building at 1731 Penn avenue, occupied by P. H. Stein, produce dealer, and H. Paul, dairyman. The apartment of the Detwiler family also was damaged. Firemen estimated the loss at $30,000.

ARSENAL SEIZED, 8 HELD IN PAYROLL HOLDUP QUIZ

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—(INS.)—Police early today raided an alleged speakeasy in The Bronx formerly owned by Joseph Noe, slain beer runner, arrested eight men and confiscated enough arms and ammunition to stock a small arsenal.

Six pistols, 500 rounds of shotgun ammunition, 1,500 rounds of revolver ammunition, three bullet-proof vests and a loaded Thompson machine gun were found in the place.

Noe was slain in a pistol duel just off Broadway on October 16.

Sawed-off shotguns were used by the seven or eight bandits who held up a bank truck in Yonkers, a suburb, yesterday, wounded two men and fled toward New York with $104,500 in cash. Police were questioning the eight men arrested this morning in an effort to connect them with yesterday's sensational holdup.

Rankin Furnaceman Killed by Train

Struck by a train, George Lesko, 45, 230 Fourth street, Rankin, Carrie furnace laborer, was found dead at the entrance to the plant in Rankin this morning.

FORMER MAYOR, WIFE SLAIN IN HOME

CARBONDALE, Ill., Dec. 13.—(AP.)—J. C. Hundley, wealthy pioneer and former mayor of Carbondale, and his wife were shot to death shortly before last midnight by an intruder in their home.

Hundley, who was 76 years old, was shot in the head as he undressed for bed. The intruder, who apparently had lurked in the bedroom, fled downstairs and chased Mrs. Hundley up a back stairway. Killing her with three pistol shots, he turned off the lights, went out the front door, locked it, and escaped.

REVENGE MOTIVE SEEN

Neighbors, awakened by the shots, entered by a back door and found Mrs. Hundley dead and Hundley unconscious. He died shortly afterward. Mrs. Hundley, his second wife, was 67 years old.

Revenge for a killing of nearly 40 years ago suggested itself to police as a motive for Hundley's slaying. He once killed a music teacher, they recalled, for holding a tryst with his first wife. He was acquitted, pleading the unwritten law. His first wife, who obtained a divorce soon after the killing, now lives in Memphis, Tenn.

NO LOOT TAKEN

Mrs. Hundley was shot, police believed, because the slayer feared she might recognize him.

It was the slayer's failure to take any loot from the wealthy couple that strengthened police belief in their theory of revenge.

The couple had planned to leave this week for their winter home in Florida.

Can All These People and Thousands More Be Wrong?

—in their belief that ACIDINE is the only really satisfactory remedy for head colds, acidosis, sick headache and stomach troubles of all kinds, including dyspepsia and reckless over-indulgence in food or drink?

If you think so, try ACIDINE yourself, and see what a marvelous, almost priceless remedy it is. No matter what you have been using, we challenge comparison with ACIDINE.

More than 50,000 users in this town and its suburbs swear by ACIDINE. It is a larger seller than any other similar proprietary medicine. It is prescribed by doctors. It is harmless, and contains only nature's products.

Use of ACIDINE prevents 90% of head colds for they are the result of too much acid, and ACIDINE is acid's deadliest enemy. That's particularly interesting if you are troubled by this common winter nuisance.

Your druggist knows how effective ACIDINE is. If you don't believe us, ask him. And best of all, if ACIDINE fails to help, your money will be cheerfully refunded.

TWO LAWYERS HONORED

Attorneys Thomas Patterson and Edwin W. Smith, leading members of the Allegheny county bar, were honored at a joint testimonial dinner last night in the Longue Vue Country Club, tendered by a group of younger members of the bar.

The dinner was attended by 18 judges, including Justices Robert S. Frazer and John W. Kephart of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court, and 225 attorneys. Addresses were made by the honor guests and by Judge J. J. Miller, of Orphans' Court, and Attorney William Watson Smith. Mr. Patterson was presented with a platinum watch and a loving cup was presented to Mr. Smith.

The dinner was arranged by a committee composed of Joseph H. Bialas, chairman; Oliver K. Eaton, Thomas M. Marshall, Jr., B. B. McGinness, E. C. Chalfant and H. Fred Mercer.

Kochanski to Play In Carnegie Hall

An interesting number on Paul Kochanski's program at Carnegie Music Hall tonight is one of his own compositions entitled "Flight," which he dedicated to Col. Charles Lindbergh. Mr. Kochanski's programs always assure an evening of rare enjoyment, and his popularity in Pittsburgh is now said to be next to that of Fritz Kreisler. A principal work on tonight's program is Brahms' Sonata in A Major. Shorter works to be played include a selection from El Amor Brujo by de Falla; Praeludium in E Major by Bach; Trille du Diable by Tartini; Nocturne and Cortege by Lili Boulanger; Ruralia Hungarica by Dohnanyi; Alumblatt by Wagner, and Debussy's "La Fille aut cheveux de lin." Mr. Kochanski appears tonight under the auspices of the Art Society, through whose courtesy he played at the assembly this morning for the students in the University of Pittsburgh, where he was cheered by 2,500 enthusiasts at Soldiers Memorial Hall.

CHAMPIONS RECEIVE CUPS

By JESS CARVER.

VARSITY and scholastic gridiron heroes were on display at the Chamber of Commerce today as that body tendered a luncheon to the Carnegie Tech and Westinghouse High School football squads.

The Tartans are proud possessors of the city collegiate championship, wrested from the grasp of the Pitt Panthers in the annual duel in the Stadium. Westinghouse retained its City Scholastic League title, first winning out in the Section II race and then downing South Hills in a title test. Tech was presented with the city-county trophy and Westinghouse a trophy and cup for its scholastic triumph.

Owing to a delay in the manufacture the council was unable to present the city trophy to the Tartans, but a full sized drawing of the emblem was exhibited by Councilman Malone.

Dr. Thomas S. Baker, president of Carnegie Institute of Technology, was one of the speakers at the luncheon. Frank J. Lanahan, a member of the Carnegie Tech board of trustees, received the city-county trophy and turned to Cyril Letzelter, veteran halfback, who accepted it for the team in the absence of Capt. Harpster, who was unable to attend the luncheon, owing to an attack of influenza. The presentation was made by President of City

MAYOR SPEAKER

Mayor Kline made the principal address. E. T. Whiter, chairman of the C. of C. recreation committee, acted in the capacity of chairman.

The following letter is self-explanatory:

Dear Mr. Carver:—What do you mean by saying the bun that hit you at the Duke football banquet was aimed at me? I'M THE GUY WHO THREW IT!

Hoping you are the same,
JIMMY COSTIN.

(Editor's Note: Any gentleman who will hit a guy on the conk with a hard bun and then spend 12 cents to send a special delivery letter to tell about it ain't no gentleman.)

TECH GOES WEST

Carnegie Tech and the Army will carry the football hopes of the East, sometimes called effete, to the West Coast next year, and attempt to retrieve the glory lost when the Cadets and New York University were soundly thrashed by western elevens during the past campaign.

The Tartans scored a hit by booking a game with U. S. C., to be played December 14 in the Colliseum at Los Angeles. Tech is replacing Notre Dame as the east of the Rockies opponent of the Trojans. The Irish were thumped by the men of Jones a couple of weeks ago, and Knute Rockne decided not to take

KING-MAKER

Chick Meehan, coach of the New York University football squad, never seems to run out of star backs. He brings them along one at a time. Last year, he had Jack Connor, the quarterback, as his ace. This year, Ken Strong was the big gun. For next year, he has his choice between Ed Hill, the halfback, and Follett, the fullback.

OUTSTANDING BACK

Fans who saw Ken Strong, the galloping triple-threat halfback, in action against Carnegie Tech at Forbes Field are willing to put him down as one of the game's best of all time. Now he's to be graduated next June, and another player will rise to take his place in the leading starring role.

TWO CANDIDATES

Ed Hill, who hails from Burgettstown, Pa., and prepped at Bellefonte Academy, ran interference for Strong throughout the past season and also starred himself with some long runs, notably in the game here. Follett also is a stellar back and a real candidate for the honor of succeeding to the role of Strong next fall.

STAR

Connor was a quarterback of all-America caliber and the Violets shed tears when they lost him.

CAST OUT BATTING PLAN

CHICAGO, Dec. 13.—(AP.)—The American League wants its pitchers to do their own hitting. The club owners have decided against the plan advocated by John A. Heydler, president of the National League, to have 10-man teams, the tenth one being used as a substitute batsman for the pitcher.

They decided the idea was unsound, and cast it overboard with the result that it probably will not even be discussed when the club owners of the American and National Leagues meet in their joint session here today.

The American Leaguers also decided to ignore the minor league draft meeting at West Baden, Ind., January 10, because they felt that no new solution of the draft problem had been offered by the minor leaguers in the meeting at Toronto last week. In deciding to disregard the minor league draft meeting, the American League owners followed the National League magnates, who made a similar decision at their meeting in New York.

NONE IN FAVOR

Not an American League club owner or manager could be found who was in favor of the drastic change in the rules suggested by the National League executive.

Ernest S. Barnard, president of the American League, said that although no formal vote was taken on the proposal, an informal discussion disclosed that if the proposition were to be presented at the joint meetinb it would meet with unanimous opposition from the junior circuit.

"The proposed change would not prove practical," President Barnard said. "The rules as they stand are benefitting the game and I am not in favor of any drastic change that would revolutionize the sport."

The managers were inclined to treat the suggestion facetiously.

Billy Evans, business manager of the Cleveland Indians, who knows baseball rules up one side and down the other, thought the proposed change was ridiculous.

"Why," said Evans, "if such a rule were to be put into effect we would have to send out and bring Larry Lajoie back into the fold."

Bucky Harris, manager of the Tigers, said the change would ruin baseball. Roger Peckinpaugh, manager of the Cleveland club, said the suggested change would take all the gamble out of the game.

"The manager would not have a chance to do any master minding," Peckinpaugh added.

HURLERS WANT TO BAT

Russell (Lena) Blackburne, newly-appointed manager of the White Sox, thought the idea a joke.

"My pitchers would assassinate me if they could not take their regular turn at bat," Blackburne remarked. "A pitcher lends a doubtful, but interesting, angle to the game."

Most of the deliberation of the American League club owners was routine, of little interest to the baseball public. Frank J. Navin, president of the Detroit club, was re-elected vice president of the league, with the presidents of the Philadelphia, Washington, St. Louis and Detroit clubs constituting the new board of directors.

Trade talk simmered around the lobby of the Congress Hotel, but it was mostly conversation.

Eugene (Bubbles) Hargrave, catcher with the Cincinnati Reds, may become manager of the St. Paul club in the American Association next season, if a satisfactory deal can be arranged. St. Paul, it is understood was willing to part with Paul Zahniser or Huck Betts, pitchers, and perhaps some cash to obtain Hargrave. Nick Allen, retiring manager of the Saints, is slated to become head coach for the White Sox.

Roger Bresnahan, recently cast adrift by the New York Giants, may join the Cardinals as coach for Manager Billy Southworth.

ROBINS RELEASE TYSON

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—(AP.)—The Brooklyn club has announced the release of Al Tyson, outfielder, to Buffalo of the International League, for a cash consideration. Tyson was going well for the Robins last season until July 4 when he collided with a fellow outfielder, Rube Bressler, at the Polo Grounds, and suffered a broken leg. The injury kept him out of play for the remainder of the season.

GRID REPORTING A LA MR. ROPER

By HARRY KECK, Sports Editor.

(In his address at the football banquet of Duquesne University in the William Penn Hotel, on Tuesday evening, W. W. (Bill) Roper, head coach of Princeton University, decried the tendency of the newspaper reporters to stress the work of the ball-carriers in their accounts of the football games, at the expense of the linemen who make the holes for them and the interfering backs who clear the way. Football, he said, is a team game, but the men who cover the games see and write only about the man who carries the ball. This is a frequent criticism by the coaches, who do not seem to realize that what the public is interested in is an account of how the game was won and lost and that, the main object of football being to advance the ball, the writers must necessarily follow the ball and could not do that if they were to try to concentrate on watching the individual efforts of the linemen and interferers. It is all very well for a coach or other student of football to sit back and tell how football should be written from their analytical viewpoint, but I fear such accounts would not prove satisfying to the newspaper reader who is anxious for the details of how and by whom the touchdowns and great runs were made. Herewith is an account of a football game as Mr. Roper and his fellow coaches might write it. I leave it to the reader to judge for himself if he would prefer this method to that in vogue.)

PRINCETON lined up in orthodox style for the kick-off, and went down the field beautifully under Jazzbo's long, high boot, the receiver being stopped after a zigzagging return of only 25 yards, due to the smashing of his interference by Brown and Jones. Smith's fast charging carried him through the line and he stopped Harvard's attempt to gain on a crossbuck. Due to fine interfering by Xyz, Harvard gained five yards on the next play. The back carrying the ball, whoever he happened to be, was a lucky stiff to get that far. Tackle Oofoff would have nailed him but for the fact that he took a step in the wrong direction. Harvard finally had to kick, and, due to perfect blocking, Biffbiff was able to get the punt away without having it knocked down.

The work of the Princeton guards on the next play was marvelous. They actually got the signals and broke straight ahead instead of running into each other for a head-on collision, as usual, and, thanks to their fine work in clearing the way, Jimpson, the halfback, was able to fall down and crawl two inches. Timpson helped along the play with a pretty uppercut after making sure the officials were not looking in his direction.

Thus the battle was waged between the lines and ends, with the backs making headway from time to time in spite of their dull stupidity and inability to keep their feet. It was glorious to watch the opposing centers. They stood out over all of the other players on the field from start to finish and all eyes were upon them. What bad passes they made, resulting in fumbles, were directly traceable to the awkwardness of the backs, who failed to be in position to receive the snap-backs. A good back always should be able to reach to the left or right, or high or low, to receive any sort of a pass and be ready to make a quick getaway.

The final score was 40 to 39, in favor of Princeton. The avalanche of touchdowns, of course, was the result of that bitterly-fought but clean play of the lines. Who cares about the identity of the stumblebums who carried the ball over the goal lines? With such splendid opening of holes as marked this contest and such marvelous interference and teamplay, a blind mass could not have failed to reach his destination. The real heroes were to be found among those stalwarts on the forward line, and I thrill every time I think of the great game played by Joe Zivikoff, the giant tackle, who stood out despite the fact that his blundering backs were constantly running all over him. Herald this Zivikoff in the headlines. Shout his praises from the housetops! It was due to his noble teamwork in sacrificing himself thus while lying prostrate on the ground that Princeton was able to maintain its one-point margin of victory to the finish.

Really, I do not see why we do not have eight linemen and three interfering backs on our all-America teams and eliminate the practice of cluttering up the works with those useless ball-carriers, in whose idiotic running about the public certainly is not interested.

NOW, I ask the reader, is that the sort of a description it wants of its football games? If so, just write in and I may try to oblige next fall. If not, let's be up and at those caustic coaching crit-

BASEBALL FANS GIVE OPINIONS ON TRADE

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

Some of the doctors sitting in the baseball clinic should take a vacation. For years the great sport has been succeeding in spite of them, not because of them, but the latest suggested "remedy"—the one that has to do with providing permanent pinch-hitters for pitchers, takes the cookie.

Why not make the idea altogether ridiculous by arranging for swift runners for Francis Hogan, Leo Hartnett and a lot of other hard hitters who are not exactly greyhounds on their feet? There is no end to the ramifications of such a preposterous plan, yet it seems to have been received like a society bootlegger at the annual meeting of the National League.

It is to the credit of the American League that its magnates threw the case out of court in a jiffy. The junior circuit, as usual, is a mile in front of the National League in its movements. Granting that all opinions should be given a respectful hearing, it is important, too, that the rules committees be composed of players and umpires for the most part, with others sitting on the outside looking in. The athlete knows what the game needs.

Following are the opinions of some of Pittsburgh's real baseball followers on the Wright-Petty-Riconda deal:

HONUS WAGNER, former Pirate shortstop, regarded by many as best player game has produced:

"The deal between the Pirates and Dodgers involves two high-class players. Jesse Petty is a star left-hander who should win consistently here, and therefore add much strength to the pitching department. Personally, I have always rated Glenn Wright very high as a shortstop. With all angles of the deal considered, however, I feel that it may work to the interest of both clubs. If Wright felt that many fans were opposed to him his work would not be as efficient as if the rooters were pulling for him. That is only natural. Moreover, it is altogether possible that the directors of the club have lines out for more infielders. There are times when trades are quite the proper thing to correct conditions.

GEORGE GEE, long-time follower of the game and member Sun-Tele editorial staff:

"Brooklyn seems to have won

PIRATES BUY PITCHER FROM PORTLAND

Lawrence French, a left-hand pitcher, who also bats left-handed, has been acquired by the Pittsburgh Pirates from the Portland (Ore.) club for a sum of cash, the amount of which was not announced, Infielder Mack Hillis, of the South Atlantic League, and a pitcher to be delivered later.

French is a young chap of 21, just a half-inch taller than 6 feet and weighs 180 pounds. Last year he won 14 and lost 16 games with Portland, which finished seventh in the Pacific Coast League. He has been with the Portland club for two complete seasons.

MORIARITY BACK AS UMPIRE

CHICAGO, Dec. 13.—(AP.)—George Moriarity, manager of the Detroit Tigers for two years, will return to the American League as an umpire next season, President E. S. Barnard, of the league, announced today. Dave Barry, of Boston, was added to the list as a reserve umpire.

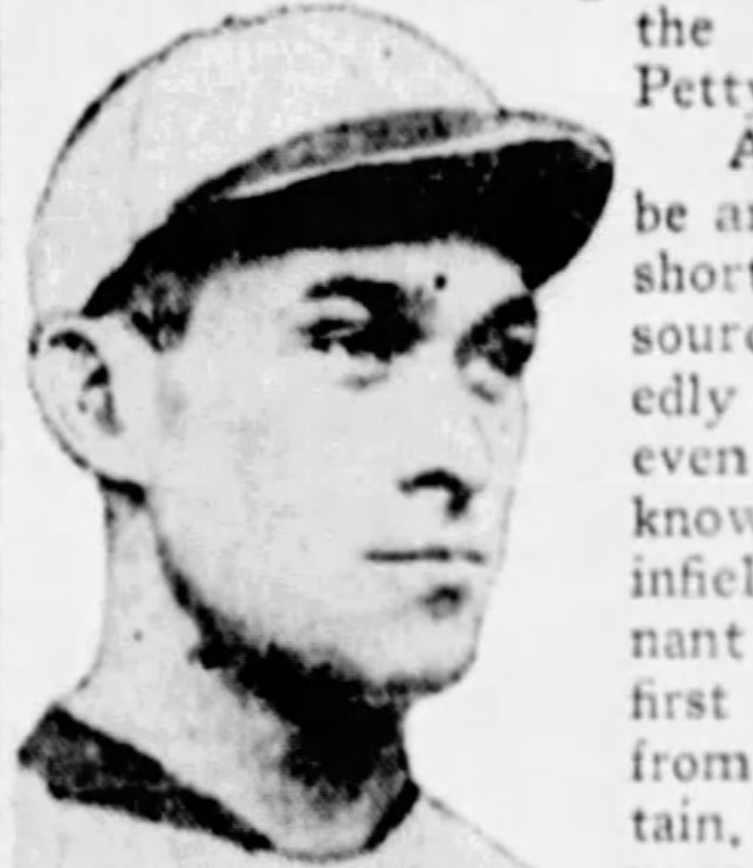
SHIFTING OF TRAYNOR IS DEBATED

IN JUST what manner Manager Donie Bush is likely to rearrange his infield for next season, now that Glenn Wright has passed out of the Pirate picture, is the question being discussed by baseball fans of the Pittsburgh district following the deal whereby the regular Buccaneer shortstop was traded to the Brooklyn club for Pitcher Jess Petty and Infielder Harry Riconda.



Sparky Adams.

And it's a question that hardly will be answered in a hurry, unless another shortstop should be obtained from some source in a second deal, which is decidedly improbable. For, as matters stand, even Manager Bush himself does not know at this time how the reconstructed infield will shape up when the next pennant race gets under way. That the first line of defense will differ vastly from that presented last spring is certain. It may show only one, perhaps none, of this year's infield starters filling the same position occupied when the 1928 campaign opened, though Pie Traynor and Sparky Adams, of course, will be in there somewhere, but the number and nature of shifts that will be necessary to provide a satisfactory combination is something that only the 1929 training trip can decide.

ABOUT the only detail reasonably certain in connection with the new infield arrangement is that Earl Sheely will be found at first base. It is the present intention of the Pirate manager to begin the season with the veteran drafted from Sacramento stationed at the initial corner, and it is believed that George Grantham, thus crowded out of the inner defense, will be tried in left field.

Bush admits that the final decision on the second-base, third-base and shortstop jobs cannot be foretold, even by himself. He has several combinations to consider, with Traynor, Adams, Bartell, Riconda and Jones available, not counting Hillis. These combinations include the moving of Traynor to shortstop, with Adams at second and Stroner or one of the other youngsters at third; keeping Traynor on third and using Adams at short and Bartell or Jones at second, or Bartell or Jones at short and Adams at second.

IT IS believed that Grantham will not be considered for any place in the infield, except in case of emergency. George failed to give satisfaction in either of his two chances at second base, and at first base he has not shown the expected improvement after a thor-

REDS BUY CRABTREE

RAUHS TO MEET LIGHT QUINT TONIGHT

By JULIUS LEVIN.

ACTIVITIES in the Allegheny County League will be shifted to Columbus Temple tonight when the Rauh Club opens its home schedule against the crack Duquesne Light quintet, champion of the Commercial-Industrial League and one of the strongest contenders for the County loop title this winter.

The battle brings together two smooth-working floor machines, both of which include in their line-ups stars who are prominently identified with the professional sport hereabouts. As both teams have been pointing for this contest, followers of the teams are looking for an interesting battle tonight.

RAUHS FAVORITES

While the Rauhs will take the floor tonight a slight favorite owing to the fact that they are familiar with the Columbus Temple court, Manager Kempton F. McNutt of the Light passers feels certain his team is capable of defeating the Uptowners on their home floor. The Light passers shape up as one of the outstanding independent teams in the district this winter and they should prove a worthy opponent for the Rauhs tonight.

Preceding the battle the Lou Gordons will meet East Liberty in the preliminary game, starting at 8 o'clock. The Lou Gordons, winner of the junior championship last winter, have yet to lose a game this season, their latest victim being the Pittsburg Plate Glass team of Creigton, Pa. The Plate Glass team was beaten, 28 to 20, before a crowd of more than 1,000.

TWO GREAT GAMES

Another pair of sensational games were presented the followers of the County League last night when the Rauhs opened their schedule by defeating the Reliance Life team at the 176th Field Artillery armory, 25 to 23, while the Goldensons defeated the Miele-Franchinas in the South Side Market House opener, 24 to 23.

The victory of the Rauhs placed them in a deadlock with the Lafayettes for first place and gives them a chance to take undisputed possession of the lead tonight provided they defeat the Duquesne Light passers at Columbus Temple.

The Miele-Franchinas seem to be playing in tough luck, having dropped their first two games, the opener in an extra period affair and the second by one point. The Rauhs last night were forced to play without Rubenstein, who is reported ill. The lineups:

RAUHS—25.		RELIANCE—23.
Serbin	F	Hood
Miller	F	Heyl
M. Paris	C	Twyman
Packard	G	Seibel
W. Paris	G	Newell

Score by periods:

Substitutions—Carrick for Heyl. Field goals—Serbin 3, Miller, Packard 2, Hood, Carrick 2, Heyl 2, Twyman. Fouls—Rauhs 13 out of 29; Reliance 11 out of 19. Referee—Mackey.

GOLDENSONS—24.		MIELES—23.
O. Klinzing	F	Shrello
Siegel	F	Fotz
Schaub	C	Foley

Score by periods:

Goldensons	4	8	8	4—24
Mieles	6	6	6	5—23

Field goals—Cotz 3, Lippe 4, Tracy, O. Klinzing, Siegel 3, McGuirk, G. Klinzing 4. Fouls—Mieles 6 out of 16, Goldensons 5 out of 17. Substitutions—C. Klinzing for O. Klinzing, O. Klinzing for Schaub, Delvecchio for Shrello. Referee—Speer. Time of quarters—10 minutes.

DRIBBLES

Saturday night the Allegheny County League will wind up its first week's schedule with Duquesne Light opening its home season by engaging the champion Duquesne Lafayettes on the South Side Market House floor.

Paul Pratt, captain of the Lou Gordon Juniors, has been playing a brilliant game for the Hill District passers. His work at center has been excellent, one of the reasons the team has been defeating the best clubs in its class.

Heinz House meets its old rival from Community House on the latter's floor tonight in the only game scheduled in the Greater Pittsburgh Institutional League.

SCHNEIDERS IMPROVE

Penn Five meets Edgewood at Edgewood and Schneiders appear at McKeesport in the two West Penn League games carded tonight. The addition of Roy O'Donovan, former Duquesne University star, appears to have strengthened the Schneiders, who are making a strong comeback after getting off to a poor start.

The Ritz Club, none the worse for the 32-16 beating it took in Cleveland Monday, will open its home season at Columbus Temple tomorrow night when it meets the Morry Club of the P. & O. League.

The addition of "Red" Silverstein has bolstered the Windslow Club lineup. The former Fifth Avenue High star is playing a stellar role for the one-time Major League champion. Others on this year's squad are Dugan, Freedel, Hiller, Spokane, Stutz brothers, Skeegan and Krupka. Light first-class teams wanting games call Sam Spokane at Grant 4919.

The Machester Community Lyceum, which is making a fine showing in the Pittsburgh Lyceum League, will open its home schedule tonight when St. Mary's of Sharpsburg is the attraction on the North Sider's floor. Coach Hargest is elated over the showing of Adley, Uptegraff, McGuire and Wigmore. Dates are open on the schedule for first-class teams. Write Charles Craig, 3123 Brighton road, or call Linden 4141-W., after 7 o'clock.

Games with light first-class teams are desired by Kid Sky's Club. Teams interested call Schenley 9307, or write the manager at 20 Bates street.

State Gridders Elect Martin

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Dec. 13.—(AP.)—Another Sharon High School graduate has been elected captain of a Penn State football team. When the Nittany Lion football lettermen yesterday elected Jackson A. Martin, of Sharon, captain, the giant tackle was elevated to a position formerly held by his fellow townsman, Lighthorse Harry Wilson, who was also captain of the Army eleven after being graduated from Penn State.

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 13.—Washington and Jefferson's 20 lettermen deadlocked yesterday in the selection of a football captain for 1929. In an election conducted by Secretary M. A. Dickie, of the athletic council none of three candidates succeeded in securing a necessary three-fourths majority and after two ballots the election was adjourned until tomorrow.

The three candidates for the position were: Forrest M. (Jap) Douds, tackle, of Rochester, Pa.; Donald C. Malcolm, tackle, of Indiana, Pa., and Delbert L. Secrist, end, of Shelocta, Pa.

Illinois Commission Joins Pennsylvania

CHICAGO, Dec. 13.—(AP.)—The Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission has entered into a working agreement with the Illinois Athletic Commission. The Pennsylvania commission, although not a member of the National Boxing Association, agreed to recognize suspensions and reinstatements and other issues affecting the Illinois commission.

Paul Prehn, chairman of the Illinois commission and president of the National Boxing Association, has urged members to adopt a new rule providing for the suspension of any boxer in good standing who participates in a contest with a boxer who is under suspension.

Aspinwall Burgess To Fete Gridders

A testimonial dinner will be tendered the undefeated football squad of Aspinwall High School by Louis W. Hagmaier, burgess of Aspinwall, at Webster Hall next Monday evening. Covers will be laid for 60 and a number of notables will appear in the role of speakers.

out on that deal, although you never can tell. Wright is a corking shortstop and fine batsman. Petty appears to be a good pitcher, but, like Hill, Meadows and Kremer, he is somewhat uncertain on account of long service as a pitcher. The staff needs some promising youngsters."

PRESIDENT JAMES F. MALONE, of City Council:

"Wright's early brilliancy made his later ordinary work less acceptable to Pittsburgh fans. They hope he will renew his old form in new surroundings. Petty should be a valuable asset when he takes his turn in the pitchers' box."

COUNCILMAN JOHN S. HERRON:

"The success of the moves made by the management of the Pirates in recent transfers should convince fans that the latest shift was all for the best. Wright will never be forgotten as a wonderful shortstop and hitter, but there was a growing belief that his environment was becoming monotonous. No person will begrudge him a return to his former greatness. Pittsburgh has imperative need for a first-string pitcher and Petty's record justifies the hope that he will assist in winning many games."

COUNCILMAN DANIEL WINTERS:

"No one can successfully deny Wright's greatness during his best years with the Pittsburgh team, but he seemed to have reached a point where he had outlived his usefulness. It would be folly for the laymen to rush in with criticism where experts fear to tread, but it seems to be the consensus that Wright's trade may be mutually beneficial to all concerned. Petty has an enviable record, even in games lost where a mere run spelled the difference between defeat and victory. He should have a number of good seasons with thte Pittsburgh team."

COUNCILMAN HARRY A. LITTLE:

"The loss to the Pittsburgh team in Wright's departure must not be assayed by his playing while he was at his peak, but rather in more recent times. The local management has been particularly fortunate in former transfers and no doubt the hole in the infield will be satisfactorily filled. Petty is a pitcher of recognized ability and with his matured judgment should be a welcome addition to the local team's weak pitching staff."

JOHNNY HUGHES, regular patron of Forbes Field:

"Well, I guess we can call it a draw, but I think Glenn Wright is a dandy ball player. I don't think our infield will be so keen with Wright out of there, unless they are after somebody else. On the other hand, the pitching is the biggest part of any game, and if Petty can go along with Grimes, Kremer and the rest, perhaps they won't need so much punch in the infield as they have had."

Women's National Open Tourney Arranged

CHICAGO, Dec. 13.—(AP.)—A golf tournament involving the first women's national open title will be held in Chicago next year under the direction of the Women's Western Golf Association.

The tournament will be similar to the men's national open—72 holes of medal play. Technically the championship will be the women's western medal play championship, which formerly has been decided over 54 holes; actually it will be as much a national championship as the national open.

The question of establishing an open championship for women has been discussed by the United States Golf Association; which frowned upon the proposition until some organization had given the proposal a trial.

ROCCO TOPS WINE

AKRON, Dec. 13.—Emmett Rocco, of Ellwood City, Pa., last night scored a decisive victory over Frankie Wine in a 10-round battle. Pillar to post and back again, Wine strove in vain to get out of range of the Pennsylvanian's potent blows. After the first stanza, in which Wine had a slight advantage, Rocco piled up a big point lead and almost scored a kayo victory on several occasions.

FLU KNOCKS OUT ADELMAN

The rampant epidemic of influenza has struck the boxing game. Davey Adelman, of Philadelphia, has been stricken and, as a result, will be unable to box Howard Mayberry, of Donora, in the 10-round main bout at McKeesport tonight. Jackie Gentile, of Philadelphia, has been engaged to take his place, with the approval of Chairman Frank Weiner, of the State Athletic Commission, who recommended him as a worthy opponent for Mayberry.

Gentile recently defeated Joey Scalfaro, of New York, who held Kid Chocolate to a draw, and a week ago knocked out Len Brenner, of Lancaster.

Adelman complained of feeling ill when he finished up his training in Philadelphia yesterday and his doctor immediately ordered him to bed.

The preliminary card arranged for tonight stands as announced.

Leo Kyburski, of Swissvale, and Jack Unglo, of Etna, will clash in the semi-final, with Johnny Brown, of Lawrenceville, boxing Howard Williams, of Swissvale, in the second bout, and Joe Perren, of Pittsburgh, meeting Young Angelo, of Swissvale, in the opening number.

Dan Billick, Duquesne featherweight, boxes Danny Levine, of New York, in one of the eight-round bouts of a double windup card at Jersey City tonight.

Phil Goldstein is scheduled to be operated on at Montefiore Hospital today for an obstruction in the left side of his nose. Dr. Siegman will perform the operation.

Ottawa Sextet Is Hit by Influenza

DETROIT, Dec. 13.—(AP.)—Five members of the Ottawa Senator hockey club, ill here with what is believed to be a mild form of influenza, will be able to play in tonight's game with the Detroit Cougers, Manager Dave Gill said today.

The players and Manager Gill were stricken upon their arrival here. Following an examination by physicians, Gill said they would be permitted to play. The players, all regulars, are Dan Grosvenor, Frank Nighbor, King Clancy, Goalie Alex Connell and Fred Elliott.

AL LASSMAN'S CONDITION EXPLAINED

A SATISFACTORY statement as to the condition of Al Lassman, tackle of the New York University eleven, who has been confined incommunicado in Mercy Hospital since he was carried there from the game with Carnegie Tech at Forbes Field, November 24, in which he was badly injured, was made today by Dr. Leo O'Donnell, who is in charge of the case.

Answering criticism of his action in refusing even newspapermen to interview Lassman, to ascertain the truth or falsity of reports that he is more seriously injured than the public has been permitted to know, Dr. O'Donnell said the player had suffered a severe brain concussion and must be kept in strict seclusion away from all excitement, if he is to make complete recovery. Visitors would disturb him and might retard his convalescence. He is recovering as rapidly as could be expected, Dr. O'Donnell said, but it is unlikely that he will be able to leave the hospital in less than three weeks.

In the case of a brain concussion, the brain cells are severely bruised and, in a way, lacerated, according to Dr. O'Donnell. Inasmuch as the cellular tissue is extremely delicate, it takes at least a month or six weeks for it to regain its normal condition. During this time, the patient must have absolute quiet and remain free from excitement.

When the brain cells are bruised or lacerated, a certain amount of blood forms and afterward dries. As long as this blood remains on the brain, there is danger to the patient, and it must be absorbed and completely removed from the space between the brain and the skull before the danger is passed. It sometimes is necessary to perform an operation to remove more serious blood clots. This will not be necessary in the case of Lassman, however.

ough trial.

There is a difference of opinion among baseball men as to the advisability of moving Traynor to shortstop, at this stage of his career. In all probability Traynor would have made one of the greatest shortstops of all time if he had been moved to that position two or three years ago, but it may now be too late for him to make the change successfully.

John A. Heydler.

JOHN A. HEYDLER is the eighth man who has held the office of National League president in the 53 years of the league's life. The first was Morgan G. Bulkeley, previously governor of Connecticut, who served in 1876. William A. Hulbert occupied the chair from 1877 to 1882, inclusive, and A. G. Mills presided in 1883 and 1884. Then came the 18-year regime of N. E. Young, from 1885 to 1902. Harry C. Pullman succeeded Young and served until his death on July 29, 1909. Heydler finished the latter year as president, but Thomas J. Lynch was elected for the next four years. John K. Tener succeeded Lynch in 1913, resigning on August 6, 1918, and Heydler has been in office ever since.

ONLY one National League president, A. G. Mills, ever split with the club owners and quit his post because their actions did not coincide with his views as to what would be best for the welfare of baseball.

In 1884 Jim McCormick, Jack Glassock and Charley Briody jumped Cleveland contracts to play in the Outlaw Union Association, and Fred Dunlap, George Schaffer and Charley Sweeny jumped the reserve clause. President Mills demanded that the jumpers be barred, and resigned when the club owners reinstated them upon payment of fines of from $500 to $1,000.

WHILE the National League magnates were in session at New York Tuesday, Fred Clarke and Johnny Evers were talking over old times, and both declared that Honus Wagner in his heyday did not have an equal in the game.

"If Honus had gone after records," said Evers, "there is no telling what he might have done, but he always was in there playing for his team. He was the best baserunner I ever saw. And as for fielding, he had hands like a couple of shovels. He would scoop up ground, ball and all, and when he made a short throw the oncoming baserunner would get a face full of dirt. And he never threw to the wrong base. He sure was a smart ball player."

Sam Breadon.

"WAGNER never went out to steal bases unless there was something to be gained by it," Clarke commented. "But when you wanted a base stolen he'd get it for you any time." A bystander's observation that there never was another infielder like Wagner drew from Clarke the following: "No, and there never was an outfielder like him, either. He could cover more ground in the outfield than any man I know. He was really a great outfielder. One day, when I had him in the outfield, he threw out two runners at the plate and would have thrown out the man who scored the only run made against us that day if an infielder had not intercepted the throw. Arms like Wagner's don't grow any more."

CHARGES that the St. Louis Cardinals are generally run from the front office, and that the manager of the Redbirds is only a figurehead expected to take orders from President Sam Breadon and Vice President Branch Rickey, got a rise out of Breadon.

"No manager could work for me," said Breadon, "who would permit us to run the team. He is supposed to know his business and any talk that Rickey or I try to tell him how to work is nonsense. Most of the year Rickey is on the road.

"OUR manager gets lots of useful help from us in regard to certain players but there is a limit to that, especially if he thinks he ought to have a certain player from a certain club in the minors and the player's value is put at $75,000. We simply suggest that he try our farm hand for we are well supplied with good talent.

"Once the team is assembled Rickey and I keep our hands off and our mouths closed. Rickey is sometimes 100 miles away from the team looking over minor league players. I have refused to interfere, for if a suggestion I made was followed and it turned out bad the manager would have a quick comeback. Let me say that the manager of the Cardinals is no rubber stamp."

Paul Berlenbach.

AND Paul Berlenbach to Jack Britton, Johnny Dundee, Jack Burke and other fighters who have either attempted comebacks in the ring or have talked of doing so. The former light heavyweight champion, who was supposed to have amassed a quarter of a million dollars in a couple of years, and to have invested his earnings in such a profitable way that he would never be found in a financial pinch, declares that he is by no means as "well fixed" as the public believes, but that on the contrary he finds it necessary to re-enter the fistic game in order to acquire new funds.

"I HAVEN'T got all the money I need," Berlenbach told Wilbur Wood. "People keep telling me I have $250,000 salted away and should be satisfied. But I haven't got it. I earned more than that—Dan Hickey and I split $385,000—but I haven't got it now. Where did it go? Well, I was married, you know, and I had a lot of expenses in that connection. And I did a lot of traveling—several trips to California and Florida and other places—and that all cost a lot of money. I still have some left, but not enough.

"That left hand is all that's holding me back. If Bonesetter Reese can fix it up for me—and he is my last hope—I will show folks that I still can fight. Just give me two good hands and let me get into shape and nobody my weight in the world can beat me."

BANQUETS TOP OFF SANDLOT SEASON

By TOM BIRKS.

NOW that the active playing season of the independent gridiron is a matter of history, a number of district teams are planning banquets to top off what most of the managers consider the greatest one in sandlot football locally.

East Pittsburgh Firemen had their gathering on Tuesday evening, and plans for next year were talked over at that session. It is the intention of the Firemen's organization to entirely enclose the quarry grounds. The club officials lost hundreds of dollars during the last month of the campaign with its board fence being unfinished. Next year the fence will be there and only the best attractions will be brought there for the benefit of the fans.

Oakmont will have a banquet and general blowout at the Willows possibly at the end of next week. Manager Patrizio will present a full-sized picture of the squad. At this session, plans for the enclosing of Oakmont's playing venue will be made. In fact, nearly all of the successful clubs this fall are considering enclosing their fields next year.

West View has no plans for next season. The park has proved sufficient to handle all the crowds. While talking of West View, there is a rumor floating around town that the Western Pennsylvania champions are dickering with the Akron Awnings to show in the Rubbertown before they put away their Red and Black jerseys.

Grafton Sullivan of Burns states that the New Kensington club will dispense with its banquet this year. Last year Daddy Burns was the honor guest. With a season of nothing but hard luck, Sullivan intends to call off any speech-making efforts.

McChesneytown will have a couple of banquets. One enthusiastic supporter is giving the boys a chicken and waffle supper this evening in Latrobe, but the team's official banquet is dated for next Tuesday when the townspeople of Latrobe will give an affair to show their appreciation of the club's grid efforts.

Arnold Independents have made a little money for the first time in their history and Manager Hess announces a get-together, with some prominent speakers, next week.

Another new club, the Verona Moose, headed by Manager Johnny McConnell, is going to step and show the boys a good time. One of the best uniformed clubs in the district, it will have its picture sent to the Mooseheart Magazine.

McKeesport Olympics will hold a meeting this evening to decide matters connected with the season, and Port Vue Quakers will stage their session Monday night.

GRID REPORTING

ics who may know how to coach a line (Roper in his time was a lineman), but certainly are out of order when they try to cry down the credit that is due a good running halfback. I always have contended, and Mr. Roper has not caused me to change my opinion in the least, that it is a football player's own fault if he is born a lineman and thus is lost in the shuffle on the football field. A reporter has all he can do to follow the ball, single out the man carrying it and probably the one who makes the tackle, and keep track of the yardage and the score. That's more than the casual observer can do at one sitting and that's about as much as he is interested in trying to do. It is the duty of a football scout to observe the individual work of all of the 22 players on any given play, and very few of these men, trained in their line, can do that well, judging from the results of their labors. You can count the really good scouts of the land on the fingers of both hands and still have some digits left over. A team generally scouts a tough opponent all season and then winds up by getting licked, 40 or 50 to 0.

As for me, I am afraid that, sorely as it may grieve Mr. Roper and others of his ilk (and I believe he himself has been a scribe on occasion), I shall have to go on telling the dear public in my accounts of the mighty battles how they were won and lost, as accurately as possible, and let the intricate and finer points of the complicated work of the linemen and interfering backs, which few persons care a hang about, anyway, in the heat of battle, be discussed pro and con in the councils of the great and infallible and very, very wise and all-knowing coaches. And if any member of this staff ever sends in a glowing description of the marvelous playing of the guards and tackles and hair-raising feats of the centers and neglects to record the final score and tell who scored the touchdowns and how, he may consider himself eligible to resign his post on the spot. When we want that sort of guff we'll hire the editor of the Congressional Record or a coach who seems to hold lightly the spectacle and thrill of the game to indite the amazing details for posterity to read when we get around the publishing them.

Callahan Denies He Has Quit Ring

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 13.—(AP.)—Rumors that Mushy Callahan, junior welterweight champion, plans to retire from the ring because of poor health "are unfounded," the Los Angeles boxer declared today.

Callahan, who returned yesterday to his Los Angeles home from a four months' Eastern tour, said:

"I'm feeling fine and have arranged to box at Hollywood within two weeks."

Callahan said he and his manager, Eddie Sears, had come to a parting of ways and that the contract between them would be severed officially in February. Until that time, the champion said, he would act as his own manager.

"Big Three" Schools May Heal Breach

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Dec. 13.—(INS.)—Hopes for a mending of the disrupted "Big Three" were seen here today as the result of the plea in the Yale Daily News by James C. (Red) Barrett, captain-elect of the Harvard eleven, for a renewal of athletic relations with Princeton.

Barrett stated that the game with Princeton previously had aroused more enthusiasm at Cambridge than any other game, with the exception of the Yale clash, and voiced a hope that some way would be found to bring about a resumption of relations.

RADIATOR Glycerine
THE SAFE ANTI-FREEZE

One filling of
Radiator Glycerine lasts all winter—because it won't evaporate

Lots of people use anti-freeze and still have freeze-ups. That's because ordinary anti-freeze evaporates. Its protection steals away. Then comes the freeze-up, the car goes out of commission, and there is often a fat bill for repairs.

It saves you worry

But Radiator Glycerine users never worry about evaporation. One filling protects their cars for the entire winter because glycerine will not evaporate.

Amundsen used glycerine at the North Pole. Its virtues are pointed out by the U. S. Bureau of Standards. Thousands of motorists rely on it. It gives complete protection against freezing. Won't harm your car, deface the lacquer finish, or give off unpleasant odors. It is tried, tested and safe.

Put it in NOW

Get your winter's anti-freeze protection now. Have the cooling system tightened to prevent leakage. Then put in Radiator Glycerine and be free of freeze-up worries for the winter. Make sure the servicing instructions are followed.

Your own garage probably has Radiator Glycerine. Any distributor listed can tell you where to get it. Act to-day.

POWER TRUST'S CENSORSHIP REVEALED

By M. L. RAMSAY

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—Friendly bankers, lawyers and public officials were enlisted by power propagandists to maintain a censorship over newspaper comment on the public utility industries, it was shown in Federal Trade Commission records.

Each time a critical editorial was published, the utility men inspired a "disinterested" letter from one of these leading citizens assailing the editor's statements. Propagandists declared the results worth more than the entire cost of the propaganda bureau organization, which ran into hundreds of thousands a year.

George F. Oxley, chief propagandist of the National Electric Light Association, described the method in telling Texas utility executives, at a meeting at Dallas, how to organize a "public utility information bureau."

The bureau's executive committee should include 15 of the utility executives, drawn from different localities, so the state would be "covered geographically." This would permit each committeeman to solicit financial backing from every company in his own locality. Oxley continued:

"In the second place, if a newspaper in a locality happens to print an article that is not favorable to the public utilities, the man living in that immediate vicinity, who knows some banker or lawyer or some public official to whom he can explain something of the problems of the utilities, should have that man write an open letter to the editor of the newspaper answering that particular editorial—not the man who is on the committee, but some friend of his of good standing in the community.

"That has been tried in pretty nearly every one of the states already organized, and results from that one thing have more than paid for the money put into this movement."

SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH

by HAVEY J. BOYLE

—DOYLE BATTING FOR BOYLE—

GUY'S Webster avenue barber shop has featured a succession of polite, well-mannered young darkies from the Southland. These boys retain much of the rich flavor of their native land, but some of them do not long to return. In the case of one there was anything but a desire to visit his Southern domicile, the feeling apparently being due to mistreatment. Asked why he did not take a jaunt back to Dixie, this expressive Negro youth replied:

"Boss, I didn't lose anything down there—when I headed North I didn't even leave my footprints!"

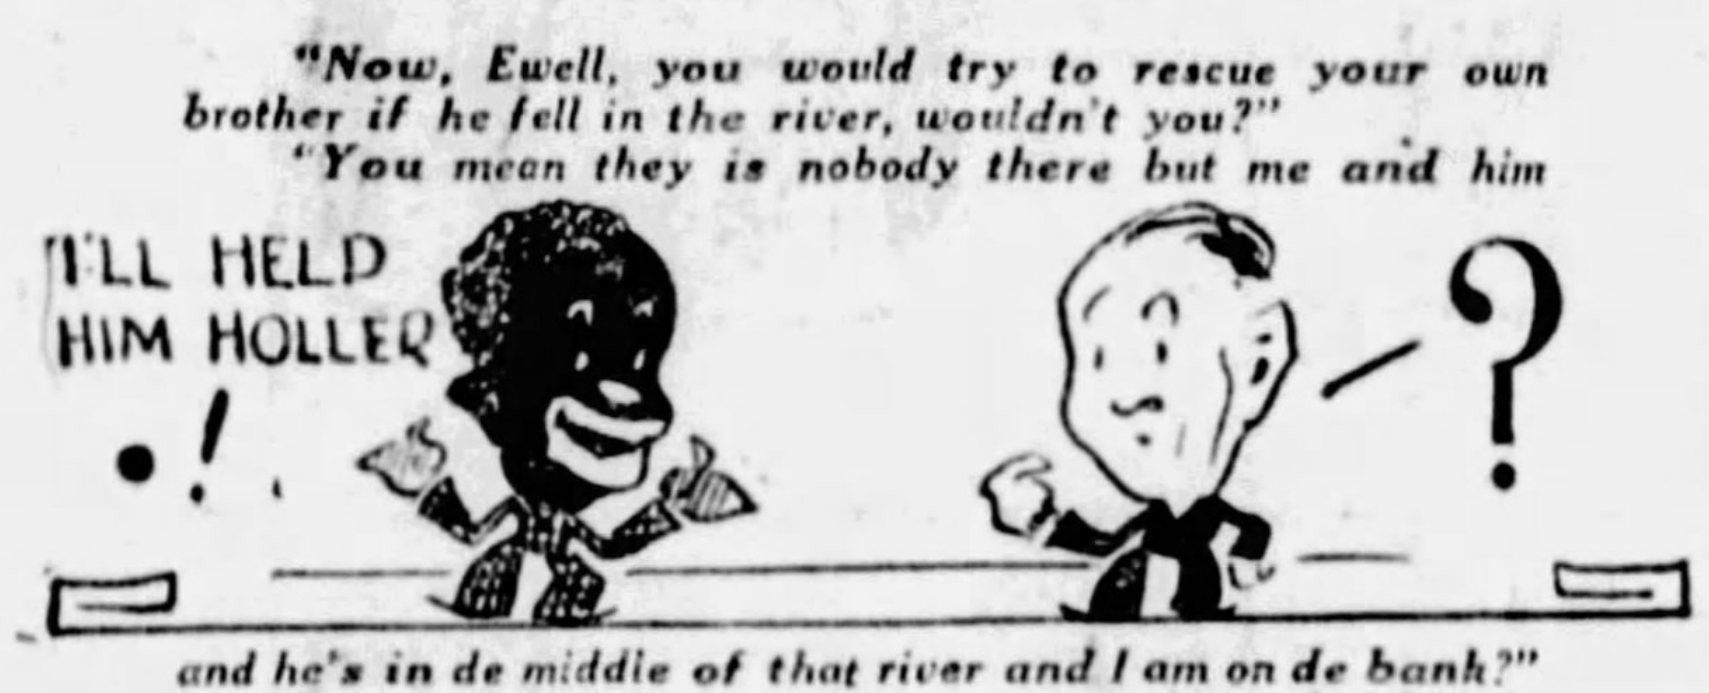
Others who made hookups with Guy's shop carried strong aversions to airplanes, deep water, cemeteries and other things that often inspire terror. A lad with an inborn fear of the water was being quizzed about his weakness.

"Now, Ewell, you would try to rescue your own brother if he fell in the river, wouldn't you?"

"You mean they is nobody there but me and him and he's in de middle of that river and I am on de bank?"



"Yes, that's the idea—of course you would help him?"

"Mister, I'd help him holler."

THIS youth insisted that his ability to run when scared was ample safety. His sprint powers, he averred, even thwarted a man with a gun.

"Let him have dat gun," he declared, "just gimme a good corner and I'll take care of myself."

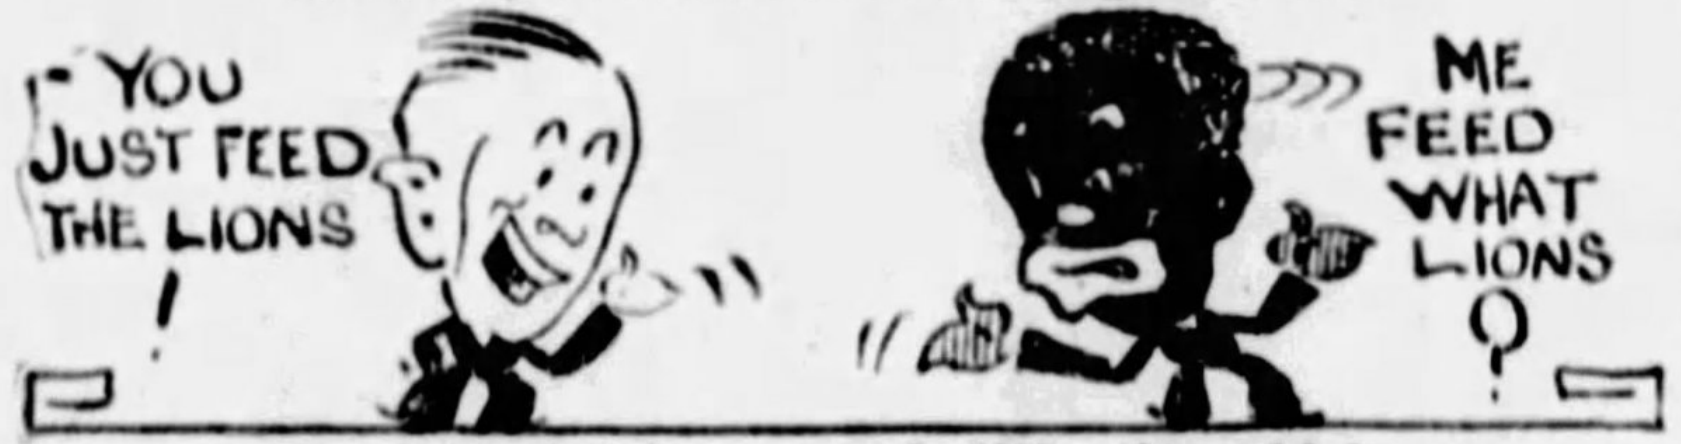
An unsophisticated lad is just in from a Southern section. Lions and airplanes are his principal worries. The boys in the shop arranged to have a man come in who posed as an employment agent. He was looking for boys to work around the zoo. He made an offer to the young darkey.

"What does I have to do?" inquired the shine boy.

"Most of your work will be feeding the lions."



YOU JUST FEED THE LIONS !
ME FEED WHAT LIONS ?

"Feeding what lions, man? Why, I wouldn't even feed baby lions!"

* * *

THE same youngster won't get close to an airplane. When informed that he should try to take a ride, the Negro youth observed:

"I ain't got no business up there where dem birds ought to be."

Ted Prendergast, of the reportorial staff, likes to mingle with all classes. You may find him on a hot police story at 2 o'clock and in the art centers two hours later. Well, anyhow, Ted kicks in with this item of interest:

"Chaliapin, first name Feodor, the great Russian basso, not only stopped in Ramon's humble little restaurant on The Hill when he visited Pittsburgh in the past, but also viewed the exhibits in Carnegie Museum. A giant of a man, he wore a great fur coat, making him appear as of superhuman proportions.

"Thus he entered the marble walls of the Museum. Behind him, unseen, was a tiny Jap valet. In the doorway, with a bravura sweep, the famous singer removed his coat from his shoulders. And the little Jap with perseverance beautiful, and without a trace of humor, ambled behind him, with the great coat submerging him.

"Such is fame."

TOY MISSION'S AID TO CHEER 18,000

Pittsburgh's unique Christmas philanthropy, the Toy Mission, with headquarters this year in the Old South School, Ross and Diamond streets, expects to give presents to nearly 18,000 children. The names of deserving youngsters are being submitted by teachers in the public and parochial schools, and tickets are being sent the youngsters which will entitle them to receive gifts at the distribution on Monday, December 24.

Toys are being sent to the mission in large quantities, and 20 volunteer workers are busy cleaning, repairing and packing them. But many more toys are needed.

The late Maj. R. W. A. Simmons founded the Toy Mission 35 years ago. His business associate and fellow communicant in the old Fourth Avenue Baptist Church, George L. Bond, helped him. They gave toys to 25 children the first year. Maj. Simmons is dead, but Mr. Bond carries on as manager of the mission. Last year more than 15,000 boys and girls received Christmas gifts from the Toy Mission.

SUGGESTIONS FOR DONORS

Mr. Bond offered today these suggestions to persons willing to help the Mission:

Get your toys in early. Give the Mission plenty of time to repair, clean and pack them. More toys were received on December 24, last year, than on any other day. Don't delay until the day before Christmas. The toys are to be distributed then.

Give some consideration to the needs of boys and girls between 10 and 14 years old. Most persons think only of the tiny tots.

Don't give toys that are broken beyond hope of repair. Horns that won't blow and mechanical toys that won't work are not wanted. The Toy Mission does not care to disappoint the hopes of children by giving them worthless presents.

The Mission would like to receive light colored silk stockings and silk or cotton underwear with which to cover the bodies of soiled dolls and make stockings for them.

WORKERS KEPT BUSY

The Toy Mission opened headquarters the week before Thanksgiving and its workers have been busy ever since, not only in preparing the toys received but also in appealing to clubs and churches for help. Throughout the year Mrs. John E. Potter, wife of the president of the Potter Title and Trust Company, has been busy repairing dolls, and Mrs. A. C. Houston, wife of a retired wholesale grocer, has been busy dressing them for the Mission. They are still at work with many assistants. Some of the workers have been helping the Mission for 20 years.

Mrs. Potter has become expert in repairing dolls. She inserts eyes and attaches arms and legs with the skill and assurance of a professional.

Toys are essential, Mr. Bond thinks, to the proper development of children.

TOYS AID CHARACTER

"We believe," he said, "that in giving toys to children who would not otherwise receive any, we are not only helping their parents out of a difficult situation, not only giving the children pleasure, but contributing to the upbuilding of the children's character.

"Something of importance is missing from the life of a girl who has never had a doll to dress and undress, to put to bed, and lavish mother love on. We are tying to save little girls from suffering that privation. It is equally important that boys should have toys."

INSTRUCTOR DIES, SCHOOL FLAG PUT AT HALF STAFF

The flag atop of Carrick High School stands at half-staff in memory of Prof. Merwin A. Nolan, instructor of mathematics and history, who died Tuesday while on a visit to his home in Nittany, Pa., during the Thanksgiving recess.

For the last four years his whole time was devoted to the Carrick High School, since its founding.

He was popular among the student bodies, and because of his interest in sports and for sponsoring of the school's graduating classes.

He leaves his mother, sister and four brothers. He was not married. He was a member of McCandless Lodge, F. & A. M. and the Pennsylvania Consistory. The funeral will be held from his home tomorrow. While in Pittsburgh, Mr. Nolan roomed in Mt. Lebanon.

After a long trial marked by many clashes between the attorneys, Sava Tkeck, 108 Milford street, Duquesne, was quickly found guilty by a jury in Crimnal Court yesterday of felonous assault and battery for stabbing George Pasick, of Renton, in the lung. He was not sentenced pending action for a new trial.

Visiting Judge O. C. Kent, of Crawford county, was kept busy throughout the day ruling on objections made by Assistant District Attorney Earl Jackson and William LeGoullon, the opposing counsel. Testimony showed that Tkeck ran a poker game in the rear of his pool room. Pasick was stabbed during a fight arising over a no limit poker game. The defendant contended the stabbing took place outside the room by a person unknown, declaring he never left the room.

Hurt Attending Funeral, Ask Damages

Seriously hurt returning from a funeral, Christ J. Panos, 1000 Wylie avenue and his wife Mary J. Panos, have brought suit against James J. Flannery and M. Kerwan, trading as Flannery Bros., and the Allegheny Express Company for $5,000 damages for bodily injuries. It is alleged that the plaintiffs were invited to ride in the automobile of Dr. Zacharias Spance, upon leaving a cemetery in Wilkinsburg, March 23 last, where they had attended a funeral. At Homewood and Hamilton avenues a passenger automobile of the express company struck the Spence car and injured Mr. and Mrs. Panos.

Husband Gone 12 Years, Asks Divorce

Quarrels were frequent and her husband worked but little Mrs. Madaline F. Briseno, 34, Cheswick, testified in her suit for divorce against Edward Briseno, which was heard in Common Pleas Court by Judge Joseph M. Swearingen. The couple were married in Wellsburg, W. Va., in March, 1914. Mrs. Briseno did not believe the wedding would go on the rocks when her husband finally deserted her in October 1, 1916. He had left once before and she thought he might come back. Twelve years having elapsed she decided to apply for a divorce. The couple lived for a short time in Spring Garden avenue, following the marriage.

HOME FOR AGED ASKS CHANGE IN ZONING

Council deferred action on an ordinance amending the zoning law to permit the erection of a charitable institution in the East End after granting a hearing yesterday to sponsors and objectors.

The bill would change the zoning classification of property bounded by Saline street, Lilac street, Ludwick street and the Vineland plan of lots to permit the erection of a new building for the Jewish Home for the Aged.

Attorney Edward S. Sheinberg, sponsoring the change, declared that J. H. Frank owned a large plot of ground occupied by a residence in that area, and that he intended to deed it to the Jewish Home for erection of a larger building. The structure would enhance property values in the neighborhood, Sheinberg said.

M. L. Cohen, architect for the proposed structure, said it would cost between $350,000 and $500,000 and would have a capacity for 150 patients, whereas the residence now on the site would accommodate only 14 persons. The building would be about four stories high and would set back 85 feet from Saline street and 50 feet from Lilac street, he said.

Attorney J. J. Lawlor, appearing for objectors to the amending bill said the presence of the institution would depreciate property in that section.

Will Rogers Says

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.

For her fourth offense selling liquor, the great state of Michigan sends the mother of 10 children to the penitentiary for life.

I guess that will just about blot out the liquor business in the state. I suppose she was the last one selling. Any woman that tries to raise 10 orphan kids in that cold state not only ought to be allowed to sell booze, but the state should furnish it to her to sell, and guarantee that it is pure. That would make her the greatest life saver in Michigan.

It certainly ought to be a lesson to people with 10 children to never move to Michigan.

Yours, WILL.

MAN WHO MADE "OLD MASTERS" SEEKS PAY

ROME, Dec. 13.—(AP.)—Alceo Dossena, the sculptor whose skill in reproducing classic masterpieces defied art experts of half a dozen countries, yesterday filed suit against the antique dealers, Fasoli and Pallesi, who hired him to make the fac-similes over a period of 10 years. He asked 1,250,000 lire (approximately $65,870), which he claims to be due him for his work.

Dossena's brief set forth that he understood when he turned over to the dealers his remarkable fac-similes of the works of Donatello, Pisano and other old masters of the craft, they were to be marketed as copies. The document avers that only recently did Dossena learn that his reproductions had been sold as originals, some of them to museums in Germany, New York, Boston and Cleveland.

The brief further says that in the 10 years, although one of his statues was sold abroad for more than $2,000,000, Dossena himself received less than $35,000 for all of his work.

Best Remedy for Obstinate Cough Made at Home

You'll never know how quickly a stubborn cough or chest cold can be conquered, until you try this famous recipe. It is used in millions of homes, because it gives more prompt, positive relief than anything else. It's no trouble at all to mix and costs but a trifle.

Into a pint bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey to make a full pint. This saves two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough medicine, and gives you a purer, better remedy. It never spoils, and tastes good—children like it.

You can actually feel its penetrating, soothing action on the inflamed throat membranes. It also promptly loosens the germ-laden phlegm, and at the same time, it is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes. This three-fold action explains why it brings such quick relief even in severe bronchial coughs and "flu" coughs.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

SIMPLE HOME REMEDY FOR GRAY HAIR OR BALDNESS

Banishes Dandruff, Eczema, Etc.—Revives Youthful Luster and Color.

RESULTS AMAZING, FOLKS HERE SAY

"I bought a bottle for one of the children to stop the itching rash and dandruff for which it's wonderful, and using it on my own scalp I was amazed to notice my hair getting thicker, more even colored and every gray hair turned back again, like magic," enthusiastically declared a lady whose beautiful head of hair is a walking advertisement to the success of Lea's Hair Tonic.

"Lea's Hair Tonic has the faint odor of bay rum and contains sulphur, which, as everyone knows, is a natural part of human hair, but in addition it has seven ingredients a doctor labored years to work out in his search for something harmless, which one could use for years with unvarying change in the hair. He didn't want an old-time dye that brings such shocking shades, ever growing worse and darker. He sought a tonic to be rubbed into the scalp and not on the hair. You can dip hair in a basin of Lea's Hair Tonic with no change in color, but rub it into the hair roots nightly a few times and watch the hair gradually resume from root to tip its youthful color of blonde, red, brown or black, which ever it originally was, and who can give your hair a more becoming shade than the one nature gave you first?"

Applied at home with finger tips like any tonic experts cannot detect its use. In about three applications dandruff vanishes and the scalp begins taking on a healthy tone—then the mirror whispers a little secret—you are NOT gray any more and your hair is thicker and you look years younger. Men swear by it. Prominent men and women constantly before the public wouldn't dream of staining their scalp with dyes, but Lea's is different—thousands use it unbeknown except to the family, and you may, too, for druggists have Lea's Hair Tonic, or send dollar bill to Lea Tonic Co., Brentwood, Md., for bottle and directions, return mail.

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

BATTLING RACKETEER FREED IN GUN-TOTING

International News Service.

CHICAGO, Dec. 13.—Free on charges of gun-toting today, "Spike" O'Donnell, listed as "coal merchant," but known to be a rival of Joe Saltis, Chicago's elusive beer baron, admitted life was "not so bad after all."

Judge Leroy Fairbank, in Municipal Court, brought O'Donnell his joy and new outlook on life when he ruled that "Spike" was protecting his home when he was arrested. The court ruled the weapon was not concealed because "Spike" had it in his hand ready for action as he stood on his front porch.

O'Donnell recently howled loud and long on the "hardships of business" when further continuances were refused in his case, telling the court that life had become just a matter of dodging revolver and machine gun bullets.

It all came about because "Spike" sought to branch out in his "coal" business and the expansion conflicted with the activities of the nimble-footed Mr. Saltis. Saltis is absent from Chicago, four law enforcement agencies admit, and has been for many weeks, but his agents are both watchful and efficient.

O'Donnell brothers, two of them, have fallen under fire of business rivals and "Spike" has been a target at least 20 times but has always escaped injury. A few weeks ago as he was entering his automobile another machine drove by and a machine gun ripped out an intended message of death. O'Donnell escaped though more than 50 bullets struck the car.

He hurried to his mother's home and obtained a revolver and was out on the porch ready for action when he was arrested.

WONDERFUL NEW REMEDY FOR RHEUMATIC ACHES AND PAINS

Liniment They Use on Big League Ball Players Like Herb Pennock.

STOPS ACHES, PAINS, STIFFNESS QUICKLY

Big league baseball stars like Herb Pennock, Lee Meadows, Ray Kremer, Walter Johnson, Bucky Harris, Ty Cobb, George Sisler, Coveleski and others cannot afford to be laid up with aches, pains, swollen joints or stiffness a single day, so they must use the best remedy money can buy.

The liniment they use out at the ball park works like lightning and in a jiffy relieves aches, pains, stiffness or swollen joints due to sprains, rheumatic troubles, neuritis, neuralgia, etc. A thousand times each baseball season this wonderful liniment does its work in big leagues, professional and amateur baseball circles, and yet this liniment they use is so mild it would not harm a baby's skin and never blisters no matter how much you rub it in or bandage it up.

The liniment is named after the famous trainer, Mike Martin, the man who for years was trainer of the New York "Yankees," Cincinnati "Reds," Columbia University, etc., and who is now trainer of Washington American League Baseball Club.

It is called Mike Martin's Liniment. Local druggists are featuring it. Any person suffering with aches, pains, lame back, rheumatism, swollen joints, stiffness, neuralgia or neuritis, should get a bottle. It is pleasant to use, never stains, and by rubbing a little into the sore, stiff, achy parts you get almost magic relief.

Ball players often catch cold, get sore or bungled up and come to the ball park hardly able to walk, yet out they come from a good rub with Mike Martin's Liniment, as lively, full of pep and ginger, as anybody could wish. Watch them scamper and prance in rain or shine. You'd never dream they ever had an ache or pain in their lives. Mike Martin, by making this liniment available to the general public in drug stores, is doing a great thing for those who suffer. If reader lives out of town and druggist hasn't it, write Mike Martin, Ball Club, Washington, D. C., and he will send a large size bottle, with full directions, parcel post, for $1.00. All good druggists sell smaller trial size bottles for a few cents.

"BEGGAR ON HORSEBACK" AT Y DOESN'T NEED CHARITY; OTHER STAGE CUES

By GEORGE SEIBEL.

GEORGE SEIBEL

WHEN an organization that is not professional, though it might resent the term "amateur," essays something as ambitions as "Beggar on Horseback," produced by the Civic Playhouse of the Y. M. & W. H. A. last night, the critic is ready to cast the mantle of charity, or whatever charity wears, over the expected failure. But last night the critic had nothing to do but wonder how it was done. The production at the "Y" is worthy of all praise. This play requires a variety of scenes, a department store of costumes, lighting and musical effects that must click, props and machinery of weird sorts—and good acting. All of which was there—and all went as if oiled by Belasco, or Helen Stout.

The trying role of the composer was acted by E. Martin Browne with sympathy and understanding—his voice had the ring of wistful helplessness, and his face mirrored the agony of despair at the close of the prison scene. Annette Nosoff played Gladys with rich comedy spirit, while Marianne Dempsey gave the right romantic note to Cynthia. Norman Porter as Mr. Cady and Abe Savage as Homer raised gales of laughter by their capital portrayals, never losing a point. Mary Liebman as Miss You and Estelle Safier as Miss Hey were the latest Underwood model. Nor must Karl Heinrich and Genevieve Ward be forgotten—they gave the pantomime, "A Kiss in Xanadu," with poetic spirit.

One of the finest of modern fantastic plays received a production that would have pleased the authors, Kaufman and Connelly, as it pleased and astonished the critic. Miss Charity's mantle was not needed.

Coming of Moissi Brings Memories

The coming of Alexander Moissi to Pittsburgh next week, to play Tolstoy's "Living Corpse" at the Pitt Theater, will be noteworthy, because it is the first time a German actor of the first rank comes here since Konrad Dreher, the "German Joe Jefferson," who appeared here about 25 years ago. Dreher is still hale and hearty, having played in many German cities last year, and remembers Pittsburgh very well, because he was very ill here, but had to play "The Merry Peasant" just the same. To walk with Dreher through the streets of Munich is to find out how popular he is and how polite the Germans are. Everybody lifts his hat and calls, "Gruess Gott!"

Sonnenthal and Sorma played American engagements, but apparently did not reach Pittsburgh. The famous Meininger company was here and gave a memorable performance of "Julius Caesar," with a star mob. In earlier days many German players visited Pittsburgh, including Janauschek, who later became one of our English-speaking stars.

Few American actors have played in Germany, but Edwin Booth in 1883 scored a great triumph there.

The silver wreath presented to him at Berlin bore the inscription "To the unrivaled tragedian." That was high praise from people who dote on Shakespeare—32 of the Bard's 37 plays were presented in Germany last year. Moissi is said to be the greatest living Hamlet.

She Was Ophelia To Eddie Foy

It isn't long since Isabel Irving, who was a star 25 years ago, played here in a minor role with one of the newer stars. This week, at the Alvin Theater, there is another of the old-time stage beauties, playing a minor role in "My Maryland," and wondering whether the playgoers who worshiped at her feet a quarter of a century ago still remember her name.

They will remember it when they are reminded that Maude Raymond was the leading woman in Eddie Foy's company for many years. She has many pleasant reminiscences of that famous comedian who always wanted to play Hamlet. She was his Ophelia. She also has pleasant memories of Pittsburgh, for it was here she received a wire from the New York producer calling her to take the part opposite Eddie Foy. She was then playing a minor role in some operetta at the Alvin. Within a few years she became popular all over the United States and was acclaimed as one of the most beautiful actresses in the world.

An old question used to be, "Where do the pins go?" One might also ask, "What becomes of the stars?" And Maude Raymond could answer it, "You find them everywhere."

Quickest Way to Sweeten Stomach

PERHAPS that sour condition of your stomach is due to an over-stimulation of gastric acid. A sour stomach isn't very pleasant, and isn't very easy to excuse when there is so simple a way to remedy it. To neutralize the harmful acid and put your stomach in good order take a little "Pape's Diapepsin"; after meals, or whenever the need is felt.

This fine remedy removes the cause of the trouble and promotes normal, healthy digestion. "Pape's Diapepsin" is sold by all druggists at 60 cents a package, and is the remedy which is recommended by millions because it gives immediate relief in all cases of difficult and painful digestion.

Be sure, therefore, to provide yourself with "Pape's Diapepsin" today, so that stomach pain and digestive troubles need never worry you again. Or sour stomach cause you discomfort. This form of relief has helped many who thought their disorders could not be helped.

COMING BILLS INCLUDE TUNES

The book of "Polly," new musical comedy, coming to the Alvin for the week of December 17, was written by Guy Bolton, George Middleton and Isabel Leighton. Mr. Bolton and Mr. Middleton are the authors of the original "Polly With a Past," on which "Polly" is based.

Seats are on sale in the box office of the Pitt for the one week engagement, beginning next Monday night, of Alexander Moissi, in Max Reinhardt's production of "Redemption" ("Der Lebende Leichnam"). Moissi is claimed to be Central Europe's foremost actor. Matinees are listed for Thursday and Saturday.

Viola Roache plays the role of the English mother in Belasco's production of "The Bachelor Father," coming to the Nixon for a week beginning Monday night, December 17. Her last appearance was with Ina Claire in "The Last of Mrs. Cheney."

A screen version of "Just Married" will be shown next week in the Penn, with Ruth Taylor and James Hall co-starred. Lila Lee, William Austin and Ivy Harris are featured in the cast.

George Bancroft's latest starring vehicle, "The Docks of New York," will be shown in the Stanley next week, with Betty Compson and Olga Baclonova among the prominent members of the supporting cast.

Antonio Moreno directs a big bootleg ring in "The Midnight Taxi," booked for the Grand's screen next week. Helene Costello and Myrna Loy are members of the supporting cast.

What good Americans do when they get to Paris is the theme of "Dry Martini," the screen version of the John Thomas novel, which heads the sound film program in Loew's Aldine next week. Every scene and sequence has a Parisian background.

"Mischief Makers" will be the attraction next week at the Academy, presented by a company headed by Bob Startzman and Ruth Price. It has a chorus of 16 singing and dancing girls.

Photophone, in its third week in the Harris, will have for the first three days of next week Rod La Roque in "Captain Swagger," with Sue Carol assisting the star. The vaudeville will be headed by Francis Renault, impersonator.

Charles Ray, the picture star, will appear in person at the Sheridan Square the first three days of next week. The screen feature will be "The Red Dance," with Dolores Del Rio and Charles Farrell.

Playwright's Son, Here, Recalls Alvin Genesis

John P. Campbell is in town arranging for the coming of "The Trial of Mary Dugan" to the Pitt Christmas week. Advance agents for theatrical productions come and go without notice each week, but Mr. Campbell gets special mention for two reasons. One is that he is a native of Pittsburgh. Another is that he is a son of Bartley Campbell, also a native of this city, who began his professional life as a newspaper reporter here and became the most successful American playwright of his day. Of his several plays "The White Slave" and "Siberia" were especially popular in the 'eighties. His son, now here, is a veteran theatrical man. He recalls that, as a boy, his first attention to a theater was directed to Library Hall, in Penn avenue, near Sixth street. Also that the Alvin was named for the title character in a play called "Alvin Joslin," played for many years by Charles L. Davis, builder of the Alvin.

"MILLIONAIRE KID" OF MOVIES HANDS OUT $125,000 FOR "FRONT PAGE"

By REGINA CREWE.

(Copyright, 1928, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 12.

YOUNG HOWARD HUGHES, president of Caddo Productions, continues to surprise Hollywood. The latest shock he administered to the old-timers was in handing over the sum of $125,000 for the screen rights to "The Front Page." Considering the sensational nature of the play, and especially the unfilmable dialog, a lot of producers are asking "Now that he has it, what's he going to do with it?" But the same companies were angling for the picture rights themselves. And they know in their hearts that Hughes beat them to it.

Examination of Hughes' career in the movie industry shows him to be not quite so foolish as half of Hollywood's stories make him appear. It is true that he has spent over $2,000,000 in making "Hell's Angels," much of which has been expended solely because this millionaire kid insists upon having every inch of his picture absolutely authentic. He has, for instance, kept a whole fleet of airplanes busy. Not to mention a sufficient number of aviators to win a couple of Latin revolutions. He has a regular standing army of fliers. But in the end he'll likely get his money back.

Hughes will be 25 on Christmas eve. He is a nephew of Rupert Hughes, the writer, and comes from Texas. His father founded a huge fortune in the Texas oil fields, and Howard is the sole heir. His income for the past four years has been stupendous. Thus far he hasn't lost any money in movies. When "Mickey" Neilan interested him in the business, the two of them made "Everybody's Acting." And it made them a 50 per cent profit. "Two Arabian Knights" cost Hughes $680,000. It has made him $1,000,000. "The Racket" and "The Mating Call" are both paying dividends. Hughes has been an aviator since the age of 14, and is one of the best amateur golfers in America. Incidentally, he is one of the handsomest men in Hollywood—and—yes, he's married. But interesting, just the same.

THE question, "Are bandits movie stars?" must be answered in the negative, it seems. For the fact that Barry Norton is an actor didn't save him from a "stick-up" the other night. Ramon Romeo, writer-scenarist-actor, was with Barry. Between them they contributed $25 and a wrist watch to the highwaymen's Christmas fund.

The Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences apparently believes that it isn't getting enough material printed about the movies. For it has announced that it is now in the publishing business with Hollywood Magazine as its "official" mouthpiece. Douglas Fairbanks, who is signing all necessary papers, says that the mag will "tell the truth about the motion picture people." Which will indeed be interesting—if true. More probably it will reflect the image of the industry as it sees itself. The important part remains "to see ourselves as others see us."

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Flu Forces Canceling Of Two Deb Parties This Week

LET'S hope that the epidemic of influenza that is sweeping the country won't decimate the ranks of the debutantes here as it has been doing in other cities. Louise Reed's illness has forced the cancellation of two parties this week, but so far as I know now the rest of the social program will go on undisturbed. This is a highly important winter for these girls, and it would be a pity if the carefully arranged schedule of social events were upset.

Today's debutante party is the luncheon which Mrs. Grant Dibert and her sister, Mrs. Stewart Pool, give in their Penn avenue home in honor of Mary Margaret Marshall, daughter of the Charles D. Marshalls, of Fifth avenue. There were about 65 guests at the luncheon, including, of course, the debutantes, some of their friends and a few relatives and close friends of the two hostesses. The Christmas atmosphere is beginning to make itself felt now and for table decorations, poinsettias and red roses were used.

There is another party this afternoon, too. This is the tea which Mrs. Lewis Wenman Hicks is giving in her home in Fifth avenue. Mrs. Hicks isn't having any particular guest of honor, but her husband's mother, Mrs. Alfred Hicks, is receiving with her. The aides include a group of friends of the hostess, and I understand that after the tea Mrs. Hicks will entertain the aides and their husbands at dinner.

Christmas decorations were used at tea, also, the table being adorned with red roses and silver pussy-willow.

I TOLD you before, I believe, that Mrs. Edward Vose Babcock is general chairman for the Girl Scout tea dance to be held Saturday afternoon, December 22, in the Hotel Schenley. She is being assisted, it seems, by a small group of committees. Mrs. W. Eugene Gary is heading the committee in charge of the patroness list, while the ticket sale is being conducted under the leadership of Mrs. Walter F. Schleiter. Mrs. Carl H. Borntraeger will be in charge of the aides, and the floor committee is headed by Mrs. W. Edgar Reed. Mrs. James H Hammond is chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements for the affair, while Mrs. Ambrose N. Diehl is handling the publicity.

The Girl Scout Council members met this morning in their headquarters in the Arrott Building to talk over their plans for the dance, which is an annual affair. Mrs. Babcock is commissioner, you know, and Mrs. Hammond is deputy commissioner, with Mrs. Reed as secretary and Mrs. Ogden M. Edwards, Jr., treasurer. In addition to the others I have named, the council consists of Mrs. Robert V. Bingay, Mrs. W. Harry Brown, Mrs. William G. Costin, Mrs. W. H. R. Hilliard, Mrs. W. Terrell Johnson, Miss Dorothy F. Liggett, Mrs. John A. Murtland, Mrs. Charles L. Peirce, Jr., Mrs. Enoch Rauh, Mrs. David Aiken Reed, Mrs. Lawrence E. Sands, Mrs. William Watson Smith, Mrs. Edward Stieren, Mrs. George L. Walter, Jr., and Mrs. Harry Wilson.

ANOTHER party set for December 27 is the annual tea-dance given for the benefit of the Pittsburgh Hospital, in the Hotel Schenley. Mrs. Francis A. Keating is general chairman for the affair.

MORE than 100 needy children of the community attended the Christmas party given yesterday by the Homewood Women's Club in Homewood Carnegie Library. Mrs. R. C. Herod was in charge of the program and was assisted by the American home committee. Santa Claus was present with gifts and candy for each child. Cy Hungerford entertained with his illustrations and Miss Alice Kelroy told a Christmas story, music for the afternoon being furnished by Lionel and Floyd Cooper. Their own children were the guests of members on Monday afternoon when Mrs. Anna Marshall McCracken told the Christmas story and illustrated it with stereopticon slides. The club choral sang Christmas carols. Mrs. C. W. Caldwell introduced Mrs. McCracken by means of a clever, original verse.

WARNS WOMEN OF CANCER DANGER

CHICAGO, Dec. 13.—(AP.)—One of every 10 adults, available statistics show, is destined to die of cancer, according to Dr. George A. Soper, managing director of the American Society for the Control of Cancer. The proportion among women 45 to 65 years of age is one to five.

Dr. Soper addressed a cancer meeting of the Chicago Medical Society and Chicago Woman's Club, which was called to "create public sentiment" for the establishment of an institution in Chicago to combat the disease.

"More persons die of cancer than of all the infectious diseases put together with the exception of tuberculosis, and more die of cancer than of tuberculosis alone," he said.

"I find great public ignorance exists regarding cancer. The reason is partly tradition and prejudice, handed down through the ages. The disease wrongly was supposed to be a disgrace, something to hide."

CELTIC'S CARGO SALVAGED

COBH, Irish Free State, Dec. 13.—(AP.)—The liner Celtic was turned over to salvagers yesterday. The skeleton crew which had remained aboard the vessel since she ran on the Cow and Calf rocks on the entrance to Cork Harbor on Monday morning, was withdrawn.

Two salvage vessels moored alongside the Celtic and started a rush job of removing her cargo of wheat, apples and other American products. Fear for the return of bad weather spurred the workers.

The salvage of the cargo is furnishing employment to 100 men of Cobh. In this respect the mishap has proved a benefit to this community, particularly in view of the approach of Christmas which promised to be gloomy in the homes of some of the workmen.

Franklin's Broom Called First In America

CHICAGO, Dec. 13.—(AP.)—The inventor of the lightning rod today received credit at the annual meeting of the National Broom Manufacturers' Association for introducing the broom to America.

Frank F. Collins, Arcola, Ill., secretary of the association, said records found in a diary in North Hadley, Mass., showed that a woman acquaintance of Benjamin Franklin sent him from India a whisk broom with broom corn seeds on the stalks. Franklin planted the seed and passed the stalks among his friends, making round brooms by winding thread around several stalks.

'SOCIAL CIRCLE' IN MARINES FEARED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—(AP.)—The possibility of a "social circle" creeping into the Marine Corps was suggested in House debate yesterday during the consideration of a batch of naval bills, one of which would provide more than two million dollars for alterations and repairs to three battleships and for the completion of two fleet submarines.

The measures to authorize this expenditure were passed and sent to the Senate, as was the one affecting the Marine Corps. The latter bill proposes that the Marine Corps depart from the present system of promoting officers by seniority and make promotion contingent upon services rendered. Promotion upon ability and service is known in Congress as the selection system and Representative McSwain, Democrat, South Carolina, predicted the change would result in creating a "social circle" in the corps.

Anoother Democrat, Representative Black, of Texas, joined with the Carolinian and declared the selection method would bring discrimination into the Marine Corps, and make promotion dependent upon the friendship or social connections of the officer.

Fire Deep in Ship's Hull Extinguished

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—(AP.)—City firemen and members of the crew of the Munson Liner Munamar, tied up at an East River pier, battled for nearly an hour before they extinguished blazing refuse oil in the port bilges of the vessel, deep down in her hull below the fire room. The Munamar, a vessel of 3,440 tons, had just arrived from the Bahamas.

Ex-Reporter, Heir To Six Millions, Won't Rewed

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 13.—(INS.)—Phillip Chancellor, erstwhile Chicago newspaper reporter, who recently inherited the $6,000,000 zinc fortune of his grandfather, announced today that he was through with matrimony. The announcement was aimed at Miss Helen Baines, of Santa Barbara, Cal., who was Mrs. Phillip Chancellor for a brief time, and it sets at rest all rumors that the young millionaire, now that he is 21, plans to rewed the girl with whom he eloped to Reno two years ago.

U. S. FOLK SAVE 29 BILLIONS

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH.
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—Thrift was America's watchword in 1928.

Despite Uncle Sam's reputation as the greatest spender in the world, the country had approximately $29,000,000,000 in savings accounts ready to fight the annual Christmas shopping battle.

The per capita savings were $215. All individual bank deposits amounted to about $54,000,000,000.

Figures made public today by Comptroller of the Currency J. W. Pole showed that the people of New England practice what President Coolidge, from the rock-ribbed state of Vermont, has taught during his two terms as Chief Executive—tariff and economy.

NEW ENGLAND LEADS

In New England the per capita savings accounts amounted to $569, as compared to $431 for the wealthy Eastern states. Massachusetts led the nation in per capita saving with $628, slightly ahead of New York's $610. After New England and New York came California with $415.

In the Eastern group individuals had $11,877,000,000 in savings accounts, led by New York with $7,112,100,000. Pennsylvania had over two billion and New Jersey over one billion.

Savings accounts in New England were $4,638,000,000 about half of which was accounted for by Massachusetts.

The Midwestern states had $6,540,000,000 in savings, with Ohio, Illinois, and Michigan over a billion each. Pacific Coast states had $2,337,000,000, with California nearly $2,000,000,000; the southern states $1,905,000,000 and western states maintain $754,000,000. Per capita savings in the South were $59; the Western states $80; the Pacific $276; and the Mid-West $198.

RAINBOW CHASING

BY THOMAS EDGELOW

Madge Consents to Marry Michael, but Confesses She Doesn't Love Him

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Madge Sayre, pretty and young, awakens on the morning of her twenty-first birthday rebelling against the dinginess of the New York apartment she shares with her father, an unsuccessful inventor. She craves thrills and the joys and luxuries of life. She meets handsome Carroll Dudley, artist and aviator, at a party given by Frances Storrs, a friend. He pursuades her to pose for him and after professing his love for her, which she accepts, it develops that he is already married. Added to this he exhibits her picture at a party in violation of his promise not to do so. Madge, blind with rage, cuts the canvas to ribbons and rushes from his studio. She is struck by the automobile of Michael Winchester, scion of an old and wealthy New York and Virginia family. In the hospital she finds herself surrounded by every attention the Winchester millions can give her, and more too, as young Winchester falls in love with her. Winchester sends her to Atlantic City to recuperate. When she returns Winchester begs her to dine with him at his home, after which he proposes to her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

AS Michael was pleading with her, Madge pictured Carroll. Why couldn't he have been tender and chivalrous and all those adorable things that Michael was? Carroll meant thrills, but only thrills—and pain.

She felt that she could never love any other man as she had loved Carroll before he had killed that love by his treachery and deceit. But she could not go through life on the pain of that memory, and she would never meet anyone quite so fine and unselfish and tender as Michael. She would like to make him happy, and so—somehow—she found herself in Michael's arms, whispering to him that if he wanted her, knowing that she did not exactly love him, well then . . . well then . . .

CHAPTER XIII.

ONCE she had consented, Michael begged that there should be no delay and, as Madge felt there was no cause to wait, she agreed.

"All right then, Michael, if you feel that way," she said. "But you must be a little reasonable. Give me a week."

"It will seem like a year," he laughed, "let's start the way we intend to go on. You have your own way, darling. Brutal, that's what I intend to be with you." He went on to explain to her about the great bond of sympathy that existed between himself and old Mrs. Van Tyn.

"Let's drive down to Washington square now and tell her," he suggested.

"She won't like it," Madge said doubtfully. "If she loves you as much as all that, she will want you to marry a rich society girl."

"She will adore you the second she sees you," he assured her. "Though she did have an idea that I was going to marry June Wilson."

Madge had seen many photographs in the Sunday supplements of that very wealthy and beautiful debutante. "Then, why didn't you?" she asked, surprised at the little twinge of jealousy in her heart.

"Because a kindly fate had written that I should meet you," he answered.

Old Mrs. Van Tyn received Madge very cordially, even affectionately, when Michael had told her the news.

"The stupid boy thought that he could fool his old godmother the other day, my dear," she said, as she made Madge sit near her by the window that overlooked the garden. "He didn't succeed when he told me that he was not the type to marry—trying to make me think that he was a confirmed bachelor."

"I did it out of superstition," Michael put in. "I didn't dare say I was going to marry her. I was afraid it would queer my luck."

As they had tea, Michael broached the idea of a quiet marriage in her house.

"I would hear of nothing else, if you're not going to have a church wedding," the old lady said cordially. "And why don't you come and stay with me," she went on to Madge. "Your father would hardly know how to help you choose your trousseau, which I want you to accept from me, my dear, so that an old woman may have all the joy of buying pretty things. Suppose that I send the carriage for you tomorrow morning; I have never advanced to a car. Dear me! But the shop people will have to be busy if they are to be ready in such a short notice—not that I do not think you wise, both of you, not to delay your happiness."

Madge found her adorable, and the thought of becoming part of her sphere thrilled her strangely.

That afternoon, Michael insisted on taking her with him to a world-famous firm of jewelers, where, at the sight of him, the manager himself came to wait on him. For her engagement ring, Michael gave her a huge square-cut diamond in the old-fashioned prong setting.

Then Madge for the first time realized something of Michael's enormous wealth.

"I rather think I would like to look at some pearls," he said carelessly, much as though he were about to purchase handkerchiefs.

Before Madge left the store, Michael had hung about her neck a string of pearls, and she heard the store manager mention as though it were a mere bagatelle that the price was a quarter of a million dollars! She realized at last that she was engaged to be married to a man who could walk out of a Fifth avenue jeweler with well over a quarter of a million of dollars worth of pearls and precious stones without even writing a check for them. It almost stunned her, the credit that Michael's name encouraged. The shadow of his fabulous wealth, she realized, had almost escaped her consciousness when she had made up her mind to marry him.

"I want to spend our honeymoon in my old Virginia home, despite the heat," he told her when they were in the car again. "But later, when we run over to Paris, I will try and find you jewels worthy of your beauty."

When they told old Mr. Sayre the news on his return from the office, he was delighted. Michael would not hear of him continuing in his employ. Instead, he would back any of the schemes in which Madge's father was so interested, and when Madge warned him privately that it would only mean financial loss, he laughed.

"Darling," he said, "don't worry about your father. Isn't the main thing to make him happy? I'll instruct Albright to see he doesn't lose too much on his various schemes, but let him have the kick of playing with them—the dear old boy."

They were in the kitchen, and Madge had put on an apron. Michael slipped a protective arm 'round her waist.

"I don't want my little girl to be worried about anything," he went on tenderly. "My job is to keep you happy, my sweet. That's only fair when you think of how happy you have made me. I can hardly believe my own luck—that I should be the first man in your life!"

Madge paused, her hand on the ice box door. What would he say if he knew about Carroll? Should she tell him? If she did not, she would feel a cheat for ever after. She turned to him.

"Michael!" she said impulsively. "There was a man!"

There was a pause. She watched his face closely, but could learn nothing from it.

"A portrait painter, an artist," she forced the unwilling words. "He is an aviator as well—and from a girl's point of view, a terribly thrilling and fascinating man. I loved him as I can never love again, Michael. That is why I told you the truth when I said that you do not thrill me."

"Go on," he said quietly, looking away from her. So she told him of the thrilling flights through the air, of posing for Carroll, and of being engaged to be married. She told of how Carroll had lied and betrayed, and even how he had followed her to Atlantic City.

"Now," she said at last, "I think I hate him, but the fact remains that he did thrill me. Yes, he did, Michael, and you have to know it!"

From her finger she slipped the huge diamond and held it out to Michael.

"If it makes any difference," she concluded, a little brokenly, "if you don't think you can make me love you the way you want to be loved, take this back, Michael!"

Winchester rose from his chair. He said nothing, but he was smiling tenderly as he took her in her arms and bent to kiss the golden silk of her hair.

"Dear me! Isn't it terrible!" he said with infinite gentleness. "My exquisitely beautiful fiance was attracted by a worthless rotter, because he thrilled her. And you think I can't understand? What did I tell you about love, my sweetest? What a pitiable thing my love would be if it died on learning that a blackguard had made you unhappy! Forget it, with all your other troubles, once you have handed them to me to take care of!"

"Oh, Michael!" and she clung to him. "What have I done to earn a love like yours?"

But he would not let her be serious. He said he was fainting for want of food, and was this her northern hospitality to him, a southerner? And then he insisted on peeling the potatoes and wasting half of them, and the evening was the gayest possible, so that Madge wondered that she could ever have doubted his understanding. And from now on, she determined, she would banish all memory of Carroll from her mind.

Next morning at 10 o'clock, Mrs. Van Tyn's victoria, drawn by the big, high-stepping grays, with the coachman and footman in the Van Tyn livery, stopped at her door—to the intense joy of the children on the block, and there was Anna again to pack for her, and later to take her things by taxi to Washington square.

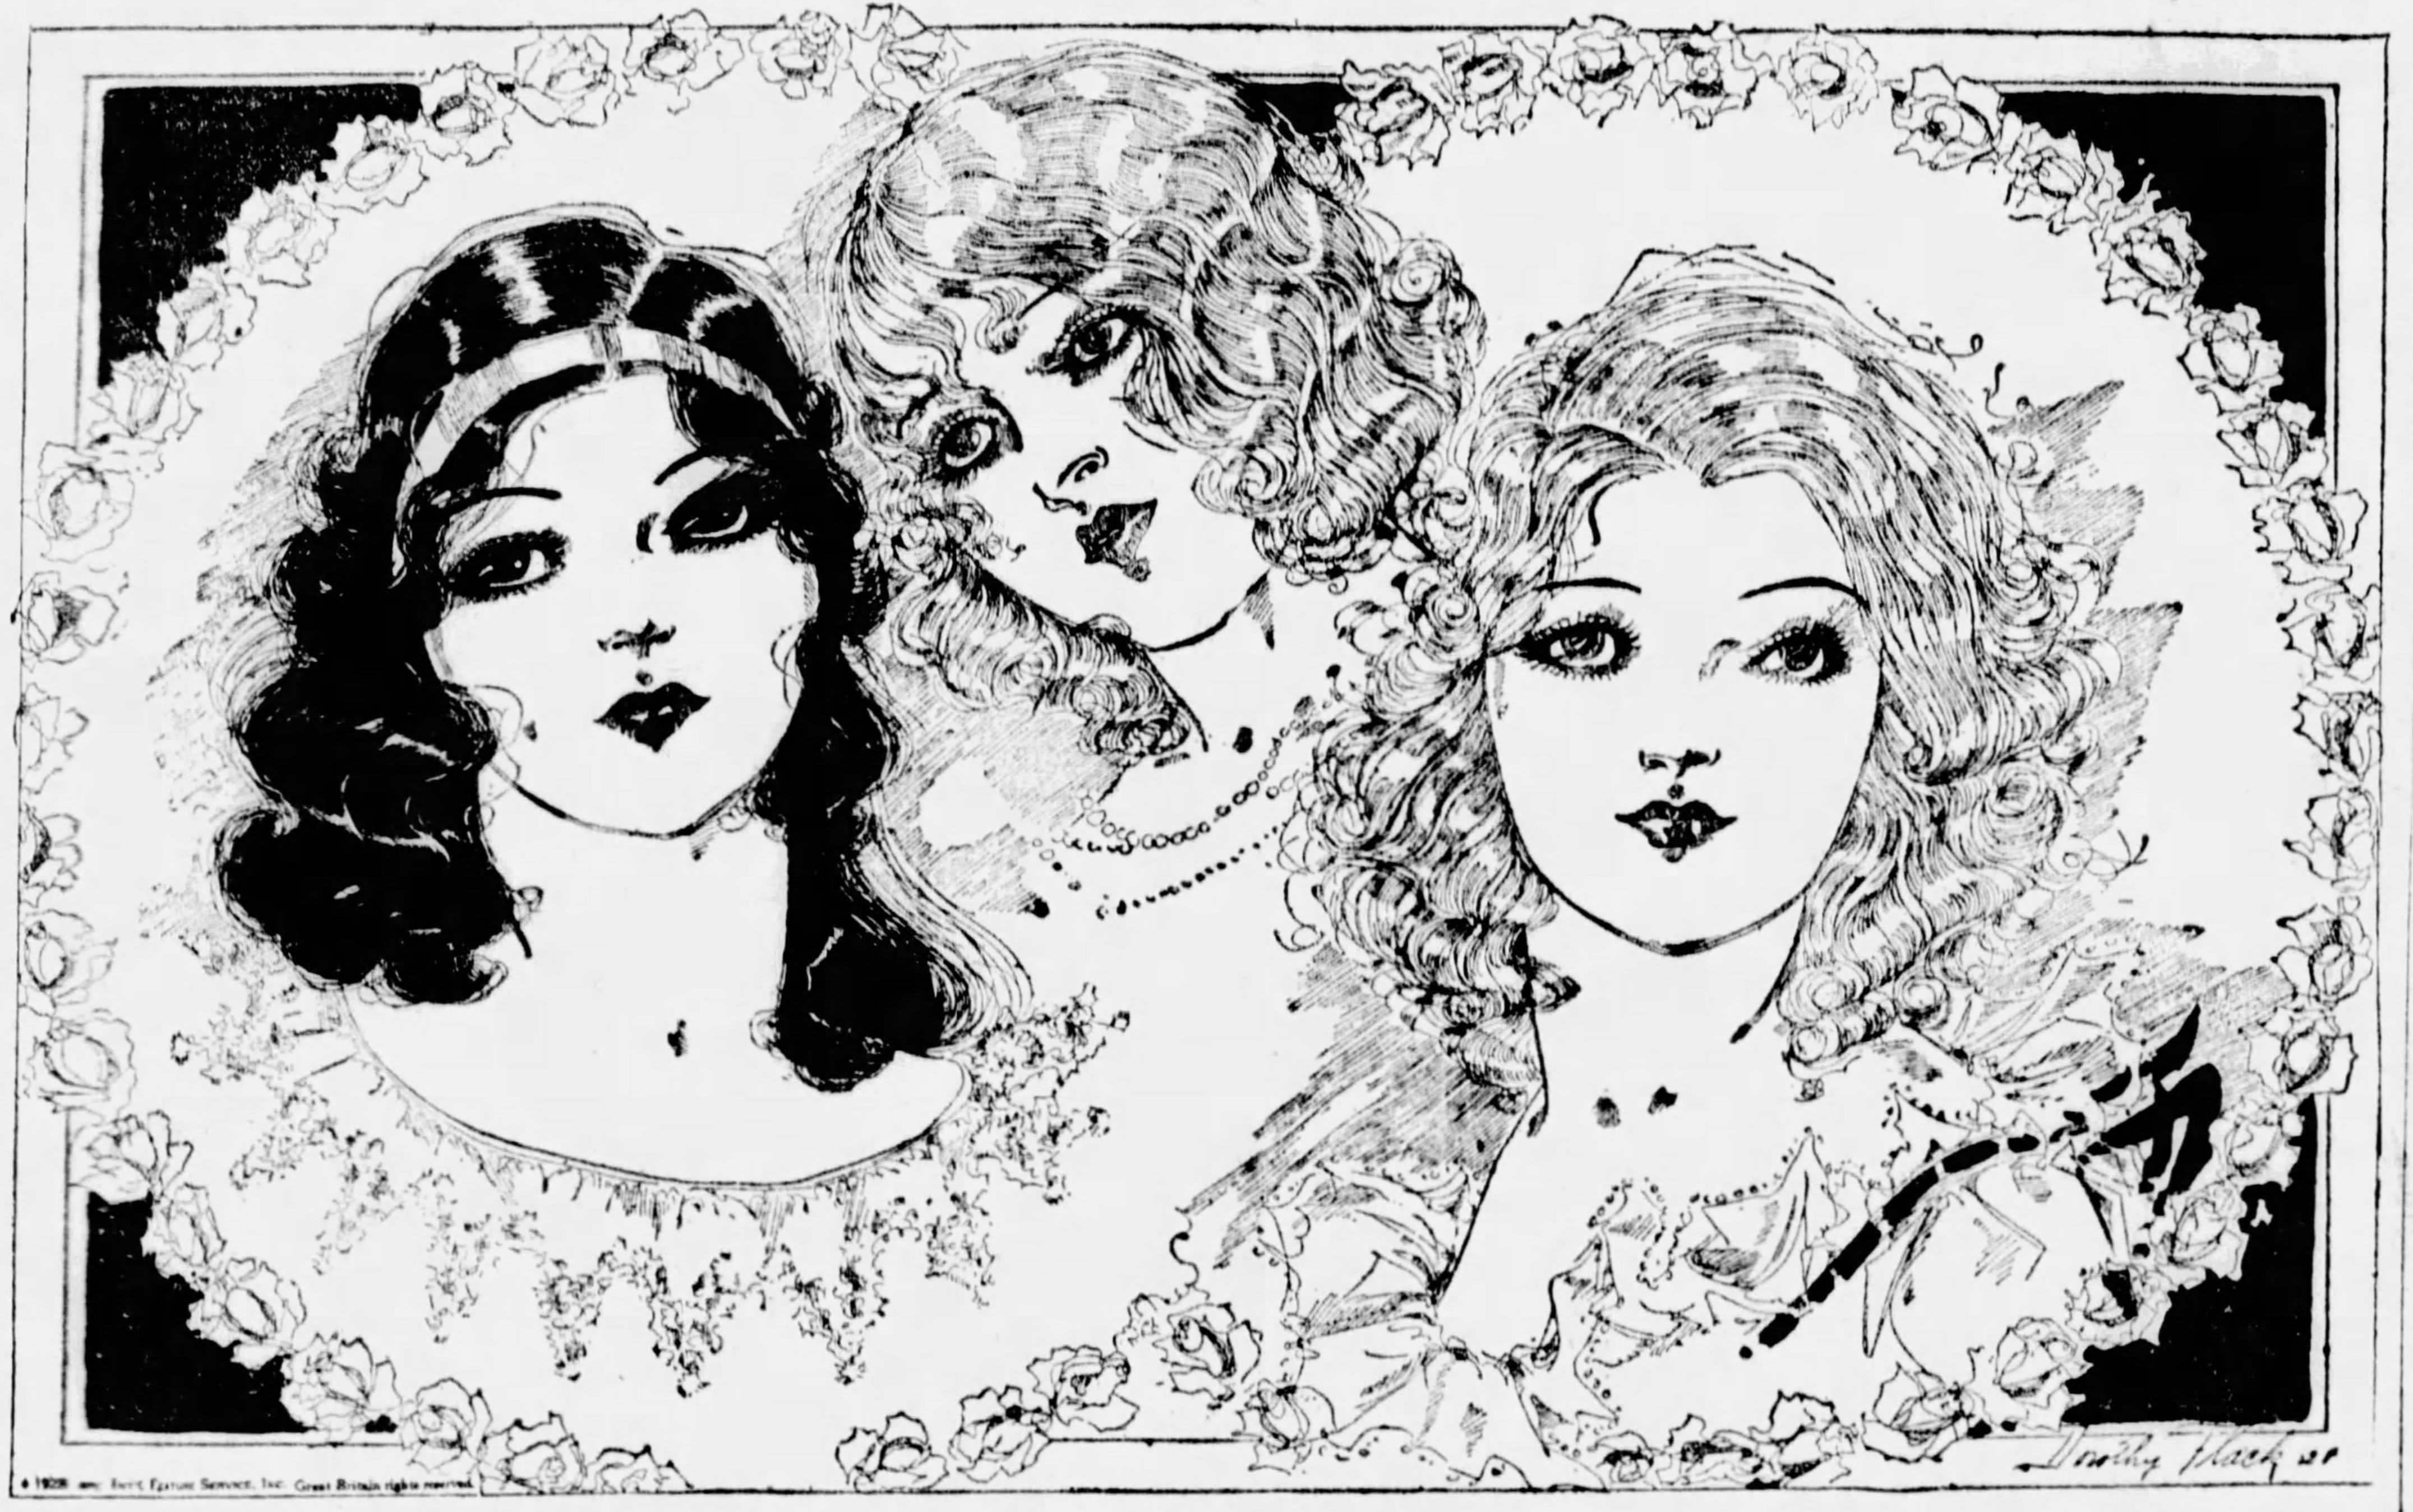
THE AGE OF INNOCENCE

Drawn By Dorothy Flack



THE dearest time of a girl's life! When she's sweet 16 and "standing with reluctant feet" on the brink of the romance she has painted in glowing colors which is her goal.

Sweet Sixteen! Is there any age that more appeals to the jaded fancies of those who jealously watch the younger generation? Many a sigh wells up from a tired heart, "Oh, if only I were that age again!" They are the happiest days of life—the days when one is wide-eyed with wonder and anticipation; the days when everything is rose tinted and every man a Prince Charming.

Each new masculine acquaintance is a possible romance and the dewy eyes and trembling lips listen fascinatedly to every word the adored one utters. Heroes galore parade in bewildering procession before their impressionable fancy. All the world's a friend—and one's heart aches for the bitter disillusionment that is the invariable lot.

But let the sweetness of Youth and Innocence pursue its searching way—for only in this wise can it ever learn the true worth of life. Don't treat it with cynicism and don't attempt to brand it with your own skepticism. Let it alone!

Life's hard enough as it is and the few bright rosy hours of Youth are all too fleeting. Watch over it and guard it and laugh with it and cry with it, for in this way your own Youth returns to you and you live again your own dreams in the dreams of Youth.

Meditations of a Wife

Husbands, Please Copy

"I KNOW a woman writer who will soon celebrate her twelfth wedding anniversary. (Yes, yes! With the SAME husband!)

Now, in these days of progressive matrimony and instantaneous divorce, when a professional woman remains married to the same man for 12 years, she ought to offer some explanation. Here is HERS:

* * *

My husband has a lot of faults—big whopping ones! But, strange to say, so have I! Taking all our faults together, we shall probably have to do some clever maneuvering to get past St. Peter, through the Pearly Gates.

HELEN ROWLAND

"He has a healthy temper, a passion for giving 'advice,' and a secret conviction that woman's place is on the floor cleaning up his cigar ashes.

"BUT—in all our years of wedded vicissitudes, he has never done or said a single word to fill me with an inferiority complex!

"He has never told me that my nose needed powdering, that I looked seedy, that there was a run in my stocking, that my hat was unbecoming, or that I was getting FAT!

"He has never been grumpy at breakfast.

"He has never forgotten the matutinal kiss—nor just 'made a pass' at me, with his hat on his head, his hand on the door, his eye on the clock, and his mind on the office.

"He has never opened one of my letters or shown the least curiosity about my mail, until I volunteered to read it to him.

"He has never looked twice at another woman—in my presence.

"He has never criticized me in public—nor even admitted to me in private that I HAD made a fool of myself.

* * *

"No matter what I wear, it is always 'cute' or 'stunning.'

"No matter what I say, it is always 'clever.'

"No matter what I write, it is always 'brilliant' or 'wonderful' or 'great!'—to HIM.

"I may have to remind him of our wedding anniversary or to drop a hint about my birthday, but he never fails to come across with FLOWERS. And to this day, he always signs his letters 'Your Adorer.'

"In short, he thinks I'm 'just a little bit of ALL RIGHT'—and he's not saving all his compliments for my tombstone and all the posies for my grave! He's no Paragon—but he's a luxury and a joy. He's my BEST FRIEND! That's why I've never even thought tentatively of Reno, in 12 years!"

* * *

No, dear reader, this is no mythical man.. I happen to know—because he's my husband. You guessed it!

Horoscope

Friday, December 14

TODAY'S astral activities assist to many fortuitous conditions and events which may lead to progress and substantial place in employment, labor, industry, as well as trade and commerce. But this success will be met in the established lines rather than in new undertakings. The outstanding events of the day will concern the personal affairs, which are likely to assume the unexpected if not sensational. In this respect beware rash and impulsive moves.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a year of generally lively and satisfactory conditions if they stick to the established lines and postpone new understandings. Social, romantic or other personal relations may develop sensational angles. Be circumspect in these.

A child born on this day may be clever and versatile, with promise of success in many directions. It may have a spectacular career or may probably have some marked artistic skill.

To truth's house there is a single door, which is experience.—Bayard Taylor.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

For His Family

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I have recently become engaged. My fiance has a father and mother, three brothers (12, 16 and 20 years of age) and also an aunt who lives with them. Our families have visited back and forth occasionally. How am I to remember them at Christmas? READER.

WHY not give something for the home of these in-laws-to-be? That would register, I think, perfect taste, and would not seem so obvious as a gift for each one of them would seem. Or perhaps you could send a well-chosen selection of phonograph records, if they are interested in special phonograph things. Or a handsome generous basket of sweets and nuts and fruits to be sent so that it arrives on Christmas morning. Or a beautiful plant (without the terrible ribbons that usually accompany Christmas plants).

With this present—or without it—write as charming a Christmas letter as possible to this nice family, and tell them graciously of your Christmas wishes for their happiness.

He Is Still "Junior"

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Please tell me the proper way for a married woman, who has a husband living, to sign her name.

Also please advise if a young man who has the same name as his father, who is dead, still continues to sign his name with the "Jr.": for example, John Smith, Jr., or does he omit the Jr.? J. S.

WITH pleasure do I answer your question, for one of the important social details that a married woman must know is how to sign her name. And few know this.

This is the correct form of her signature to a business letter or to a letter to someone who must be informed of her married name:

Very truly yours,
Mary Smith Brown.
(Mrs. John Brown.)

This form is absolutely correct, although there are other forms, too, that are sometimes used, and are correct. For instance, Mary S. Brown, Mary Anne Smith Brown, Mary A. Smith Brown, or, if she prefers, the entire omission of the surname of her maiden name, Mary Brown. And any one of these forms is correct: what is not correct is for a woman to sign her name like this:

Very truly yours,
Mrs. John Brown.

Nor is this form correct:

Very truly yours,
Mrs. Cora Brown.

If the young man's mother is living, he continues to use the "Jr." or "Junior" (spelled with a capital if the abbreviated form is used and with a small letter if the word is written out). His mother is entitled to the use of the name with no addition, for "Sr." is never used: it is only implied. And if the son is married, his wife is "Mrs. John Smith, Junior."

Love's Awakening

A Continuation of Love's Embers

Veritzen Sees Madge in Her Domestic Sphere

JUNIOR'S whoop of pleasure at his presents brought so beaming a smile to Philip Veritzen's face that I decided to forego the apology I had intended for the child's ill-mannered ignoring of the giver in his delight at the gifts.

My small son, however, has his father's facility in effective contrition, and the first rush of his enthusiasm over, he looked up at my employer with a charmingly apologetic smile.

"They're all so bully that I forgot to say 'thank you' for them," he said. "Will it do now?"

"You don't have to say it at all," Mr. Veritzen assured him. "I am more than repaid at seeing that you like them."

"You bet I like 'em," Junior responded promptly. "Aunt Katherine, may I have a bit of every kind of fruit there is?"

The little nurse laughed, but her voice held the note of authority which Junior had learned to obey without question.

"Of course, but not all at once," she said. "And for some of them, you must wait. But just now, you may take your choice of an orange, an apple or some grapes."

"Grapes!" Junior decided with capitals. "I can have apples and oranges any old time, but grapes are something else again."

"Not apples and oranges like these, Junior," Katherine said as she took a cluster of grapes from the basket, while my horrified murmur of "Junior!" was lost in Mr. Veritzen's laughter.

"That's the way I feel about grapes, too, Junior," he said, drawing a chair close to the bed and sitting down. "Now, while your grapes are prepared for you—they should be washed, you know," he said over his shoulder to Katherine, and I saw the little nurse bite her lips in the effort to suppress a laugh. With equally bromidic effect he might have advised her to see that Junior washed his hands and brushed his teeth each day.

"Until your grapes are ready," he began again, "suppose we see how some of these things work!"

"Oh-h!" Junior sat up so excitedly that Katherine, already at the door with the grapes, spoke quickly.

"If you are not quiet, Junior, I shall have to send Mr. Veritzen away and the toys, too."

"Oh! I'll be awful good," my son promised in a panic, and obeying a signaled nod from Katherine, I piled the pillows behind my little son so that, though he was in a sitting posture, his back was fully supported by the cushions.

I was moving away when Junior caught at my hand.

"Sit down here, Mother," he coaxed, patting a place beside him on the bed, and I could not resist his plea, though I felt decidedly uncomfortable because I was so close to Philip Veritzen's chair that we might as well have been sitting on the same sofa.

From the parcels which Otto had unwrapped and left on a table, Mr. Veritzen produced a most marvelous piece of mechanism, a model of a big ship, from the deck of which two small airplanes, manned with tiny manikins in aviation togs, regularly arose, circled the ship and returned again.

It took close scrutiny to see that the effect was produced by wires, almost invisible, yet so strong that they never failed in their task of supporting the tiny silver planes which seemed indeed to be hurtling through space.

Under Mr. Veritzen's directions, I was steadying the large and complicated toy upon the bed-table used for our young invalid's meals, while he set in motion the mechanism controlling it. Junior's eyes were fixed raptly upon us, and the uncomfortable thought crossed my mind that we presented a decidedly domestic picture.

The door opened, and I looked up a bit abashed at the amusement I expected to see in Katherine's face. But my little kinswoman's eyes were not the ones I faced. Dicky stood in the doorway.

Apple and Mashed Potato Puffs

Make applesauce in the usual way and when done rub through a fine sieve to make it smooth. Have ready two cupfuls of well-seasoned mashed potatoes beaten light, beat through it a large cupful of the applesauce. Add a little whipped cream and heap into well-buttered ramekin dishes. Sprinkle over the top of each a level teaspoonful of dry crumbs and grated cheese, then put in the oven long enough to lightly brown. Serve at once.

How to Keep Well

By Royal S. Copeland, M. D.

Grouches Traced to Impaired Vision

ARE you taking care of your eyes?

Fortunately, blindness is comparatively uncommon. But eye trouble of one sort or another is very, very common. Indeed, many a person is suffering from needless redness, smarting, itching or actual pain in the eyes. Many an obstinate or recurring headache comes from eyestrain. Many a case of "dyspepsia" is merely the reflex of eyestrain. Dizziness, sickness at the stomach, wandering pains in the head—these are a few of the dozens of symptoms which may be traced to the eyes.

DR. COPELAND

Any one of these troubles may be met at any age, young or old. After 40 there is sure to be temporary or permanent blurring of vision. The time has come for glasses, but it is natural to forget this, or, at least, to wish to overlook the fact.

Everybody dreads the thought of wearing glasses. I know I do. I regard them a dreadful nuisance. I wish I could throw mine into the river and never need them again.

All of us who must have glasses for reading, realize how Gen. George Washington felt at Newburgh on that fateful day when he was about to read one of his last addresses to the Army. Wiping off his spectacles, he said: "I have grown old, gray and blind in the service of my country."

It makes us feel old to wear glasses and, particularly, to be unable to make out the type without glasses. But, yet, after all, what a blessing they are! With well-fitted lenses we can continue to the end of life to read the finest print. We can sew and do our tasks as well as we did in early youth.

Of course, the eye troubles I have mentioned may not require glasses for the correction. Simple treatment may overcome them. Sometimes redness and stickiness of the eyes may come from catarrhal conditions of the nose. But more likely there is astigmatism or some other form of eye defect which requires correction.

If you are in the slightest doubt, consult a specialist who will test your vision. He will see if the eye muscles are in perfect balance. Perhaps there is nothing wrong, but it will be a relief to be sure about it.

Swelling of the eyelids, crusts in the eye lashes, sticking together in the morning, redness of the eyeballs and lining of the lids—all these may be overcome by getting rid of the strain. You will look better and feel better to have these unsightly defects remedied.

You must not forget that your efficiency and temper may suffer from eyestrain. If you are not working as well as you used to and are unaccountably cross and crabbed, think of your eyes. The whole trouble may center there.

You are unwise indeed to go without glasses merely because of your prejudice against them. A bias of this sort does no credit to you. To pinch your feet because you can't bear to wear the right number in shoes, or to go without glasses when they are really needed—what can we think of you?

Our Daily Short Story

INTERESTING

By FELICIA WAYNE

LIVING in a cosmopolitan city has its advantages, as Marion Silver liked to point out, once she had left Springfield for good. Lest anyone accuse Marion of a lack of civic pride, let us in all fairness to her say that when she was living in Springfield she used often to say, "Give me a small town any time. Big cities are so heartless."

But when it became necessary, because of the death of her father, for Marion to leave her home town and go to New York, where a good position awaited her, she made the most of the opportunities that metropolis offers to those in search of gaiety. She was just pretty enough to make friends easily, by which we mean that there was nothing of the aloof beauty about her. She had an ingratiating manner that was devastating to formality, and that insured life-long popularity even with the most feline members of her own sex.

With one of this sisterhood Marion maintained a close friendship. She was Adele Garson, the daughter of Marion's employer, and while she really loved Marion a great deal and often spoke of her "devotion," she displayed, at times, a jealousy of her pretty chum that belied her staunchly averred sentiments. This was evidenced anew one evening as the two girls, having dined at Marion's little apartment were leaving the house.

"Who," asked Marion of the other girl, "is that very tall man with the interesting face who is just going out?"

Adele turned her head in the man's direction. She had seen him once or twice leaving the apartment house when she had visited Marion and she had been attracted to him. Beyond that, she knew nothing of him. "Oh, yes," she said hastily, "I understand he has quite a reputation as a Don Juan. The ladies are very fond of him, I hear."

Marion changed the subject but could not take her mind off the "interesting man." She had seen him several times, usually in the morning when she left for the office, and each time there had been a sort of communication between them—as if they had already been friends and were greeting each other cordially. She wondered how long it would be before they were introduced by some mutual acquaintance, and she admitted to herself that already too much time had been wasted.

Weeks went by and still Marion and the "interesting man" met in the foyer of the large apartment house in which both lived. Still neither spoke. Still Marion felt that spark of recognition—and could do nothing to make it a reality. The only progress she felt that was being made, in the direction of a friendship, was that recently, when they met, the man let a half smile play about his lips, a sort of waiting-for-you-to-say-hello-first smile. "Good heavens," Marion thought, "here we are living in the same house, wanting to know each other, and yet—yet—perfect strangers."

Now you may wonder why a pretty and popular young lady who was having a good time should waste her thoughts on a stranger of whom she knew nothing except that his reputation was a doubtful one. You may wonder. But if you realize that pretty and popular girls sometimes fall in love with men who pay them no attention, your amazement would be short-lived. And that was the situation, as Marion had reluctantly to admit to herself after a time.

Finally, more to crystallize things in her own mind than because she wanted advice, she told her friend, Adele Garson, the story. "Darling, I don't know what to do about it," she wailed to her chum. "He doesn't know

AVOID UGLY PIMPLES

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights.

Cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cursed with a "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimply face.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; know them by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Take nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 15c, 30c, 60c.

Our Daily Short Story

I'm alive—and yet sometimes I think he likes me very much. What shall I do?"

Adele's dark eyes clouded and for a while she said nothing. Then she brightened. "I know what I'm going to do," she suggested. "I'm going to take you away with me—to forget. How would you like a trip to Paris?"

"To Paris! Oh, you darling," cried Marion, delighted. "There doesn't seem to be much hope of my knowing my man of mystery, and I might as well give myself a chance to get him out of my mind. Do you think your father will let me go with you?"

Adele was sure Dad wouldn't object—he'd hate to have her traveling about Europe by herself. And besides, she liked the man of mystery too much to risk the chance of his falling in love with Marion—although she didn't, by word or gesture, suggest this to her father's secretary.

And so, three weeks later, two very excited American girls sat down to breakfast in a charming little Parisian restaurant and ordered chocolate and brioche. They chattered away, making plans for a long and interesting tour of the city, planning the rest of their itinerary. After much discussion they decided to separate for the day—Adele to devote herself to an extensive shopping tour, Marion to explore the town.

And since shopping tours, unless you are directly concerned with their outcome, are all pretty much alike, we trust the reader will forgive our indifference to Adele's sartorial adventures while we follow Marion. She found her way to most of the delightful places Americans somehow neglect, lunched at an out-of-the-way cafe that was typically French, and by the time 4:30 came was utterly exhausted. Just as she was trying to decide whether to go back to the hotel and rest for the evening's activities, she saw coming toward her a figure that was vaguely familiar. The next moment the figure was extending both hands toward her and saying, "So I had to come all the way to Paris to forego the formality of an introduction!"

Marion almost wept with joy. It couldn't be—of course it was, the "interesting man" who lived in her house.

"Well, we've met—at last," she said. "I wondered why you didn't arrange to be introduced when we were neighbors."

And then he, whose name she learned was Tom Barry, said something very strange. "I didn't," he told her, "want to run the risk of losing you altogether by my boldness. I had hoped that somehow we would meet casually, like people do. I didn't want to force myself on you."

A month later, when they had seen all of Paris together, Marion had to admit she didn't mind his "forcing himself" upon her. As a matter of fact she knew Tom Barry so well by this time that she admitted it to him. For answer he pressed her hand and said something silly about love.

A few days later nothing he said about love sounded silly to Marion, for she had definitely decided that she couldn't very well get along without Tom. And he had as much as confessed he didn't expect to get along without her. So on the way home—to a large city, which Marion repeated had its disadvantages—they enlisted the services of Adele Garson as an envious but willing bridesmaid.

BROUGHT BETTER HEALTH TO LADY

Local Resident's Stomach Trouble Ended By Ten Herbs; Gains In Weight.

"Ten Herbs has benefited me so much that I gladly recommend your medicine to others," was the recent statement of Mrs. Anna Bowlin, 41 W. Steuben Street, Crafton, Pittsburgh, to the Ten Herbs Man, who is at May's Main Store, 529 Liberty Avenue, Pittsburgh, where he is daily demonstrating this famous new herbal medicine to crowds of men and women of all ages and walks in life.

"Since undergoing an operation for appendicitis two years ago, I had been in a weak, rundown condition, never being able to regain my former strength," continued Mrs. Bowlin, whose husband is a lineman employed by the Pennsylvania Railroad. "I was also bothered with an asthmatic condition. Then I began to suffer with my stomach. It seemed as though nothing I ate would digest properly. Gas would form and crowd around my heart. I also had pains and aches through my body. My bowels were so irregular that I had to keep taking laxatives. I had no appetite and finally I reached the stage where I could not sleep well at night.

"About the time that I was despairing of finding anything that would help me, an aunt, who had taken Ten Herbs with wonderful results, advised me to try your medicine. I started using Ten Herbs, and now my stomach seems to be in perfect condition. Gas pains are gone. My appetite is splendid. Constipation has been relieved entirely and I have no need for laxatives. I sleep fine, and have gained in weight."

Let Ten Herbs benefit your stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels and thoroughly cleanse your entire system of waste matter and impurities.

The Ten Herbs Man is at May's Main Store, 529 Liberty Avenue, Pittsburgh, where he is daily meeting the public and explaining the merits of this medicine.

When Workers Like Bosses Stock Has More Promise

By B. C. FORBES

DON'T invest in the stocks of a company whose workers curse it.

I HAD to stand in an Erie train all the way from my home to my work one morning this week, an unusual experience. After the conductor had made his rounds I said to him without a smile, "Why don't you tell Mr. Bernet, your president, that he should put on an extra car on this train? Have you counted how many people haven't seats?" I was interested in finding out how he felt toward his job.

"We have 10 cars on the train," he replied, with a note of pride. "There are only 20 people standing—and I counted at least 75 extra people on the train this morning. Christmas shoppers, you know; you can easily tell them."

"Yes?" I commented questioningly.

"Wait and see the new steel train we are going to put on," he added.

"I am told it is going to be a crackerjack. The reason this equipment, for instance," pointing to the car we were in—"is being used just now though it is kind of old is that some of our best steel equipment had to go to the works to be painted."

"So you are going to get better equipment?" I asked.

"We are." This most emphatically. "The new steel train for this line has roller bearings. Why, one man can push a car, that's how good it is. I want to tell you, too, that Mr. Bernet brought with him four dandy engines from the West." He ratted off the number of each of the four engines. "He's making a real railroad out of the Erie, I'll tell you. You should see the way he has cut down useless expenses."

"That ought to be good for Erie stocks," I remarked.

"You bet it is," he declared. "Erie shares are going to be worth real money by and by."

I indicated agreement with this sentiment, and after a pause he went on:

"Mr. Bernet knows what he's doing when he picks men. He made the superintendent, J. M. Comdon, general manager. There's a man you want to keep your eye on. He's a wonder!"

By this time we were nearing the terminus, and instead of the journey, standing, having been uncomfortable, I enjoyed it more and got more out of it than if I had been sitting with my eyes glued, as usual, to a newspaper.

I HAD a glimpse into the morale of the men in another large organization this week. The experience also was illuminating.

The growth of the General Motors Export Corporation has been so impressive during the last few years that I dropped in to see James D. Mooney, its president, to get a line on how it is being done.

The main point emphasized by this easy-functioning young executive—he is only 44—was that the chief problem is to learn sympathetically to understand the conditions existing in each of the hundred of countries where business is done, particularly the social, the living conditions, and then get the right man to fit into these conditions so that he himself will be happy in his environment and will be able, in that way, to get along harmoniously with the people.

But what interested me most was the attitude of the men in the different departments we visited. I wanted to know how track could be kept of shipments of millions of parts to all corners of the world. It was very evident that every man was enthusiastic about the work he was doing and proud of the results being achieved. Also, it was clearly evident that they liked their boss—quiet-speaking, broad-shouldered specimen having a strong resemblance to Gene Tunney and who, I learned, is no mean boxer himself, having developed his muscles by swinging a pick in western mines after he graduated as a mining engineer.

I came away feeling that I understood a little better why General Motors has been going ahead so impressively.

GIVE me as investment stocks of companies where the men are enthusiastic about the management!

STOCK PRICES FLUCTUATE, TONE FIRM

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—(AP)—Speculation in stocks quieted down considerably in today's market, which was featured by the strength of the non-dividend paying railroad stocks. Wide fluctuations continued in some of the high priced industrials and specialties but the general undertone was firm.

There was no change in the credit situation. Call money again renewed at 8 per cent with funds so plentiful that the rate was lowered to 7½. Additional shipments of gold from Canada brought the total on the current movement to $15,000,000. Many traders showed a disposition to stay out of the market until after the publication of the weekly federal reserve brokers' loan statement, which is expected to show a substantial reduction in borrowings in view of the sharp reaction in prices last week.

Revival of speculative activity in the rails was influenced, to some extent, by reports of increasing freight car traffic and the prospect of dividend resumptions on a few issues. Brokers generally do not look for any broad movement in the rail shares until after the St. Louis and O'Fallon decision, involving railroad valuation and the right of the government to share in excess earnings, is handed down by the United States Supreme Court. Chicago Great Western issues advanced to new 1928 high levels and Chicago and Alton issues, Erie common, Western Maryland common and second preferred and Pennsylvania were among the many issues to sell 2 to 4½ points higher.

Radio broke 19 points in the early trading, but recovered all its loss by early afternoon. Packard Motors converted an early loss of nearly 6 points into a gain of 4. Wright Aeronautical, A. M. Byers, Motor Products and several others rallied 5 or more points above their low prices of the morning. One disquieting development was the drop in General Motors below the low price of last week.

Burroughs Adding Machine, which soared 16 points yesterday, moved up 8 more today to a new high record at 220. International Nickel, Greene Cananea Copper, National Tea and Brockway Motors all sold 5 to 8 points above yesterday's closing levels.

Speculation in Montgomery-Ward stock has turned extremely dull since the old issue was stricken from the list. The new stock is now selling around $120 a share, while the rights are quoted around $210. The rights gave shareholders of the old issue an opportunity to subscribe to two new shares for each share of old stock held at $17.50 per share. Each holder of a right, therefore, receives an opportunity to purchase two new shares for $35. The rights expire December 28.

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, Dec. 13.—Wheat prices here averaged higher early today, owing largely to Liverpool quotations being firmer than expected and to rains in North Argentina delaying movement of wheat. Wet weather over the corn belt had a strengthening effect on the corn market. Opening at a shade to ¼c advance, Chicago wheat reacted somewhat and then hardened again. Corn started unchanged to ⅜c up, and subsequently rose all around. Oats displayed independent strength. Provisions likewise tended upward.

House with connections northwest were leaders in buying here at times today of wheat future deliveries. Some relation between this circumstance and the fact that navigation on the Great Lakes ended today was talked of, and notice was also taken of unlooked for price upturns at Liverpool, as well as reports that delays to North Argentine wheat are resulting from rains. Italy was reported as buying wheat from Australia.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—Cotton opened steady at an advance of 1 to 4 points on the New York market in response to relatively steady cables from Liverpool. There was some commission house and trade buying as well as covering, but the demand was comparatively light and prices soon eased under a renewal of liquidation and southern selling.

January sold off from 20.22 to 20.13c, but demand improved somewhat on the decline, and the market was fairly steady at the end of the first hour. Part of the early selling was attributed to western and Wall street interests and may have been influenced to some extent by reports of an easier tone in the stock market.

Private cables said there had been trade calling and continental buying in Liverpool, but that business in cotton cloths and yarns was rather restricted.

The market recovered 4 or 5 points of its earlier losses, but the volume of business tapered off on the bulge and the market was quiet at midday, with the active months showing net declines of 2 or 3 points.

NEW U. S. ISSUES OVERSOLD

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—(AP.)—Secretary Mellon announced today that the two issues of Treasury certificates of indebtedness to be issued December 15 maturing in nine months and a year had been oversubscribed.

The subscriptions to the issue running for nine months amounted to $262,000,000 and that for one year amounted to $367,000,000.

The issues, which are to provide the government's December financing, were to amount to approximately $200,000,000 and $200,000,000. The Secretary said that later announcements as to the subscriptions and the allotments would be made when final reports are received from Federal Reserve banks.

The PACKARD EIGHT DE LUXE

RECENTLY we invited you to see the new Packard Standard Eight, built in ten distinctive models on the popular 126 and 133 inch wheelbases, and amazingly priced from $2435 to $2835 at the factory.

Later we told you about the improved models of the Packard Custom Eight, available in nine beautiful and luxurious body types on the new 140 inch wheelbase chassis and ranging in price from $3175 to $3850 at Detroit.

Now we announce the finest of all fine motor cars—the Packard De Luxe Eight.

Built for those who desire the supreme degree of luxury in motor car transportation, the Packard De Luxe Eight is offered in nine superb models on a new chassis of 145 inch wheelbase—the largest, roomiest, most perfectly appointed car Packard has ever produced.

With bodies by Packard, factory prices range from $4585 for the sleek and slender Runabout to $5985 for the dignified and distinguished Sedan Limousine. In addition nearly a score of special bodies of individual design by America's foremost custom coach builders are provided.

An unlimited choice of color combinations is available for all De Luxe models. Upholstery may be specified from the world's leading sources of rich leathers and fine fabrics. Fittings conform to a new standard of motor car elegance. Packard has spared no pains to make the De Luxe Eight well worthy of its name.

But not alone for its characteristic grace of line and beauty of finish, not alone for its rich and deeply cushioned upholstery does this big new Packard Eight merit the name De Luxe.

The matchless performance of the improved and refined Straight Eight motor, with its nine-bearing crankshaft, means a new luxury in smooth power flow and flexibility.

The Packard Shock Absorbing System, a unique new combination of Packard and European inventions, means riding comfort and safety unattainable in any other make of car. Literally and without qualification the Packard Eight of today is the easiest riding car in the world—as well as the safest.

May we put this De Luxe Packard at your disposal for a day—so that you may experience its new achievements in motoring luxury? Then if you wish to purchase, we will appraise your present car fairly and apply its value against the price of the new one—arranging the remainder in convenient monthly payments, if you wish to buy from income, as so many do. When may we serve you?

LAST QUARTER TO BE BEST OF YEAR

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

Prediction that the final three months of this year would yield the steel companies the greatest earnings of any quarter in 1928 are now assured of fulfillment. October started with ingot production well over 85 per cent of capacity for most producers and the year end decline in demand has been exceptionally moderate.

Ingot production is now at about 80 per cent of capacity. Most consumers are still specifying for good tonnages in spite of the usual desire to keep inventories at a minimum over the year end.

Judging from orders received from Detroit, the automobile makers have sharply curtailed production, but this is only a temporary lull. The completion of inventory taking will see production started on new models. The automobile trade is enthusiastic in its predictions of 1929 business. One steel man in discussing prospective demand from motor car makers said: "I have given up discounting their optimism. It is too often justified by actual results."

FORD SPEEDS UP

The steady advance in Ford's output will keep the total production of automobiles at a remarkably high rate during this month. Production has been pushed up to 6,400 cars a day and Ford is now aiming at the 10,000 mark. Ford still has a tremendous volume of unfilled orders so that it will be far into the summer before any possibility of his production reaching a peak can be seen.

Although no advance in bars, plates and shapes will take place on first quarter business, several other lines will enjoy quotations $2 a ton higher than prices being received on current shipments. These include sheets, tin plate and wire.

With such a high rate of activity at the end of September and only small consumer inventories, there is every reason to believe that the first quarter of the year will start with a good volume. Prices also will be generally satisfactory for the steel makers so that earnings as large or possibly larger than in the current three months seem likely.

1928 GOOD YEAR

Steel men may look back on 1928 as a record of great achievement. The year started with a poor volume in most types of products. It is ending with an excellent demand. It started with low prices. It is ending with bars, plates and shapes $3 a ton higher and similar advances in other products.

The only important steel consuming industry which has not been using a normal tonnage of steel is railroad car building. The oil industry has brought production under control and has resumed drilling activity. The development of large pipe line projects has been widespread. This has brought the pipe makers out of the worst slump in years and has given them big volume of sales at good prices.

The sheet makers, who have been the most chronic sufferers from price cutting, are now on a profitable basis. Production for the last month has been close to capacity.

TIN HIGHER

Tin plate, which has had a series of good years, will start 1929 with operations at about 90 per cent of capacity and prices $2 a base box higher.

Steel producers, however, still point out that although current business is satisfactory, the industry, in the long run, has not earned a satisfactory return on the investment. When the good years are averaged with the bad ones steel is not yielding a fair percentage. Recent years have been showing improvement in this respect.

The excessive production capacity secured during the war was blamed for this for several years, but the recent growth in the volume of business indicates that much of the trouble can be laid at the door of poor sales policies. It took all of 1928 to counteract the foolish price cutting in 1927. Without the heritage of low prices at the beginning of the year, all of the quarters of 1928 would have been good from an earnings standpoint instead of only the final two.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

Rails Rally Market.

Strength in a number of the leading railroad stocks helped keep the market on an even keel today after a weak opening. Pennsylvania was up $2 a share and higher prices were registered by the carriers as a group. Packard and General Motors were under noticeable pressure in the early trading but had regained their losses around noon. The oils were firm, Houston Oil recovering slightly from its sharp decline of yesterday. The coppers and steels were firm. Westinghouse Electric had a substantial gain. Call money declined from 8 to 7½ per cent.

Expecting Plentiful Money.

Money promises to be in good supply today, although banks will doubtless call some loans in preparation for adjusting reserves at the Federal Reserve Bank on Friday. There has been considerable liquidation of loans during the week and margins on stocks have been considerably enlarged, so demands of stock exchange houses, while still very great, are proportionately less. In addition, the market has been more freely supplied with funds for several days past. As during the past few days, it is expected money would be on offer in the outside market fractionally lower than the officially posted rate.

These chains had 2,345 stores in operation during October, an increase in number of 19.6 per cent over last year and of 1.1 per cent over September. As result of this increase in number of stores, average sales per store were 6.9 per cent below a year ago, although they ran 4.4 per cent heavier than in September. As compared with October, 1927, sales of cigar, musical instrument and women's clothing chains declined, while those by grocery, 5-and-10-cent, drug, shoe, men's clothing and furniture chains were larger. All groups recorded gains in aggregate sales over September.

Building Permits Down.

The preliminary report on permitted for building for November, published last week by Bradstreets, with 143 cities of the United States contributing, showed a rather precipitate decrease in value, 23 per cent, in that month from the like month a year ago. With returns now available from 192 identical cities for November this year and last, this decrease is shown to have been slightly reduced, viz., to 16.3 per cent. Even with this shading, however, the decline in permitted for building in November constitutes the largest percentage of decrease recorded in any month back to October, 1927, and the decrease shown gains additional interest from the fact that in October this year a small increase, viz., seven-tenths of 1 per cent, was shown over the like month a year ago. The decrease in November also enlarges the percentage of falling off shown in permit values for the year to date.

Mistake in Packard.

The mistake of the stock ticker yesterday in printing a sale of 50,000 Packard at 158 caused much unsettlement. The sale should have been 5,000 shares. The whole list advanced on this big transaction, Packard selling up to 160. At 2:45 p. m. the specialist in Packard refused to accept any further orders in the stock. The rush in Packard was so great he was swamped. Following the bidding up of the price to 165 a committee of governors of the Stock Exchange ruled the high price was to be 163. Under this ruling if the sellers of Packard at prices above 163 decline to accept that, price trades are cancelled.

U. S. MAY MAIL JURY CALLS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—(AP.)—Rejection by Comptroller General McCarl of an 80-cent postage bill incurred by Attorney General Sargent's office for the summoning of a Federal juror by registered mail, may result in a change in the law.

As a result of McCarl's decision, Chairman Graham of the House Judiciary Committee drafted a bill which would provide for the summoning of a juror by registered mail, whether he is in immediate vicinity or at a distant place from the court. Under the present law, only Federal jurors who cannot be reached by court officers can be summoned by registered mail. He added the proposed measure would eliminate a deficiency in the law and reduce the expense of summoning jurors.

Transit Problem Arouses Pittsburgh's Civic Spirit

There appeared in the news columns of the Sun-Telegraph yesterday a suggestion from a public-spirited citizen for the relief of downtown traffic congestion.

This is one of numerous similar expressions that have appeared in Pittsburgh papers during the last year. It proposes that all streets in the business section of the city be roofed at the second story and these aerial streets be used exclusively for passenger vehicles.

The adoption of this idea would turn over to pedestrians the present surface streets in the retail district. The casual observer might look upon such a plan as visionary, but it is not regarded in that light by engineers engaged in studying the traffic problem.

Winters Haydock, directing engineer of the Department of City Transit, complimented J. H. O'Donnell for offering this "constructive suggestion."

Mr. Haydock naturally would not commit himself to the proposition without a thorough examination of all its details, but the important point is that citizens interested in the growth and welfare of the city are turning their attention to solving the transit problem.

There is no better sign of public spirit and civic consciousness than the interest manifested by residents of all classes in securing for the city better transportation. This means improved service for street car and bus riders, coupled with greater convenience and more safety for the pedestrian.

Good is sure to come from the study of this question by the layman as well as the specialist.

Due to the multiplicity of suggestions a method certainly will be devised adequately to meet the needs of the proposed Metropolitan District.

Sanity Is Flu Guard; Take Care—Don't Worry

Here and there cases of influenza have appeared in Pittsburgh. They would be of no significance were their appearance not associated with the fact that the disease, recently epidemic in Los Angeles, appears to be sweeping eastward. Hence health department officials are taking precautions to prevent the malady obtaining a foothold in our schools, if possible.

There is nothing to be alarmed about, medical men believe, but they stress the importance of caution. Dr. T. C. Conover, county medical director, advises that health rules be observed. Get sufficient sleep, eat sensibly, guard against colds, take care of elimination and don't worry. Then if the flu grips you, go to bed and call a doctor.

Sanity is the best guard against the possibility of a flu epidemic and panic would be the greatest aid it could receive. It is not possible to prevent the arrival of the disease, perhaps, since it is one that medical science knows little about. Resistance will help to throw it off and resistance is built up mentally as well as physically. Don't worry.

Not Beautiful Exactly
But She Works, and Is SINCERE.

Lenin upset one throne and many grand dukes, giving Russia's land to the peasants, holding back the forces of Europe and the United States when they tried to interfere. He is dead.

Here you see his widow lecturing to students of peasant villages in Eastern Russia.

Americans would not agree with her theories, but those that amount to anything will respect HER SINCERITY.

She is a Communist, and lives up to it, poorly dressed, living simply, when her husband by stretching out his hand could have taken the millions of the Czar and the grand dukes, as many others would have done.

The widow of Lenin lectures under her maiden name of Krupskaya.

She tells peasants that her husband's theories will work. We Americans believe that they won't.

He taught that the proletariat, those that earn a living with their muscles, should rule the world.

He believed this, but he and Trotzky ruled THE PROLETARIAT.

It's a truth as old as life itself, that the HEAD must rule the feet. The feet cannot guide the head.

However, if the head fails to take care of the feet, they rebel. That's what happened in Russia. The next head will be more intelligent, perhaps.

To Your Friends in Other Cities

New York Day by Day
by O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—Manhattan's homegoing rush, long a delirium of utter confusion, is growing worse. New Yorkers are accustomed to the diurnal flurry but for the stranger there is a never forgotten spectacle in the swift rush, clang and claxoning madness.

The Big Push is between 5 and 6 and at no time does the city seem so terrifying. In crowded centers it becomes a stampede with life and disaster separated by a hair's breadth. More than two million people leave the city nightly for the suburbs.

The heaviest stream of pedestrianic traffic is across Forty-second street, where commuters fairly dog trot along to catch trains. It requires 10 traffic cops to keep them moving at Forty-second street and Fifth avenue, the pivotal point of congestion when the rush is on.

Times Square, Brooklyn Bridge, Fourteenth street and Grand Central are the high spots of underground jams. The subway kiosks swallow millions like human gophers scurrying into their holes. Then there are the melees at ferries, on elevated platforms and in the tubes.

That this traffic task is performed in an hour is one of the city's miracles. The dead calm and desolation on New York streets between 7 and 8, before the night crowds begin moving, is almost a touch of the supernatural. The most striking illustration of tranquility is in Wall street.

After sundown the only show of the fast and furious life of the day are the geysers of steam from the street gratings and the sprinkling of lonely night watchmen guarding the nation's hoard of gold. To all appearances Wall street becomes a completely abandoned area.

In spite of the rush hour tautness, there is a commercial consideration and friendliness among galloping city folk. The lame and blind always find help at their elbows. There is time to pitch coins into beggars' tin cups and to exchange greetings with those people one has learned to know only by sight.

There is admiration in the homegoing rush among husbands, who find it difficult to powder a stationary back, in watching perky flapper types from office buildings powder their noses, rouge their lips and indulge other cosmetic artifices as they gallop past window mirrors.

* * *

The hurrying crowds snatch evening papers from newstands without payment, to save time, and it is a tribute to the city's honesty that newsies rarely lose a penny. There are innumerable corner stands where attendants withdraw during the rush hour so patrons will not feel forced to fumble for change.

* * *

The Fuller Building has been known since it was built by its nickname, The Flatiron Building—imposed by a headline writer. Recently the name was officially changed to the latter. The building, which so resembles a ship's prow headed up Broadway, had an air of desolation for a year or so due to the northward sweep, but after a complete renovation has bloomed with new activity again. In the outland The Flatiron is the best known building in New York, and is owned by a lawyer in Seattle.

Delicatessen sign: "All the tripe you can eat—50 cents." Even at that price it would never become a weakness. I'm a tripe atheist.

* * *

From a circular just received from a haberdashery: "Patrons who inspect our shirtings are permitted to select whatever designs suiting their fancy." It may be all right, but it seems a radical move.

Tales That Are Told

Salesmanship

THE shoe salesman adjusted the buckle on his customer's shoe and critically surveyed the result.

"Are you sure these shoes are the size I asked for?" queried the lady with the large foot, as she stood up. "They seem to be a little on the tight side when I try to walk."

The man smiled discreetly behind his hand.

"No madam," he replied suavely, as he deftly removed the shoes, which were exactly the size she had ordered; "these are two sizes smaller, but I must admit you were right, after all."

The Simple Truth

IT had already struck the midnight hour when Brown heard a clattering noise outside his house. He investigated and found his neighbor moving.

"Leaving us, Smith?" he asked.

"Right, first go," said the other.

"What for—neighbors?"

"No."

"Rent hasn't been raised?"

"No; that's why I'm leaving."

"But surely— Great Scott, you don't object to that, do you?"

"No," said Smith, "not in the least; but the landlord does."

Discretion

HE was rather a pathetic figure. He had the soul of the real sheik, but could by no means be called good-looking. One afternoon he called at the house of a girl friend, and, while waiting for her to appear, was entertained by her 10-year-old brother.

"Well," remarked the young man, with a smile, "what do you think of me?"

The boy maintained a discreet silence.

"Aren't you going to say?"

"No," was the firmly given reply. "I was never a fighting man."

Cool and Calm

THE angry grocer ran swiftly round the counter and seized his fair customer by her arm.

"Do you know, madam," he blurted, "that your dog has eaten a pound of my best fresh country butter? I saw him do it a second ago!"

The fair customer relieved the grocer of her arm and regarded him coldly.

"I did not know it," she replied icily, "but if you are quite sure it was your best butter, that it is quite fresh, and that it really did come from the country, I don't think there is much reason to suppose it will do him any harm."

With these words she left the shop.—London Answers.

Worst Story I Have Heard Today
By WILL ROGERS

BALD-HEADED men are still pretty good for jokes. I think about all the jokes in the world have been twisted around somehow at one time or another so that they could apply to bald-headed men and mother-in-laws. Although, I don't see anything so very funny about either one of them.

This here bald-headed man was in a barber's chair, and the barber says, "You are getting pretty bald on top, did you know that?"

"Yes, I knowed it."

"Well, have you ever tried our Sure-Fire Guaranteed Hair-Grower?"

"No," says the customer, kinda mad like, "it wasn't that stuff that done it! It was some other green colored stuff you were recommending six months ago!"

LISTEN, WORLD!
By Elsie Robinson

SOMEONE writes bitterly, "I wish I could trust people."

Evidently that writer thinks that trust is a gift beyond one's control—something one has or hasn't, like red hair or warts.

Not so.

Someone else has said, "Trust is an acquired accomplishment."

That is the truth.

It's up to you whether you trust people or not.

We pick our own attitude in this world.

We cannot control the shenanigans of fate, but we can control our own reactions.

We can take out of life what we want to take out of it—we can give back what we want to give back.

We can find plenty of reasons for not trusting people if we want to find them—treachery, unkindness, weakness, viciousness—these things are easy to find. And, having found them, we can respond with suspicion and hate and fear.

That's one way of taking life.

But we can also find plenty of reasons for trusting people if we want to find them. Honesty, generosity, loyalty, nobility—these attributes are also easy to find if we will look for them. Oddly enough, they are often found in the very people whom we had judged to be weak and treacherous. Having found them we can respond with love and trust—if we so decide.

Trust isn't thrust upon us. It doesn't just happen to mature, critical people. It is something we must deliberately choose for ourselves. And we can choose it if we wish.

We can deliberately choose to ignore ugliness and fix our eyes upon beauty. That doesn't mean that we will remain ignortant of ugliness or eliminate it by our attitude. It simply means that we will have chosen to look upon the lovelier side of life.

And this seems to me the only procedure worthy of an intelligent human being. Why should we explore and expect the gross in life when we have our choice and may explore and effect the fine?

Why drink at muddy springs when clear water is available?

After all, who are we to sit in judgment on our fellow man? Can we tell why a white dream burns beneath the hairy hide of this city cousin to the ape? We can't. Then why not take a chance on the poor blundering biped? Why not trust him to make good? God did.

CONTINENT'S BIRTH
By Garrett P. Serviss

LOOK at the map of the world and observe the singular region between Asia and Australia occupied by the shallow seas that wash the East Indian islands, including in that general term everything from the Philippines to the shores of Australia and from Sumatra to New Guinea. If your map is one of that instructive kind which indicates sea depth as well as land elevation, you will perceive that if water no deeper than 100 fathoms (600 feet) is represented as if it were land, the result will be that a vast continental extension, rivaling Africa in extent, will be seen stretching southeastward, covering all the area now occupied by hundreds of islands, and joining Australia to Asia.

The first thought that springs into the mind on seeing this is that there must have been a time when the immense Euro-Asiatic continent really had this eastward extension to the south as if for a balance to Africa on the west. Perhaps it was so; perhaps an East Indian Atlantic does lie sunken between Australia and Malaysia, but the peculiar character of the native forms of life has been thought to negative this supposition.

But if there is not an ancient continent lying there just under the sea surface, then, perhaps, there is a future continent like a chick ready to break its shell trying already to rise out of the watery covering and showing the point of its bill in the form of coral decorated islands and sometimes of volcanic cones.

Such, at any rate, appears to be the thought in the back of the minds of certain Dutch scientists who are about to begin an extensive exploration of the sea and the sea bottom in this region, which is very largely under Dutch control. Holland has made some land on the shore of the North Sea with an industry that has been the admiration of the world and if it can now discover a new continent about (thinking in terms of geological time) to emerge from the ocean and join its colonies, the applause will match the wonder.

It is certain that uncommon geological activity and disturbance occur in the East Indies. Java and Sumatra and the sea around them are extraordinary on account of the number of volcanic events found there, as well as for the tremendous power exhibited by many of the volcanoes. The bottom of the broken sea containing the grouped islands between Borneo, Celebes and New Guinea is very irregular and contains deep depressions surrounded by elevations which resemble the "folds" that gave rise to such mountains as the Alps.

The folding of the crust under sea in this region is attributed to a horizontal compression taking place between Asia on the north and Australia on the south. The response to this is a gradual rising of the sea bottom in folds and ridges, which are the beginnings of mountains. If this would only go on fast enough to show its progress plainly year after year, or decade after decade, a complete history of mountain birth observed by human eyes and measured by human instruments might eventually be written. But even the partial and imperfect observations that can actually be made may, with the aid of the scientific imagination ranging into future milleniums, give us a clear picture of the situation when the great Oriental land mass forming Asia and Europe shall appear on the maps of the far future like a two-legged monster striding over the equator.

Bible Passages

Sermon on the Mount
(Matthew 5: 1-12)

AND seeing the multitudes, he went up into a mountain; and when he was set, his disciples came unto him:

And he opened his mouth, and taught them, saying,

Blessed are the poor in spirit: for their's is the kingdom of heaven.

Blessed are they that mourn: for they shall be comforted.

Blessed are the meek: for they shall inherit the earth.

Blessed are they which do hunger and thirst after righteousness: for they shall be filled.

Blessed are the merciful: for they shall obtain mercy.

Blessed are the pure in heart: for they shall see God.

Blessed are the peacemakers: for they shall be called the children of God.

Blessed are they which are persecuted for righteousness' sake: for their's is the kingdom of heaven.

Blessed are ye, when men shall revile you, and persecute you, and shall say all manner of evil against you falsely, for my sake.

Rejoice, and be exceeding glad: for great is your reward in heaven: for so persecuted they the prophets which were before you.

Debts We Owe

SO many, many debts we owe,
The ancients, kind and wise,
For all the ages past bestow
On us their legacies.

So many debts we make each day,
Great debts for friendship's cheer,
For childhood's laughter, ringing gay,
For love that makes life dear.

The debts for toil and debts for dreams
Are endless, link on link,
Yet still our debt most weighty seems
To him who makes us think!

To him who opens vistas new
Our deepest toast we drink,
Through him life grows more fair, more true,
The man who makes us think!

Isn't It So?

Truth never gets so old as to bear the marks of decay.

TOO ROWDY
By Herbert Kaufman

HALLOWEEN must mend its ways or end its days. No self-respecting people will long submit to the deliberate sabotage and malicious mischief that now annually parades in Fun's old masks.

Excess is always responsible for reaction. Abused liberties invariably provoke the laws that restrict them.

Wherever lids have been clamped on former privileges, an outraged public was compelled to protect itself.

"Tick-tack," apple-bobbing, doorbell ringing and harmless buffoonery seem too tame for a generation that demands the right of public petting and carries a hip flask to high school parties.

The innocent pranks of your boyhood don't tickle its funny bone. Adolescence now hungers for stronger and "higher" meats.

Its conception of a good time is characteristically illustrated by the recent experience of Hudson River towns, where valuable fences were demolished and burned, manure and swill heaped on porches, shop windows covered with soap-scribbled obscenities, and wire cables stretched across street turns at windshield height, at the risk of decapitating drivers.

No one wishes to deprive youth of a single play hour, but such outrages as these are inspired by ruffianism, not play spirit.

Metropolitan congestion and traffic intensity have absorbed former larking grounds; gone are the vacant lots that echoed to the swat of bats and the spit of roasting potatoes.

There's no room for prisoner's base or hop-scotch on crowded sidewalks, and none between streams of passing cars for football practice or hide-and-seek.

But sympathetic understanding of changed conditions is one thing, and submission to hooliganism quite another.

Boys can be boys without becoming incendiaries, wreckers and rotters.

Contempt for property rights, life and limb, expressed by hoodlum outbreaks, even one day per year, tends to encourage gangster tendencies through the rest of the year, and must in time lessen respect for all law and order.

If Halloween won't stick to "safety and sanity," it deserves a reformatory.

OH, THESE WOMEN
By Leola Allard

EVERY mother should give her son for Christmas, a copy of the jolly American laws on breach of promise.

Nothing that a boy learns in college could do him more good than finding out what can be done to a wad of money, by a temporary lapse of consciousness and a gorgeous girl.

These laws seem to have been thought out by men who parked their imaginations or didn't have any. They were gallant gentlemen who believed in Easter rabbits and a Santa Claus. They thought all women who got themselves into terrible messes were "wronged," and that all mothers were good mothers.

Judge William Gemmill, of Chicago, should hire out as adviser extraordinary to the young men of this generation. He has studied these laws and discovered their sharp teeth. He has even written books about them.

Yesterday a woman in the East sued a man and all he ever did was write "your future husband" on a photograph. It wasn't much, but it was enough and the woman collected.

The best spotlight with which to equip a romance, is a copy of the laws that permit a woman to get large damages in hard money, because a man let his tongue slip.

It isn't the WAY you say it, it's what you say and before whom, that brings in the favorable verdict.

If there is a lapse in conversation, don't fill it in with a remark that might be construed as an invitation to marry. If you say at a wedding: "We would look well standing up there getting married, wouldn't we?" and the girl says "yes," you have asked her to marry you and she has accepted, and the fact that you didn't know it, won't save you in a court of so-called justice. If you don't believe it ask Judge Gemmill, where such a thing actually happened and he heard the case. Under the law the judge must give damages.

As for writing love letters, the smartest men do it when they know they shouldn't. Ink has caused more trouble than bichloride of mercury. Of course the percentage of women who use love letters for suits is very small, but it's enough to keep the newspapers well supplied with funny stories. And editors know that there is nothing that the public likes better than the other fellow's love letters. It's like laughing at the man who steps on a banana peeling.

ONCE OVERS
By J. J. Mundy

ARE you sure that you do not carry it too far, this dropping in at the home of a friend?

You think the hospitable way that you are received is evidence of welcome.

't may be courteous desire not to offend, more than pleasure, that you are considering as a welcome.

It is easy to wear out a real welcome if you go too often anywhere.

There are times when families prefer to be alone.

They cannot do as they please with outsiders constantly around.

It is also inconsiderate to keep running in when there are callers or guests unless you are especially asked.

It is most annoying to have guests and not be able to say anything personal to them because of a third and supposedly disinterested person present.

Look back a few weeks and think how many times you have intruded.

Not always in the same place but many times you have dropped in here or there and remained longer than the outsiders you found there.

Do these people upon whom you call so often come to your home as many times and as informally?

That is a question you should ask yourself.
